Harper board OKs faculty pact

A faculty contract for the 1976-77 school year was approved Wednesday by the Harper College Board of Trustees.

The board voted 6-1 to ratify the contract for the 202 full-time faculty members at Harper. The faculty union, on behalf of the teachers, unanimously approved the contract Monday.

The contract agreement was reached June 11 following several weeks of court-ordered negotiations. Contract talks began early this year but stopped in April when the board declared negotiations had ended. The faculty in

May won a court-order requiring the board to return to the bargaining table.

The new contract grants a $1,375 raise to all faculty members except those whose increased salary will exceed the maximum range set for their

Pros to test Olympic team tonight

by BOB FRISK

Time is not on the side of the U.S. Olympic basketball team.

It is very difficult to achieve total cohesion in any team sport in just four weeks.

Just how much progress has been made? Area basketball fans will be the judges tonight.

A capacity crowd of 3,500 will jam the Prospect High School fieldhouse at 8 p.m. today for the only Midwest appearance by the team. Coach Dean Smith's Olympians will battle the Midwest All-Stars coached by Ray

Meyer of DePaul University.

ALTHOUGH THE game is a sellout, it will be broadcast on WMM-FM (92.7), starting at 7:30 p.m.

The contest is cosponsored by the Mount Prospect State Bank and Prospect High School Boosters Club. The Olympic team will arrive in the afternoon today and depart Friday morning after staying at the Arlington Park Hilton.

"I'm greatly impressed with the attitude and unselfishness of our team," said Smith as he prepared to bring the Olympians to Mount Prospect.

"The players are giving up six-footers when someone else has a layup attempt. This is one of the best shooting teams ever — college or pro!"

Smith's team split with the professional Denver Nuggets in two appearances and then handled the Spanish Olympic team and Israeli Nationals. They shot an incredible 81 per cent in overwhelming the Israelis, 123-69, but should have more problems tonight against a team of professionals coached by Meyer.

THE MIDWEST All-Stars have had three practice sessions at Prospect

High. A definite lineup was still unsettled Wednesday, depending on the availability of certain players, but Clifford Ray of the Golden State Warriors has joined the club.

Ray, a former member of the Chicago Bulls, will now operate with Bob Love and Mickey Johnson of the Bulls in a front line that should give the Olympians an interesting argument. The 6-9, 222-pound Ray starred on the Warriors' 1975 NBA champions after being traded to Golden State for Nate Thurmond. He is only a fair shooter but a ferocious rebounder and tough defensive player.

Junior Bridgeman of the Milwaukee Bucks also joined the Midwest All-Stars Wednesday. The 6-5, 210-pound Bridgeman was a two-time Missouri Valley Conference MVP at Louisville, who was acquired from the Los Angeles Lakers in the Abdul-Jabbar deal.

The Midwest entry needs all the firepower it can put together because the Olympic team has class at every position, particularly at forward where 6-7 Scott May — college player of the

19 buildings proposed

Apartment development gets planning unit OK

A planned development of 19 apartment buildings on McKinley Avenue was approved Wednesday by the Arlington Heights Plan Commission.

The development, between Central Road and Davis Street, features two, three and four flat buildings to be owner-occupied. The 19 buildings will have a total of 56 apartment units.

Free bus rides during first week of service

Passengers will be able to ride free during the first week of the commuter bus service between Buffalo Grove and the downtown Arlington Heights train station. The service starts Monday.

"We hope the free fare policy will allow commuters adequate time to become acquainted with the route and service," said Milton Pikarsky Regional Transportation Authority chairman.

After the first week, fares will be 40 cents for adults, 20 cents for children 6 through 11 years old and free for children under 6.

The buses will run from Thompson Boulevard in the Strathmore Grove subdivision to the train station. It will stop at any point on the side streets, but only at intersections on Arlington Heights Road.

SOUTHBOUND ROUTES will begin at Thompson and Knollwood at 6, 6:31, 6:53 and 7:24 a.m. Buses are scheduled to arrive at the Chicago and North Western train station at 6:35, 7:06, 7:28 and 7:59 a.m.

Northbound routes will leave the station at 5:25, 5:58, 6:14 and 7:03 p.m. It is estimated the return trip will take about 30 minutes to Thompson Boulevard.

Two buses will make the runs. The northbound buses will wait for any late-arriving trains.

The new service will be operated on a six-month trial basis by the North Suburban Mass Transit District (NORTRAN) with full RTA funding. After the trial period, RTA will continue 100 per cent funding if the service attracts about 1.7 passengers per mile.

If the system can not meet its operating costs, Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove will have to make up the difference.

The commission approval came on a vote of 7 to 2, with one commissioner passing.

VOTING AGAINST the project were commissioners Kathryn Graham and George Grulke. Both commissioners expressed concerns that the project, while meeting existing zoning requirements, represented an over development of the parcel.

Comr. William Hannum passed on his vote.

"I'm amazed that we're still building on 50 and 55-foot lots," Hannum said.

Comr. Michael Silverman, although voting in favor of the project, said, "I think this is overbuilding on this site despite the fact that there's already multiple (family) zoning on the lot."

COMR. NORMAN Breyer moved for approval of the development, but said his action was "reluctant," Echoing other commissioners, he said even though the development met the village standards, he would rather see a project with lower density.

William Hastings, architect for the project, said the buildings were designed to be sold separately and to be occupied by the owner with the other apartments of the buildings to be rented or used for relatives.

Hastings said the buildings would be priced in excess of $100,000.

Four different designs would be incorporated into the buildings, Hastings said, to avoid the appearance of a row of identical apartment buildings.

Despite the four designs, Joe Kesler, village planner, submitted a report saying "the over-all appearance is monotonous." Kesler said a previous plan for the site calling for townhouses was "very much superior" to the apartment buildings approved.

Warren panel never got vital data: Senate report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Warren Commission never considered the possibility that John F. Kennedy's assassination was arranged by Fidel Castro because the CIA never told the panel about plans to kill the Cuban premier, according to a Senate study released Wednesday.

The 106-page report said the CIA and FBI withheld certain vital data from the Warren Commission, including secret reports about two mysterious travelers who fled to Cuba after Kennedy's murder in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963 — another failure to look into "the Cuban connection."

While the report, prepared by a task force directed by Sens. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., and Gary Hart, D-Colo., pointed to several new leads, it said it had no evidence to overturn the Warren Commission's conclusion Lee Harvey Oswald was Kennedy's sole assassin, acting alone.

But Schweiker said the CIA and FBI were engaged in "a coverup" that kept the Warren Commission from following every lead and "there is no longer any reason to have faith in its picture of the Kennedy assassination." He said a new investigation is needed "before the American people will ever know the truth."

The report said former CIA Director Allen W. Dulles, one of the seven members of the Warren Commission, never told the six other members

4 hurt in explosion at Rosemont plant

Four employees were injured Wednesday night in an explosion and flash fire at the Chicago Mastic Co., 7100 N. Mannheim Rd., Rosemont. Suffering second- and third-degree burns on more than 50 percent of his face was Wyman Thurmas, 33, of 5514 Winchester, Chicago. Purcel Rogers, 31, of 1007 Higgins Rd., Rosemont, suffered second- and third-degree burns on his arms. Both were admitted to Resurrection Hospital, Chicago, and are in fair condition.

Also injured, suffering cuts and bruises, were William Hoffman, 28, of 7422 Jensen, Hanover Park, and Calvin Golden, 39, of 8318 S. Carpenter, Chicago. Both were treated and released from Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge. The fire occurred shortly after 9 p.m. Firefighters from five Northwest suburbs were called to put out the fire. Firefighters are investigating the cause of the explosion, the second one at the firm in two months. The fire was confined to the second floor. Chicago Mastic manufactures chemicals for adhesives and fertilizer.

Heavy rains drench area

Despite heavy rains and wind Wednesday, the Northwest suburbs were able to get away with nothing more than a good soaking. Police throughout the area reported there were no complaints of flooding. Only Park Ridge police reported a fallen power line. Police there also reported sighting a funnel cloud about 6:30 p.m. A funnel cloud also was reported in Wood Dale. Neither funnel cloud touched down. Jack Stephens, district superintendent for Commonwealth Edison, said about 100 customers in the area of Wilke and Kirchoff roads near Arlington Heights and Rolling Meadows, were without power for about 1½ hours Wednesday afternoon because of a downed power line.

Policeman back on active duty

An Elk Grove Village patrolman, who has been on inactive duty for 15 months while receiving full pay, has been ordered back to active duty by a Cook County Circuit Court judge. Patrolman William Jaworski, 33, was ordered back to work Wednesday by Judge Raymond K. Berg, who ruled the patrolman could wear his badge and uniform, but not his gun, and suggested he be given clerical duties. Jaworski has been drawing his $1,328 monthly pay since April 5, 1975, when he allegedly shot a Mount Prospect man, Timothy Engelson, 19, of 308 Hi-Lusi Ave., in the stomach while investigating a traffic accident. A $1 million civil suit against Jaworski was filed by Engelson. Village officials had placed Jaworski on inactive duty until the civil suit is settled.

$10,000 fire in Schaumburg plant

Fire caused an estimated $10,000 damage Wednesday to a Schaumburg factory. Damage was limited to the interior of the building and no injuries were reported. The fire started at 10 a.m. at CPC Swimming Pool Equipment Corp., 622 Lunt Ave., when a chemical used in the production of Fiberglass walls for swimming pools reacted with another substance and ignited.

Suburbs threaten lawsuit if county head tax gets OK

A lawsuit by suburban communities challenging the constitutionality of the Cook County employee head tax appears likely if the county board adopts the new tax.

Officials of Schaumburg and Elk Grove Village Tuesday took steps to set the stage for action against such a tax.

Elk Grove Village Atty. Edward Hofert was authorized Tuesday to begin researching the tax's constitutionality. At nearly the same time, the Schaumburg village board voted to participate in a lawsuit challenging the tax and to urge other communities to join it.

The proposed $3-per-month tax would be paid on each employee in profit-making businesses employing 15 or more persons. Two-thirds of the money from the tax will be given to Chicago and suburban municipalities as part of a county revenue-sharing program.

WILLIAM MUHLENFELD, executive director of the Northwest Municipal Conference, said Wednesday he expects the other members of the conference, in addition to Elk Grove and Schaumburg, to join a lawsuit if the county adopts the tax.

"We are waiting to see if the county adopts it," Muhlenfeld said. "I think the feelings are strong enough that we should be able to put something together."

The Municipal Conference members, made up of all Northwest suburban communities, unanimously voted to oppose the tax two days after it was proposed earlier this month. Communities such as Elk Grove, which have many businesses that would have to pay the taxes, were joined by nonindustrial communities that would stand to gain from the revenue-sharing part of the tax.

Report vital data withheld from Warren Commission

about CIA plots to kill Castro. Nor did Richard Helms, then CIA Deputy Director for Plans.

Consequently, the commission never looked into the possibility Kennedy's assassination might have been masterminded by Castro as a retaliatory action.

Schweiker said "important leads" had been excised from the report and three intriguing leads never were followed up:

- Kennedy was assassinated at midday in Dallas. The CIA learned in December of 1963 that on the evening of his death a Cubana Airlines plane going to Cuba was delayed from 6 p.m. to 11 p.m. at Mexico City Airport. An unidentified passenger arrived at 10:30 p.m. aboard a twin-engine plane, boarded the airliner without going through customs, and entered the cockpit for the flight to Cuba.

- The day after the assassination, a mysterious Cuban-American — possibly a Cuban agent — crossed from Texas to Mexico, according to CIA data. He flew to Cuba with an expired U.S. passport containing a Cuban "courtesy visa" Nov. 27. He was the only passenger on a flight with a crew of nine.

- Four years after the murder, a Washington, D.C., lawyer volunteered information to the FBI which he asserted could lead to conspirators in an alleged plot to kill Kennedy. President Lyndon B. Johnson became aware of the possibility the assassination had been engineered by Cuba and pressed for investigation. But this inquiry petered out.

Schweiker said, "The nondisclosures and investigative failures — intentional and otherwise — documented in this report establish the Warren Commission was deprived of such vital pieces that there is no longer any reason to have faith in its picture of the Kennedy assassination."

"I am convinced we need a new investigation with access to all the pieces, before the American people will ever know the truth."

The report said the committee "emphasizes that it has not uncovered any evidence sufficient to justify a conclusion that there was a conspiracy" to assassinate Kennedy, but it "developed evidence which impeaches the process by which the intelligence agencies arrived at their own conclusions about the assassination, and by which they provided information to the Warren Commission."

"This evidence indicates that the investigation of the assassination was deficient..."

Photos show swift rivers may have flowed on Mars

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — The first close-up pictures of the area of Mars where Viking 1 will land showed sharp definition Wednesday of large craters, volcanic debris and channels apparently once carved by swiftly flowing streams.

"We have begun site certification and we have begun it with a bang," Gentry Lee, a Jet Propulsion Laboratory scientist said.

The pictures were snapped by the orbiting spacecraft over its nearest approach to Mars.

Lee said the first pictures printed from the Viking-to-Earth transmission showed deep broad channels that were probably gouged out by swift rivers in some past Martian age.

But wind erosion was not immediately ruled out as a cause of the surface features. Dr. Hal Masursky, head of the site certification team, said the pictures showed different features which require thorough analysis.

"But we see features like this in the great Columbia floods after the last ice age on Earth," he said. "We are more and more convinced there was a massive flow of water."

Earlier, scientists described a nutrient "chicken soup — a smorgasbord of organic goodies" to feed any organisms in the Martian soil.

Dr. Harold Klein, head of the biological team for the Viking Mars probe project, explained the three major experiments to be conducted by Viking's compact atomic powered testing chambers.

One of the tests, to see if gases are being produced by the process of bacterial life, will use a liquid nutrient to "feed" whatever organisms might be present in the Martian soil.

"We'll introduce a little nutrient for a humid atmosphere and incubate the sample for a week," Klein said.

"If nothing happens, we'll raise the level of the nutrient to touch the soil. If there are any bugs, they will sense a smorgasbord of organic goodies we carried along for them."

"It's literally a very rich broth. Call it chicken soup, because it has about that level of nutrient," he said.

Klein said the biological tests are based on metabolism, or the process of growth and life, to see if there are living organisms.

Two other tests will be made. The Pyrolytic Release Experiment will detect the presence of living organisms if they live by converting carbon from carbon-dioxide to organic matter.

The Labeled Release Experiment will detect metabolic activity by testing radioactivity of gases generated by organisms fed a radioactive nutrient.

Klein said it may be mid or late August, however, before the presence of a living organism could be confirmed.

THE LAST PERSON to be removed from Allegheny flight 121 is carried into a waiting car at Philadelphia International Airport Wednesday. When the plane was attempting to land during a thunderstorm, the tail section of the DC9 jetliner broke off. According to passengers, everyone on board remained "calm" on impact. Nearly all of the 104 passengers and crewmen aboard were injured.

Philadelphia jet crash injures 103

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — An Allegheny Airlines DC-9 jetliner snapped its tail on the runway of Philadelphia International Airport Wednesday when the pilot apparently tried to pull up to avoid a sheet of heavy rain. Virtually all of the 103 aboard were injured.

The craft, flight 121, originated in Providence, R.I., made a stop in Hartford, Conn., and then was to go on to Memphis, Tenn., after stopping in Philadelphia.

Police said the plane was landing during the storm when the pilot radioed that he was going to "go around." Officials said the plane apparently was attempting to gain altitude when the tail broke off.

Passengers also said the pilot, Carl

Boyer, tried to pull up to avoid the rain when the tail hit the runway. The plane skidded on its belly, coming to a halt on the grass.

"He tried to pull up but couldn't," said Jim Hagarman, 31, of Glenside, Pa., a passenger. "The tail broke off and the plane bounced around."

Boyer, who had been trapped inside the wreckage, was in serious condition at St. Agnes Hospital suffering from back injuries.

The plane's nose and tail broke off, but the fuselage remained intact and there was no fire. The plane's engines were strewn across the runway.

Allegheny officials confirmed the tail of the plane broke off but refused to comment further pending an investigation.

Four persons were admitted to St. Agnes while 16 were treated and released.

Two stewardesses, Marsha Morris and Izidiko Tovligyi, and the co-pilot, John Spencer, were listed in serious condition at Methodist Hospital. Eight others were admitted to Methodist and 42 were treated and released.

At least 17 persons were treated at Taylor Hospital.

Douglas Langlios, 25, West Hartford, Conn., said all passengers exited through the emergency door.

"Everyone was quite calm," he said. "The plane emptied out quickly. Most people I saw walked off the plane."

Philadelphia Fire Department Capt. Frank Scipione, a passenger on the plane, was credited by other passengers with aiding the evacuation and keeping "everything calm."

Fire Commissioner Joseph Rizzo said the plane was emptied within 40 minutes of the crash which occurred about 4:15 p.m. CDT. He said firemen immediately defueled the aircraft to minimize the danger of fire.

The airport was closed about two hours following the crash.

Congress should give the Department of Health, Education and Welfare authority to regulate tobacco and tobacco products because of their cancer-causing potential, the General Accounting Office said Wednesday. ### For murder of Teamster official

'Tony Pro' Provenzano indicted

NEW YORK (UPI) — Reputed mobster Anthony "Tony Pro" Provenzano, key figure in the FBI probe into the disappearance of James R. Hoffa, was indicted Wednesday for the 1961 kidnap-murder of another Teamsters Union official.

Federal authorities said Provenzano, 59, secretary-treasurer of Teamsters Local 560, was charged with three other men in the death of Anthony "Three Fingers Tony" Castellito in his Kerhonkson, N.Y., home.

Others named in the alleged murder scheme were Salvatore Briguglio, 46, of Washington Township, N.J., business agent for Teamster Local 560; George Vangelakos, 47, of Jersey City; Harold "Boom Boom" Konigsberg, 47; and two unidentified co-conspirators.

William I. Aronwald, head of the Justice Department's Organized Crime Strike Force in the Southern District of New York, hinted the slaying may have been motivated by union politics. But he said the indictments had "absolutely nothing" to do with the current Hoffa investigation.

At the time of the murder, Provenzano was president of Local 560 and an ally of Hoffa, former head of the Teamsters Union, with whom Castellito was involved in a bitter feud.

Friends of Hoffa have charged that he was to meet with Provenzano the day he disappeared last July 30. But Provenzano, who had had a falling out with the powerful union leader, denied to a federal grand jury that any such meeting had been scheduled.

The four suspects were charged in a federal indictment with conspiring to kidnap and kidnaping Castellito, who had a long police record dating back to the Prohibition Era.

In addition, Provenzano, Briguglio and Konigsberg were charged with first degree murder in an indictment handed up by an Ulster County grand jury.

At the time Castellito vanished, Provenzano himself issued an appeal to the public and police for help in locating the union official, saying, "Tony's wife and brother are very worried about his disappearance."

If convicted on either the federal or state charges, the defendants could receive life prison terms.

Provenzano, who maintains residences in Clifton, N.J., and Hallendale, Fla., spent several years in jail in the 1960s on extortion charges and is facing new federal charges for a scheme to collect a kickback for granting a $2 million loan from the union's pension fund. Provenzano and Briguglio grinned as they walked handcuffed into the federal courthouse in Newark, N.J.

Many cadets don't sleep alone, says ex-midshipwoman

• Nancy Donnelly of Oxon Hill, Md., who resigned from the Merchant Marine Academy after she was found in bed with her fiancé, says she was the victim of campaign harassment. The 20-year-old ex-midshipwoman said the academy "decided to make an example" of her because she had been found in a dormitory room with five members of the academy rugby team "with the door closed." She said that almost all 25 women at the academy sleep with the cadet boyfriends on campus.

• A neurology specialist from Austria flew to China last week, possibly to treat ailing Communist Party Chairman Mao-Tse-Tung, a Viennese newspaper disclosed Wednesday. Prof. Walther Birkmayer, former head of the neurology department at the Viennese Hospital for the Elderly at Lainz, led a group of physicians traveling through China, the newspaper said. It is highly likely the physicians would confer with Mao's doctors about possible treatment, according to the newspaper.

• Portugal's Prime Minister Jose Pinheiro de Azevedo remained unconscious in the intensive care unit in Oporto Hospital Wednesday following a heart attack he suffered while campaigning for president. His death would force postponement of the Sunday election. Doctors' prognosis for the prime minister's condition was "reserved."

• King Carl XVI Gustaf and Queen Silvia of Sweden Tuesday spent the second day of their surprise Hawaiian honeymoon in the same manner as the first in seclusion. Newsmen have the first — in seclusion. Newsmen have been stymied by Swedish security and U.S. Secret Service agents from obtaining information about the royal couple's activities.

Carter hits foreign policy of Nixon-Ford

by United Press International

Jimmy Carter, who has the Democratic presidential nomination all but locked up, got in a bit of early general-election campaigning Wednesday with a speech in New York tearing into Nixon-Ford foreign policy.

Carter said those two Republican administrations took a "Lone Ranger" approach to foreign affairs, and that if elected he would seek "not a condominium of the powerful but a community of the free."

Ronald Reagan embarks Thursday for a three-day, four-state tour for delegates needed to close the gap with President Ford in the Republican nomination race.

Reagan, who has been campaigning by telephone from his 600-acre ranch near Santa Barbara, Calif., heads Thursday into Mississippi, Minnesota, Wyoming and Montana which have a total of 83 delegates up for grabs.

With eight states still to choose 161 delegates, and with 103 still uncommitted around the country, UPI's latest count showed Ford with 1,047 delegates to Reagan's 948, with 1,130 needed for nomination.

Reagan strategists predicted the former California governor would pick up 100 of the delegates, still be selected and go on to a slender first-ballot victory over Ford at Kansas City in August.

Ford, meantime, devoted a good part of his day at the White House briefing GOP congressional leaders on his legislative proposal to limit school busing, which could be formally presented to Congress as early as Thursday.

Carter attacked Ford's plan Tuesday, saying the country needs a president who instead will fully back school desegregation programs.

House Republican Leader John Rhodes said politics also came up during the 75-minute White House session and that Ford's campaign chairman, Rogers Morton, gave "very optimistic" forecasts on Ford's chances for nomination.

"According to the people running the campaign, the President is in a very good position," Rhodes said.

The President's only announced political activity before leaving Saturday for the economic summit in Puerto Rico is a lunch meeting Friday with 22 GOP delegates from West Virginia — 20 of whom are committed to him.

Carter, billing his appearance as "a major address," told the Foreign Policy Association in a prepared speech:

"Under the Nixon-Ford administration, there has evolved a kind of secretive 'Lone Ranger' foreign policy — a one-man policy of international adventure."

"The time has come," he said, "for us to seek a partnership between North America, Western Europe and Japan."

"We need to recognize that in recent years our Western European allies have been deeply concerned, and justly so, by our unilateral dealings with the Soviet Union . . ."

"We seek not a condominium of the powerful but a community of the free."

IVA TOGURI D'AQUINO, better known to thousands of World War II veterans as "Tokyo Rose," who was convicted of treason in 1949, is hoping she'll receive a Presidential pardon by July 4, which also is her birthday. Mrs. d'Aquino, an American citizen who rarely has her picture taken, is shown in her father's oriental gift shop in Chicago. She said she'll only believe the pardon after receiving official papers.

Daley credits mom for marriage bliss

Forty years to the day after his wedding day, Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley gave his mother credit for helping to make the marriage work. Daley told reporters Wednesday his mother told him, "Don't let the sun go down until you talk to your friends and talk to your wife if you have any differences." The mayor spent most of his anniversary day with his wife, Eleanor, and their children.

Sex behind girl's death

Police said Wednesday "sex and some nut" by behind the killing of Lori Bolger, 16, whose body was found Tuesday near a sewage treatment plant southwest of Elgin. Officers said the girl died of a fractured skull. It has not been determined whether she was raped, but police said her jeans were pulled down and her sweater pulled up. Miss Bolger, who lived in South Elgin with her mother and two brothers, was last seen by her family when she was dropped off for a drivers education class at Larkin High School in Elgin.

Fireworks illegal in state: Johnson

Firecrackers, sparklers and most other forms of fireworks are illegal in Illinois unless the user has a permit, Law Enforcement Director Harvey Johnson Jr. warned Wednesday. "All forms of firecrackers, roman candles, skyrockets, smoke bombs and sparklers are prohibited," Johnson said. Sale or use of those articles can be punished by a fine and up to six months in jail. Illinois Fire Marshal Robert Walsh said six persons died in Illinois fireworks accidents last year and 85 others suffered serious injuries. Most of the accidents were caused by "gross negligence" and most of the children or teenagers, he said.

IBI elimination bid fails

An effort to eliminate the Illinois Bureau of Investigation failed Wednesday in the House but not before its 169 agents were compared to the Keystone Cops. Rep. Samuel McGrew, D-Geneseo, said three IBI agents "came to Warren County to investigate the sale of marijuana. They secured the dubious plant and went around to see who was interested. Only trouble was," McGrew said, "they failed to tell local police and were arrested for selling it and spent the night in jail."

Arson link to firemen probed

State investigators have been called in to determine whether disgruntled East St. Louis firemen, who walked off the job after being denied a pay increase, set a series of more than 20 fires in abandoned buildings. Mayor William E. Mason, who said the city can not afford to pay the 10 per cent pay raise which has been withheld since Jan. 1, said the Illinois Bureau of Investigation and the state fire marshal would be asked to help investigate the series of fires which began Tuesday night and continued early Wednesday. No injuries were reported.

House supports conjugal visits

A resolution urging the Illinois Dept. of Corrections to experiment with conjugal visits between prisoners and their spouses passed the House Wednesday. The measure (HJR96), drafted by the House Judiciary II Committee, says California and Mississippi have tested the program and found it cuts down the number of repeat offenders and gives prisoners closer ties to society when they leave prison. Rep. Romie Palmer, R-Blue Island, said he does not believe prisoners should be "neutered. They should be anchored to society in some way. This could also reduce homosexuality."

Senate approves UI budget

The Illinois Senate Wednesday sent the fiscal 1977 budget bills for the University of Illinois and Southern Illinois University to Gov. Daniel Walker's desk. The Senate voted 52-2 to accept three House amendments to the U of I budget bill (S1628), bringing the total for that system's three campuses to $276.5 million for the coming fiscal year. One amendment would add $60,000 to the bill for an energy resources center at the Chicago Circle campus. A second amendment would cut a total of $9 million in capital development projects. A third, adding $1.2 million in health program support, would enable 109 additional students to enroll in health professions at the U of I medical school.

Village studies Wisconsin plan

by JOE SWICKARD

While Arlington Heights is grappling with a persistent vandalism problem, one Wisconsin town seems to have found a way to roll back the tide of destruction.

Next week, two members of the village's Zero Vandalism Committee will go to Wauwatosa, Wis., to learn how that Milwaukee suburb reduced vandalism by 16 per cent last year through a program of "positive peer group pressure."

Committee members Arthur Gollberg and Joyce Zeller, will take part in a one-day seminar sponsored by the Wauwatosa Chamber of Commerce, which sponsored the successful vandalism reduction program.

William J. Tetzlaff, the executive director of the Wauwatosa Chamber of Commerce, said the program is not "anti-vandalism" as much as it is "positive prevention."

THE KEY TO THE program has been involvement of the town's youths in educating each other, Tetzlaff said.

"There were two basic approaches we took to the problem. One is that most vandals think of it as an impersonal crime, if a window gets broken at the school; it doesn't hurt anyone. We try to personalize the crimes with the fact that it does hurt someone when it happens," Tetzlaff said.

The second approach is that acts of vandalism, no matter how small, will not be tolerated in the town, he said.

"We won't accept vandalism — period. There's no excuse for it," Tetzlaff said.

Using these two basic premises, a group of students were recruited to spread the word among the other children of the town. Often times, high school students would go back to their junior high schools for the discussions and junior high school students would take the message to the elementary schools.

THE "YOUTH-TO-YOUTH" pro-

Mount Prospect nabs 100 vandals

by MARSHA S. BOSLEY

Two undercover agents in the Mount Prospect Police Dept. have made 100 vandalism-related arrests since April, when they began a special village-wide patrol.

"Vandalism is on the rise nationally," said Police Chief Ralph J. Doney. "We knew we'd suffer an increase in vandalism this year because of the age category of the kids in Mount Prospect. They (vandals) are anywhere from 11 to 21."

As a result, Doney relieved 33-year-old Leonard Young and 28-year-old Jim Edwards from their regular patrol duties to create what he called a "vandalism detail. I felt it was worthwhile to form the detail strictly to apprehend vandals," Doney said.

YOUNG AND EDWARDS, dressed in street clothes, patrol the community daily in an unmarked car looking primarily for vandalism. "We can get into something a lot closer in civilian attire and an unmarked car," Young said. "Some kids do resent the uniform image. We carry handcuffs and the same equipment in our car as a black-and-white (squad car) does."

The two plain-clothesmen have picked up suspects for violations ranging from marijuana possession to unlawfully operating mini-bikes. The bulk of their arrests have been related to alcohol — from transporting open bottles to possession of liquor by a minor.

"Contraband is all conducive to the activity we're trying to stop now," Young said. "When you're high or intoxicated, you're more apt to commit acts of vandalism." Doney said a vandal is not a vandal until he is stimulated.

More than 500 incidents of vandalism amounting to $46,000 in damage have been reported in Mount Prospect since January. "Any town that tells you they're not in the 100 figure each month is lying," Doney said. "By no means have we stopped vandalism, but if it weren't for these two men on the streets nightly making arrests, our vandalism rate might be 50 per cent higher."

One reason for creating the vandalism patrol was an increase in service calls. The Mount Prospect police received about 2,000 more service calls from residents in 1975 than in 1974. "Our regular patrols couldn't keep abreast of the vandals," Doney admitted. He said officers other than Young and Edwards still are arresting some vandals.

MOST VANDALISM occurs in the northeast section of the village, Doney said, because some of Mount Prospect's older neighborhoods have smaller youth populations. Young said, however, "There is no place in this town that is unblemished, that isn't having a problem."

Doney said the vandalism patrol has been successful and he hopes to extend the concept to other criminal activities when the vandalism season tapers off in September.

"We don't pamper them," Young said. "They know if they do something wrong some action will be taken. We keep returning and they know we're around."

Young said he and Edwards have had good cooperation from vandals' families. "The first offender," he said, "is very rarely a second offender."

gram involved the showing of an 11-minute film followed by an open discussion of the problem with the older student leading the way.

Tetzlaff said teachers were not in the rooms during the programs so the children could be more open in their questions and answers.

In Wauwatosa, the efforts were aimed "almost exclusively" at schools rather than stepped-up enforcement or the passage of new or stronger ordinances, a tactic being used in Arlington Heights.

"We were careful not to sensationalize vandalism. It's not a game between the coppers and the kids. If it gets to be a game, the kids are going to win almost every time," Tetzlaff said.

"PEOPLE THINK THAT more policemen and more laws will lessen the problem. We found that approach wasn't being effective. We were looking for a change in attitude — the ability of the youths to say no to things that are wrong," he said.

This "ability to say no" may be carried over later to other problem areas, such as drugs and alcohol, he said.

Tetzlaff said the program, a community project of the Chamber of Commerce, has tried to take a positive approach to the problem rather than being "anti-vandalism," Tetzlaff said.

"It's like starting a fire prevention program. You don't go out and hire double the number of firemen. You get people that will help prevent fires before they start," he said.

TETZLAFF SAID THE declining rate of vandalism has continued through the first four months of 1976. He said there has been an 18 per cent reduction so far this year.

"Each city is different. I'm not saying what has worked here will work in other towns," he said.

But so far, 70 persons from Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota have registered for the Wauwatosa seminar to see if the lessons learned there can be applied in their hometowns.

Couple sues agent over land deal

An Arlington Heights couple who owned a Florida farm and wanted to buy land in Wisconsin have sued a Palatine real estate salesman for $50,000 in a land-trade deal the couple alleges was fraudulent.

Darrell and Lawana Stewart, 208 S. Burton St., have filed suit in Cook County Circuit Court, Chicago, saying that John Olson, a real estate salesman for Vacation Sites, Inc., Hoffman Estates, tried to give the Stewarts false credit on their Florida farm to encourage them to buy a 10-acre farm in Wisconsin.

The suit says Olson, whose license

recently was revoked by the Illinois Real Estate Examining Committee, offered the Stewarts credit which was "fictitious and far in excess of the real value of the (Florida) property."

Olson's attorney, Sidney Schiller, said he would wait until the suit is processed through the courts to comment.

E. T. CUNNINGHAM, another attorney for Olson, said Olson's wife Loretta, a real estate broker, Olson and real estate salesman Clifford Kortas still plan to file for a rehearing in Cook County Circuit Court to reconsider their license revocations.

The three agents' licenses were revoked earlier this month after the examining committee found they had violated seven counts of the Real Estate Brokers and Salesman Licensing Act.

They were charged with deception in connection with land-trade deals in which nearly 100 Chicago-area customers traded their Illinois and out-of-state property for a down payment on property in Wisconsin.

No date for a hearing on Stewart's suit has been set. Settlement of the agents' license revocation appeal could take from four to six months.

The new contract also includes an agreement by the board to recognize the faculty union for negotiations next year. The faculty recently voted to affiliate with the American Federation of Teachers, a national teachers' union.

Trustee Judith Troehler, one of the board's negotiators, cast the only dissenting vote, saying the board should not have recognized the faculty union for negotiating purposes.

Salary ranges for faculty set by the board in December were: $11,200 to $18,250, instructor; $12,990 to $21,000, assistant professor; $14,810 to $24,140, associate professor, and $17,030 to $27,760, professors.

The board Wednesday also approved an 8 per cent over-all pay increase for custodians and maintenance workers. The increase will apply to the final year of a three-year contract with the service employees, said Wilfred Von Mayr, personnel director,

By Dist. 59 board

Special ed demands rejected

The demands of a group of more than 60 parents with students in special education programs in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 were rejected by the board of education in a 5-to-2 vote.

Board members Charles Canupp, who has children in the special education program, and Paul Kucharski voted in favor of a resolution Monday which would have supported the demands of the special education parents.

The demands included reinstating Merle Nevenhoven as director of pupil personnel services; dropping the decentralization of special education services; and including special education parents in future decisions affecting that department.

THE BOARD MONDAY agreed to set up a committee which will include special education parents to ensure the program would be effective. Board members and parents on that committee will be announced at the July 12 board meeting.

Mary Kay Canupp, wife of the board member, read a statement from the special education parents stating, "We believe it (decentralization) will violate the state regulations in that the principals are not experienced in the field of special education. Therefore they are not qualified to make decisions as to our children's special needs."

The goal of the decentralization plan is to place more staff members directly in contact with students, said Supt. Roger Bardwell. The special education instructors are assigned to a group of schools rather than to specific cases throughout the district, as under the former centralized system.

The decentralized system also places more responsibility on the principals who, with the teachers' advice, decide the type of special education staffing needed in their school, he said.

THE REORGANIZATION also placed Merlyn Swanson as director of signed Nevenhoven as a psychologist in the district.

Board president Judith Zanca said the plan is trying to "increase staff utilization. I don't know of one time we have refused a request for more staff from the special education department."

Bardwell said there have been few changes in the organization of special education. "It is still centrally oriented. Decentralization is designed to put the power back to the people," he said.

He said the reorganization also has saved more than $88,000 in central administration costs.

Canupp said the special education program has had a "high success rate" as a centrally directed program operating out of one building.

Frank Ford, parent of a student in the district's deaf education program, said "The ultimatum read tonight is not unanimous among the parents in special education. My experience with this board has been nothing less than tremendous."

40 teachers rehired in Dist. 59

Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 rehired 40 teachers for September who had been laid off in March because of budget cuts.

The board approved rehiring 40 of the 54 first-year laid off teachers to replace teachers who have resigned or retired from the district for the 1976-77 school year.

District officials have said they believe the remaining first-year teachers will be rehired by September because of attrition.

Al Stone, associate superintendent, said the attrition rate has been "normal." Usually the district loses between 70 and 80 of its 530 teachers each year through resignations and retirements.

TEACHERS REHIRED Monday include: Mary Ann Ambrose, Juliette Low; Cynthia Agoranos, Dempster; Patricia Aspinwall, Grant Wood; Bonnie Bell, Friendship; Kathryn Burke, Hopkins; Daniel Calamari, Grove; Betty Collins, Marshall; William Conrad, Ridge; Lee Ann Corbett, Dempster; Michelle Devine, Rupley; Sandra Drzewicki, Ridge; Nancy Edgerton, Friendship; Nancy Fulton, Holmes; Linda Giel, Forest View; Esther Goldwasser, Forest View/Ridge; Michele Hardin, Lively; Seth Harkins, Friendship; Bryna Herbstman, Ridge; Deborah Kaiser, Jay.

Other teachers rehired are: Ginger Jeff, Ridge; Colleen Killam, Salt Creek; Bettie Lyke, Holmes; Lynn Maloney, Byrd; Mary Marlow, Hopkins; Virginia Marshall, Marshall; Linda Meyer, Grant Wood; Cynthia Monge, Brentwood; Andrew Neff, Grant Wood; Kathy Olinger, Holmes; Bonnie Pryor, Forest View; Sandra Quirsfeld, Grove; Elfrido Sanderson, Ridge; James Schwass, Lively; Susan Shearer, Grove; Jerri Sobol, Salt Creek; Patricia Turick, Friendship; Christine Turner, Holmes; Karen Wasmund, Brentwood; Walter Willis, Grove; and Carole Zerwas, Ridge.

Water use forces early well start

A new water well in Arlington Heights south of the Wilke-Kirchoff retention basin is being put into service ahead of schedule because of heavy water usage in recent weeks.

Village Engineer Allen Sander said the dropping water table in the area and recent troubles with two wells in the village also were factors in the decision to put the new well into operation.

"If we get into another dry period, we're going to need every drop we can get," Sander said.

The temporary electrical work necessary to connect the new well to the village's water system should take about two weeks, he said.

Permanent wiring will not be installed at the well until next year when the pumphouse is finished, Sander said.

Public Works Director Gene Willroth said Monday that one of the village's 14 wells is out of order and that another one can be used only intermittently.

Water usage has tapered off since Friday when police began issuing tickets to residents who violated the village's sprinkling ordinance, Willroth said.

The ordinance prohibits lawn sprinkling except on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. The citations carry fines of up to $25.

The number of tickets issued by the police was unavailable.

Chicago boy hurt when bike hits car

A 7-year-old Chicago boy suffered minor injuries Tuesday night when his bicycle struck a moving car in Arlington Heights, police reported.

Police said Alan L. Sorce, 1035 Monticello, suffered a cut knee after he rode his bicycle into the left rear side of a car driven by Arlita Louise Davis, St. Louis, Mo., at Maude and Ridge avenues. The accident occurred at 7:45 p.m.

No charges were filed against Ms. Davis, and the youth was transported by police to the house of a relative on N. Ridge Avenue.

Woman, 25, struck by boy friend's car

An accident Monday night which left an Arlington Heights woman seriously injured is under investigation by the Cook County Sheriff's office.

The woman, Diane Frybarger, 25, of 707 E. Davis St., was injured when a car driven by her boy friend, Sam Alani, ran her over in the parking lot of LeGourmet restaurant, 500 N. Rand Rd., Wheeling Township.

Miss Frybarger sustained injuries to her head, chest and limbs, and was reported in serious but improving condition Tuesday at Northwest Community Hospital.

Sheriff's investigators said the woman fell beneath the wheels of the car in the restaurant parking lot, but declined to give further details of the incident.

Police said the case is still under investigation and will be reviewed by the State's Attorney's Office to determine if any charges will be filed.

Alani's address was not released by police.

The way we see it

Substance big campaign need

Campaign rhetoric in the 10th Congressional District hit a low point in the last two weeks with Republican Samuel H. Young indirectly attempting to link his opponent to the Washington sex scandal and dredging up oft repeated "franking abuses" charges.

It is round three for Young and U.S. Rep. Abner Mikva, as they vie for the congressional seat. The verbiage from Young's headquarters is reminiscent of past mudslinging — all talk and no evidence.

Monday, Young held a press conference where he attacked Mikva for misuse of the franking privilege, the free mailing rights given to congressmen so they may communicate with constituents. While admitting Mikva had done nothing illegal, Young maintains Mikva's use of the privilege has been excessive and inappropriate.

Young's press conference and the weak charges he presented seem to be nothing more than a grab for headlines. It appears he is trying to turn the tables on Mikva who, in the last campaign, filed an official complaint that Young's mailings included material not related to government business. The charges were dismissed.

The bulk of Mikva's newsletters sent to residents have been tallies of his voting record on all issues that have come before the House. A recent mailing dealt with proposed legislation to control airport noise.

At the same time Young's newsletters frequently contain promotional pictures showing Young with various dignitaries at various functions.

Young's charges that Mikva is misusing the free mailings don't hold up.

Earlier, Young charged Mikva abused government employees in a manner similar to U.S. Rep. Wayne Hayes, D-Ohio, who has been accused of putting his mistress on the federal payroll.

Young then said Mikva had used two male employees for political activities. Young's attempt to cash in on the scandal lends nothing to his credibility as a candidate for the seat he lost to Mikva in 1974.

Young began this campaign by saying it would be issue-oriented, but his recent onslaught is a far cry from the original intent.

It appears Mikva is ignoring his opponent's charges, and we can only encourage him to continue to do so while they remain at that level.

By now the voters in the 10th district must be very tired of hearing one phony charge after another being bandied about. We certainly are.

We salute Olympic basketball players

The United States Olympic basketball team arrives in the Northwest suburbs for an exhibition game tonight at Prospect High School. This is the team that within the next several weeks will carry this country's colors to the Montreal summer games with the hope of bringing home a gold medal.

It is a team faced with the task of playing teams from Russia and Cuba that are equal to our professional teams in age and strength.

This team is made up of young men from across the nation who have given up their time this summer to play a game for love.

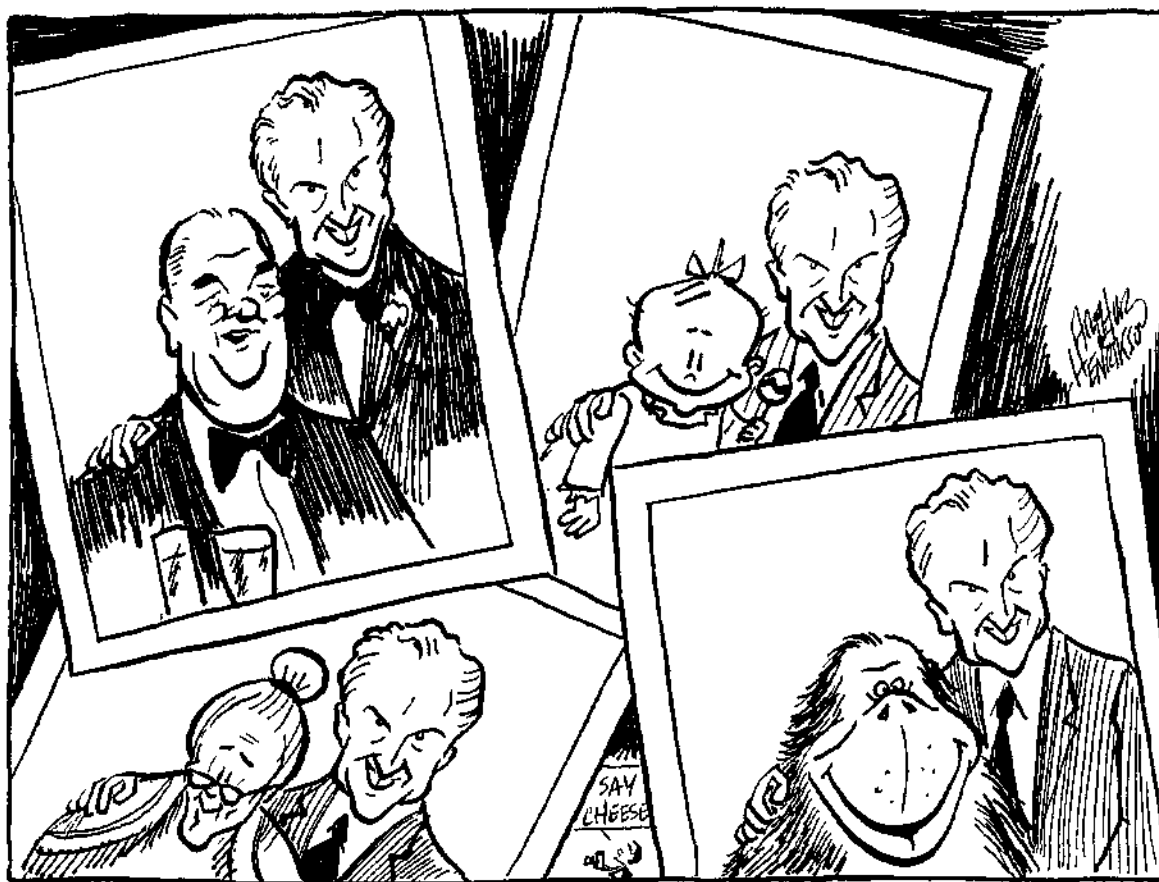

It is a love not only of basketball, but of the country they will represent.

These young men are driven not by money or demands from their country, but a desire — the desire to win, to stand proud and show the rest of the world that their country is the best.

Tonight's game also will feature, as the Olympians' competition, ballplayers who recently graduated from college and professionals from the Chicago Bulls, Milwaukee Bucks, Golden State Warriors and Portland Trail Blazers. We salute these athletes who without payment for their services, will provide the needed competition for this Olympic team. It's primarily because of their donation of time that the game will be played in this area.

But most importantly, we welcome the Olympians to this area. We are sure the sellout crowd tonight will give these young athletes the welcome deserved people of their character.

We also would like to take this opportunity to wish not only the basketball team, but all Olympians luck in the 1976 games and congratulate them on taking the time to represent us in international competition.

Flu plan workable?

A reporter for The Herald called me about the proposed Cook County health department swine flu program. Before discussing it with him I advised him that I did not wish to be quoted and that he should get all the facts and write an informative story. He ignored both of these requests.

The Cook County health department has devised a grandiose plan for offering swine flu shots to 8000,000 people at 20 locations in a four-day program in mid-September and will require 5,000 volunteers who will take five days off work. Twenty locations each with an empty 2,000 car parking lot and an unused building to hold at least 1,000 people will be required. This event, which will rival a Rolling Stones concert held simultaneously at 20 locations has several obvious drawbacks. There are no such facilities available (one person suggested the Arlington Park Race Track) and the volunteers which have been described by county planners as druggists, dentists, nurses and other lay people will not cooperate. No sensible nurse would give an injection without malpractice coverage or a written order from a physician, yet the county continues to mislead prospective volunteers into believing that local governments will protect them against lawsuits. No person should be foolish enough to give potentially dangerous injections without malpractice coverage. The risk will be especially great in this program with large crowds and a new vaccine.

ONE MIGHT ASK why it is necessary to compress this into a four-day program in September when the vaccine will become available in July. Because the county health department wants to have sole control of the flu vaccine and they will be busy staging unworkable programs in other areas of the county.

Another important decision reached by our public officials is that doctors will not be allowed to give the vaccine although it could be easily administered by syringe in a doctor's office. Any vaccine left over in November will then be given to doctors at which time it will be too late to inoculate enough people to prevent an outbreak. The only sensible approach to the swine flu problem would be to recruit the help of the entire medical community and to provide as much vaccine as possible to doctors who could give it on a nonprofit basis for a nominal charge of a dollar or less. Shot clinics could also be organized but they must be small, numerous and operating for several weeks.

Tenure helps experienced

I am writing about the article in the Friday, June 18 Herald, about tenure for our teachers. I am a former teacher and a parent of school age children, so I believe I can see "both sides of the fence."

School boards have been against tenure for teachers for a long time, and it always comes down to the same thing — money — often at the expense of the education of our children.

Teaching is like many other professions in that experience is extremely important. Most people would be very hesitant about going to a doctor who had just graduated from medical school without serving an internship or hiring a lawyer to defend them in an important case on his graduation day. Certainly, universities are always discovering new procedures in medicine, law and education and most probably the graduates of 1976 have more education than the graduates of 1946, but there is no substitute for experience "on the job."

FOR EVERY YEAR of experience a teacher has had 25 or more children with their learning or behavior problems and assets pass before her. Sometimes she handled the problem correctly and will remember that it worked. The child made rapid progress, he had become more self-confident, he had cooperated, he could read — and on and on. Sometimes the teacher handled it badly; the child did not improve, or he even got worse. With each year's experience, the teacher will remember what she did wrong and try to correct it and of course if she is maintained in the district tell the next teacher of the badly handled child what she had done that should not be done with this particular child again. The teacher with experience also has had the time to adopt a classroom procedure that she can work well with — by this, I mean she can do the best job teaching the children, which is her work.

Many parents are questioning the amount of discipline in our schools today. What are our children learning? How do they behave? An experienced teacher has found the best way to discipline and teach the children within the guidelines of the school district — often she has learned through trial and error — often from advice of a more experienced teacher or principal. I am not against inexperienced teachers. Everyone has to start somewhere, and inexperienced teachers become experienced if they are allowed to continue in a district. But our school boards want to stop giving tenure so that they can fire the experienced teacher making more money so that we can hire new teachers at base salaries. This means we are now and will constantly be training new teachers then dumping them for the new ones that are cheaper.

I would never defend the incompetent teacher, but incompetent teachers should not be offered tenure and it has been my experience that they are not. Tenure is not earned by

Area 'forgotten'

Thank you for the article in "Suburban digest" box in The Herald of June 15 regarding Bay Colony seeking annexation to the City of Des Plaines.

Bay Colony is boxed in by Golf Road and Tri-State Tollway on two sides. Two ingress and egress streets, each two blocks long (both had been dead ends), have been opened up to them. Now the hundreds of cars using the original two streets belonging to the city are creating chaos. Children aren't safe, we can't get out of our drives, and the riding horses are in jeopardy. They blow their horns and keep on speeding with utter disregard of our 20 mile speed zone. Seems the police can't cope with them. I don't know where to turn anymore. I believe our alderman, our chief of police and our mayor have just forgotten this little corner of Des Plaines.

A parting look at the also runs

by ARNOLD SAWISLAK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Now that he seems to have his party's 1976 presidential nomination in hand, Jimmy Carter stands alone in the Democratic limelight. A parting look at some of the candidates he left behind may help explain why.

Sen. Henry Jackson — A power in the Senate, he was well organized, amply financed and impressively endorsed. His endorsements and government experience, given the mood of the citizenry, may have been a disadvantage. And his campaign seemed mechanical and inflexible.

Sen. Birch Bayh — He was to be the Democrat who would unite the old and new liberal factions of the party. But he started late, and found others already had skinned the most important blocs, particularly in labor.

Sargent Shriver — He got into the race on the false premise that he had built a political following as head of the War on Poverty and the Peace Corps. Before leaving, he was reduced to campaigning as a Kennedy brother-in-law, and that didn't count for much in 1976.

Terry Sanford — Being a progressive Southern governor in the 1960s and head of the Democratic Charter Commission in 1974 was not enough to make him stand above the crowd.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen — He seemed to be seeking support from a conservative faction that no longer existed in the Democratic Party.

Gov. Milton Sharp — Issues all the way, and bubbling with ideas of how to solve national problems other candidates didn't even talk about. But, sad to say, he did not look or sound "presidential."

Gov. George Wallace — He was different this time — still prodding at raw spots on the public consciousness and exhorting a scapegoat "They." But all the time he seemed to be saying, "I changed things, even if I can't win."

Sen. Fred Harris — Out of the mainstream, he relied on arousing an anti-privilege feeling among the working class and the militant young. But working folks weren't listening and the young hardly vote.

Sen. Frank Church — A certified Washington liberal, he impressed many with his knowledge, earnestness and eloquent platform style. But he seemed stiff at times and won too little too late to build any kind of momentum.

Rep. Morris Udall — His credentials and campaign were as good as anyone's but he never quite established a winning liberal coalition. He impressed nearly everyone with his balance and humor.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. — The main Might-Have-Been of the campaign. If Carter won by offering a different line of goods to the people, Brown had an even more attractive inventory. But he started far too late to build a delegate base or to knock anyone else out of the race.

Buying sparked by N.Y. budget news

Dow dips 1.07 despite late surge

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices closed lower Wednesday for the second day in moderately active trading on the New York Stock Exchange, despite a late buying surge sparked by reports New York City's budget woes were being resolved.

Investors were encouraged by statements of Gov. Hugh Carey of New York and Mayor Abraham Beame that they were confident a plan had been worked out so the financially plagued city could cover a $686 million deficit pictured in its $12.7 billion fiscal 1977 budget.

The fear of the nation's largest city going bankrupt has been a recurrent worry on Wall Street along with fears inflation would be rekindled enough to harm the economic recovery. THE NEW YORK news came too late, however, to prevent the Dow Jones industrial average from losing 1.07 points to 996.56. It had been down more than five points at the outset.

The closely-watched Dow fell 9.82 points Tuesday after climbing to a six-week high of 1,007.45 Monday. Its slide since then disappointed investors as the blue-chip average failed for the seventh time this year to hold above the 1,000 level. Some analysts said the New York City news could carry it over again soon.

In the market's rally earlier this year, the Dow average climbed to a more than three-year high of 1,011.02 April 21. But profit taking has been persistent in the 1,000 to 1,010 level. The average reached an all-time high of 1,051.70 Jan. 11, 1973.

On a broader basis, Standard & Poor's 500-stock index lost 0.22 to 103.25, the NYSE common stock index slipped 0.11 to 55.03 and the average price of an NYSE common share declined by 7 cents.

DECLINES TOPPED advances, 838 to 563, among the 1,833 issues crossing the tape. The 432 unchanged issues reflected some investor uncertainty.

Volume totaled 17,530,000 shares, down from the 21,150,000 traded Tuesday.

Pan American World Airways, which reported a business improvement in May, topped the Big Board active, off 1/4 to 6 on 300,300 shares. Citicorp followed, up 1/2 to 36-7/8 on 174,700 shares. Occidental Petroleum was third, off 3/8 to 17-3/8 on 170,200 shares. Occidental has been active since it signed a deal with Iran Monday.

Prices closed lower in moderately active trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share decreased by 3 cents. Volume totaled 1,800,000 shares, compared with 2,350,000 traded Tuesday.

Business briefs

Beer truck drivers reject pact offer

Teamster beer truck drivers, voting against the recommendation of their union leadership, Wednesday rejected a contract offer to end a strike that began in early April. The turnaround means most major brands of beer will continue to be unavailable at most area stores and taverns. However, beer distributors said they planned to step up deliveries despite the strike by using nonunion drivers.

The drivers, members of Teamster Local 133, voted 226-178 against accepting a contract with six beer wholesalers. About 450 drivers are on strike.

Cake leaves for Philadelphia

Five trucks departed from Deerfield Wednesday for Philadelphia with the parts for a five-story chocolate cake to be unveiled July 3 as a part of the Bicentennial celebration there. The cake, from the Kitchens of Sara Lee, when assembled will consist of eight octagonal tiers reaching a height of 47 feet. It will be 42 feet wide at the base, and the designers say its volume will be equivalent to 1,000,000 Sara Lee chocolate cakes.

Ford gets public works bill

The House Wednesday gave final approval to a $4 billion public works jobs bill and sent it to President Ford, who Republicans said will veto it. The House vote, approving a version of the bill worked out in a House-Senate conference, was 328 to 83, well over the two-thirds needed to override a veto. Sponsors said the entire bill would create or preserve 350,000 jobs.

Earlier in the day the House rejected 259 to 153 an attempt to delete one of the bill's most controversial sections — $1.25 billion in budget aid to state and local governments hard hit by recession to keep them from having to lay off employees.

Record sale for CME seat

The Chicago Mercantile Exchange said Wednesday the record high for a seat on any exchange was established Tuesday with the sale of a membership on the CME for $160,000. The old high of $160,000 was set last February and equaled last month. Current CME memberships are quoted at $150,000 bid and $175,000 asked.

Delco expansion completed

The A. C. Delco Division of General Motors recently completed an expansion of its parts distribution center in Elk Grove Village. W. C. Lee, general manager, said the renovation will assure better availability of replacement parts for vehicle owners who buy parts from independent outlets, such as service stations. Delco parts produced by 14 GM divisions are distributed from the center to wholesalers in 12 Midwest states. The 250,000 square foot facility is at 1001 Busse Road.

Foreign exchange to stabilize

Less instability in the foreign exchange market is forecast by Talat Othman, vice president of the Harris Bank international money management division. Speaking at a recent press briefing in Chicago, Othman said depreciation of currencies in Italy and England is long overdue because of inflation problems. Although the long-range outlook for British monetary values is negative, "for the short-term we are optimistic that the inflation rate will continue to abate until year-end," he said.

U.S. pork supply increasing

Pork supplies for consumers through the last half of this year are heading up in the wake of a 16 per cent increase in production of baby pigs, an Agriculture Department report showed Tuesday. The report said hog farmers, encouraged by increased livestock feed supplies and lower feed costs following a record 1975 corn crop, produced 41.4 million baby pigs from last December through May, the 1976 spring pig crop season. Pigs born in that period furnish most of the consumer pork supply for the second half of this year.

Mufflers going across the sea

The Midas International Corp. will open 26 muffler shops in 10 foreign countries during 1976, said Ralph Weiger, president of the Chicago chain. In the U.S., Midas will open 75 new auto service centers for a total of 793 outlets. The worldwide total will be approximately 900 shops by the end of 1976.

RTA remedy killed by 1 vote in Senate

by STEVE BROWN

SPRINGFIELD — The chances of a legislative solution to the Chicago-suburban crisis in the Regional Transportation Authority evaporated Wednesday when Independent Senate Democrats failed to back a bill restructuring the RTA.

The legislation, which was proposed by State Sen. Bill Morris, D-Waukegan, failed to gain approval by a single vote. The vote was 29 to 22, with two senators voting present. A constitutional majority of 30 votes was needed to approve the bill.

Morris cited the defection of State Sen. Vince Demuzio, D-Carlinville, as one of the reasons behind the failure of the legislation. Several other Downstate senators also did not support the bill. Morris said he had not been counting on their backing.

ALTHOUGH MORRIS postponed final action on the bill, he admitted Wednesday's vote eliminated chances of any RTA legislation being approved by the legislature this session.

Demuzio said he was not committed to supporting the bill, although he did favor it in a committee hearing. He denied that Chicago Democrats had threatened to kill legislation affecting several Downstate projects if he voted for the RTA changes.

Morris said the legislation would have:

- Allowed RTA counties to receive all the sales tax money raised for the RTA.
- Required six votes on the RTA board to approve grants.
- Added a ninth member to the RTA board.
- Split the job of RTA board chairman and chief executive officer into two positions.
- Allowed the RTA board to selectively impose new taxes in portions of the six-county area.

Morris said the trade-offs promised by Chicago Democrats to Downstate senators who opposed the bill could cost the state between $8 million and $10 million. He said the trade-offs included promises to some senators for passage of legislation for coal research projects, land reclamation programs and bills to benefit the Rockford public schools.

He predicted suburban RTA board members will continue to block passage of the RTA budget for fiscal 1977. If the budget is not approved by June 30, the continuation of subsidies and grants to mass transit operations in the six-county area will be in jeopardy.

ALL OF THE areas' five state senators joined the attempt to pass the legislation.

State Sen. John Graham,

R-Barrington, charged Chicago Democrats stalled action on the bill Tuesday night until he had to return to St. John's Hospital for medical tests. Graham has been hospitalized for tests in recent weeks, but his doctors have allowed him to take part in a limited amount of Senate deliberations.

Morris said the bill represented a "viable effort to save the RTA."

By dividing the role of board chairman and chief executive officer, suburban RTA board members were expected to drop their demands for the resignation of RTA Board Chairman Milton Pikarsky. Pikarsky currently holds both jobs.

Morris noted that by allowing the selective imposition of parking or gasoline taxes in portions of the district, Chicago officials could raise funds specifically for the financially troubled Chicago Transit Authority without affecting the rest of the RTA area. The law currently requires any new RTA taxes to be levied throughout the six-county area.

Suburb buses threaten shutdowns

by LYNN ASINOF

Six of eight major suburban bus carriers Wednesday said they will stop service as early as next week if the Regional Transportation Authority does not approve its 1976-77 budget on time.

Officials of the suburban carriers told the RTA board during budget hearings that they will not be able to continue their operations without RTA funds.

The four suburban RTA directors have threatened to block passage of the budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 unless Chairman Milton Pikarsky resigns.

Officials of the Joliet Mass Transit

District said they would be the first to close their doors, predicting a July 2 or 3 shut down. The North Suburban Mass Transit District (NORTAN) is following close behind.

JOSEPH DI JOHN, executive director of NORTAN, said his buses could continue only until July 15. NORTAN buses operate in Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove.

NORTAN officials, however, plan to seek a loan from a consortium of banks in the northern suburbs in case RTA funds aren't available July 1.

DiJohn said NORTAN also is asking that both state and federal funds be channeled directly to the district instead of through the RTA. He admitted this proposal would have "a slim chance."

The Waukegan North Chicago officials said they could operate for 30 days without RTA funds if they cut a new route servicing Marriot's Great America. Officials of Suburban Transit based in Oak Lawn said their system could operate for six or seven weeks if they used all of their reserves.

THE WEST TOWNS bus system could operate for three or four months without RTA funds. However, officials of the Oak Park-based system said they would like to close down rather than operate without a guarantee of 100 per cent RTA funding.

Officials of the bus systems in Aurora and Elgin both said they will use city funds to subsidize their operations if RTA funding isn't available.

The RTA staff has asked the suburban carriers to prepare a contingency budget using 7 1/2 per cent less RTA funding because of an anticipated $37.6 million RTA deficit.

Pass gas tax or up fees: Pikarsky

Milton Pikarsky, chairman of the Regional Transportation Authority, Wednesday said the RTA must either pass a gas tax or cut services to avoid a $37.6 million deficit in 1976-77.

RTA staff estimates show the RTA could raise $45.9 million in the coming fiscal year with a 5 per cent gas tax. This figure is based on eight months of collection.

"The board isn't prepared for a gas tax," Pikarsky said, noting opposition by some RTA directors. "Given that the next way to get revenue is a fare increase, which is something I oppose."

Staff figures show that a 5-cent fare increase throughout the six-county region would produce an estimated $14.3 million.

Some board members, including

Richard Newland of Waukegan, are calling for a 5-cent fare increase on the Chicago Transit Authority. "The CTA has not had a fare increase in six, almost seven years," Newland said.

GEORGE KRAMBLES of the CTA told the RTA board such a fare hike would be a "realistic alternative." He estimated it would produce an additional $15 million to $18 million, although it would result in a loss of 5 million to 6 million rides annually.

Even with such a fare increase, Pikarsky said the RTA would be required to cut services. He said only the gas tax would raise enough funds to cover the anticipated deficit.

The board will continue its budget reviews today and Friday starting at 9 a.m. The budget will be presented for a vote June 30.

U.S. Olympic team visits tonight

year, the ring leader of national champion Indiana and the No. 2 pick in the pro draft — holds court.
MAY IS JOINED by Notre Dame's 6-6 Adrian Dantley, a two-time All-American, and North Carolina State's 6-7 Kenny Carr, a devastating jumper, shooter and rebounder.
Smith is so deep at forward he has moved two of his frontliners — 6-5 Walter Davis of North Carolina and 6-6 Ernie Grunfeld of Tennessee — to guard. They are joined there by 6-4

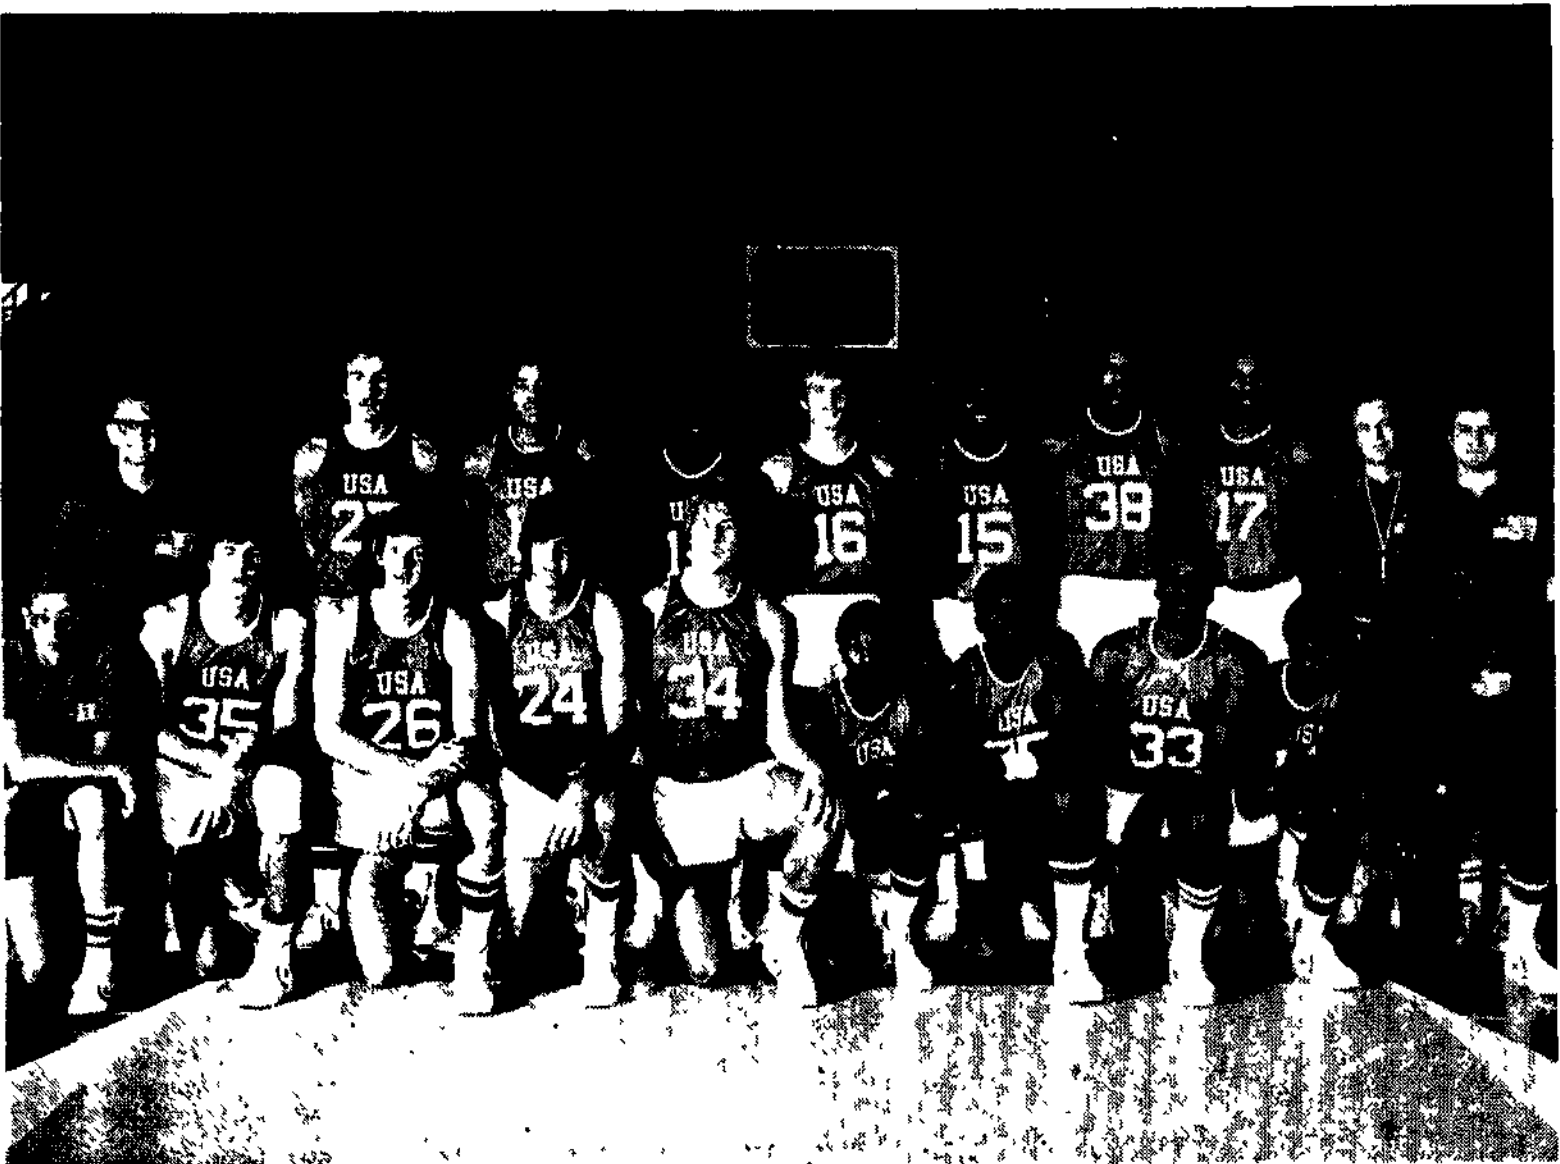

Phil Ford of North Carolina, 6-1 Quinn Buckner of Indiana and 6-3 Tate Armstrong of Duke.
Rounding out the forward ranks are 6-8 Steve Shoppard of Maryland, 6-7 Phil Hubbard of national runnerup Michigan and 6-8 Mark Landsberger of Arizona State, former Minnesota star.
Critics have questioned the Olympic team's strength at center, a key position in the physical international competition, but Smith is confident he has the men to do the job. Mitch Kupchak and Tommy LaGarde, both 6-10 and members of Smith's own North Carolina Tar Heels, have been impressive on the tour.

"HOW CAN YOU predict the outcome of a game by the size of the players?" Kupchak said. "I can name three or four pro teams whose starting centers aren't even 6-10.
"If we do win a gold medal we will have to do it as a team. We don't have a David Thompson or a Spencer Haywood or a Jabbar. We don't have that one dominating person. We will win or lose as a team. Our success will depend on our unity.

Indiana's Buckner, who paced two Illinois state champions in high school before sparking the Hoosiers, agrees with Kupchak.
"It's definitely a team concept," he said. "Day-by-day you begin to get a feeling. It's hard to say how long it takes. One day, there it is.
"I THINK we're sending a great team to Montreal. I think when the time comes, this team will be as good as anyone. It's hard to say how much we can improve."

There was definite concern when the Olympic tryouts were staged earlier this month that the United States would not be able to field a gold medal team. Many of the nation's finest players refused to attend the tryouts.
Smith put his squad through six demanding days and when the team finally surfaced, three were legitimate All-Americans, including the college player-of-the-year, and four were first round pro draft picks.
The U.S. team is eager to silence critics on its ability and win back the gold from Russia. They may have been placed on crutches by the decisions of many of the top stars not to play, but they were not crippled.

"No, time is not on our side," Smith said, "but the progress has been encouraging. We have to achieve a lot in a very short period. But the closer we get to that goal will determine how we do in Montreal.
"It's up to these players to prove they are good enough to win the gold medal."

About those rules...

There will be some strange rulings come out of the refs' whistles tonight when the United States Olympic basketball team meets the Midwest All-Stars at Prospect High School.

The international rules that will be used in the Olympics at Montreal will be enforced and unless you're familiar with them you might find yourself disagreeing with the officials on more than one occasion.

The most obvious change is in the shape of the free throw lane.

The lane has been widened at the baseline to take on a cone shape.

There is one other change in the physical appearance of the court and that is the absence of a mid-court stripe.

Although the midcourt stripe at Prospect High School won't be removed there will be no violation for taking longer than 10 seconds to bring the ball upcourt.

But teams that take their sweet time getting the ball into the front court will find themselves in deeper trouble because there will be a 30-second shooting clock in effect.

Should a player be fouled in the act of shooting and make the basket he does not shoot any free throws.

However, if he misses the shot he will be rewarded two free throws.

The ball will be taken out of bounds on the sideline nearest the point of the foul if the player is not in the act of shooting.

But in the final three minutes any foul becomes more severe. The refs automatically assume they are intentional and so award two shots for every foul, shooting or not.

If a technical foul is called on a player the other team is awarded the ball out of bounds and two shots. If the technical foul is on the bench the other team gets the ball out of bounds but only one free throw.

Technical fouls count toward disqualification of a player.

After a successful free throw, only the shooter can be substituted for.

One international rule will really help the fast breaking clubs. The ref does not have to touch the ball on violations in the backcourt and each team is given only three seconds to get the ball inbounds instead of the usual five seconds.

Each game will be played in four quarters and each team is allowed two time-outs per half. Only the coach can call a timeout and only when the ball is dead.

Finally, dunking is permitted, and, perhaps in the interest of international relations, it is illegal to talk to an opponent when the ball is in play.

Even if neither player knows what the other is saying.

Shades of '75 Western Open at Butler

Oakbrook — They're calling it the 1976 Western Open, but it's looking more and more like the '75 version.

The reason for the similarity — bad weather.

Wednesday's pro-am here at Butler National Golf Club started under sunny skies. But the forecast, which called for a 50 per cent chance of rain, proved 100 per cent accurate.

The first of three electrical storms hit at 11:43 a.m. Memories of last year's near-tragic happenings came flooding back. During the second round of the '75 Western, Lee Trevino, Bobby Nichols and Jerry Heard were hit by lightning. All three recovered in the hospital from that brush with death.

When Wednesday's first rain closed the course, two of last year's main characters — Nichols and Heard — hadn't teed it up yet. (Trevino isn't playing because of a bad back.)

"I think about it every time I see a cloudy sky," said a relaxed Nichols as he laced his golf shoes. Heard was killing time playing pool in the club house.

Both had to be thinking about getting killed a short time later when the second storm siren sounded at 3:35 p.m. Ironically, Heard was on the same hole — the fateful 13th — where he was struck last year.

This delay was twice as long as the first, lasting over an hour. It gave the pro-am's two top scorers — Rik Massengale and Mark Hayes — a chance to discuss their one-under-par 78s.

"I don't figure that (their 70s) will be low for very long," said Massengale, who acted nonchalant about his effort. However, he quickly added, "I love it."

It had been an ideal day for scoring well. Little did Massengale know that only Wally Armstrong would come close to their 70s with an even par round or that the pro-am would never be completed.

John Mahaffey, who came so close to winning the U. S. Open Sunday, was one of the lucky few who played all 18 holes.

"It's not as bad here as it has been in the past," said Mahaffey, who shot a 73. Unlike the bad weather of '75, he and many of the pros had high praise for this young but fast-maturing layout. "The course is in good shape."

"You have to play the par threes well," continued Mahaffey, referring to them as possibly the keys to victory. One hole — the fifth (a par 3, 220-yard shot over water) — ruined a good round for him. He found the lake and took a double bogey.

Hale Irwin, the defending Western champ, had only played nine holes before the second downpour. Irwin called the addition of two traps around No. 5 "a great improvement." It allows a missed shot to be "saved" by the sand from going into the water.

"You think of how many times you've played them (the 18 holes) and say, 'God! I've gotten more bogeys than birdies,'" said Irwin.

"Every hole is difficult. No hole is quite the same. The 10th (a par 4, 383-yard killer) is hard — trouble's everywhere."

There's a tight driving area, narrowed by a pond on the left and trees, a trap and a creek on the right. Salt Creek is at one of its widest points right in front of the green.

Dodgers' Mike Marshall dealt to Atlanta for pair

Bulletin
ATLANTA (UPI) — The Atlanta Braves Wednesday night acquired 1974 Cy Young Award winner Mike Marshall from the Los Angeles Dodgers in exchange for infielder Lee Lacy and relief pitcher Elias Sosa.

Marshall, a nine-year major league veteran, appeared in 108 games for the Dodgers when they won the National League pennant two years ago. So far this year he has appeared in 30 games and has a 4-3 won-loss record and eight saves.

However, his won-loss was not the major factor in the deal. Earlier this month, Marshall was openly critical of his teammates' fielding and a group of Dodgers players subsequently went to general manager Al Campanis to ask him to get rid of the temperamental relief ace for the good of the team. It was the second time in his career that Marshall's criticism of teammates persuaded a club to trade him.

The deal, which came after the June 15 trading deadline, was achieved by the Braves claiming Marshall on waivers and in a supposedly separate transaction, the Dodgers purchasing the contracts of Lacy and Sosa after they also had cleared waivers in the National League.

In Lacy, the Dodgers reacquired their second leading hitter of a year ago. The versatile infielder, who hit .314 last year, went to Atlanta along with outfielder Jimmy Wynn and Tom Paciorek and infielder Jerry Royster in return for Dusty Baker and Ed Goodson.

Sting lead league; top Cosmos 4-1

John Kowalk scored two goals to lead the Chicago Sting into first place with a 4-1 victory over Pele and the New York Cosmos in North American Soccer League play at Soldier Field Wednesday night.

The win was the fifth straight at home for the Sting and pushed them into first place in the northern division of the NASL.

A record Sting crowd of over 28,000 showed up to see the soccer superstar Pele, despite heavy rains earlier in the day. Pele took seven shots on sting goalie Mervyn Cawston, but failed to score.

Cawston had 20 saves and the only goal scored against him came at 40:55 by Cosmos Brian Tinnion.

Kowalk scored his first goal at 57:32 and was assisted by John Lowey and Steve Peplow. His second goal came at 78:37 and he was assisted again by Peplow.

'Winner takes all' in Ali-Inoki bout

TOKYO (UPI) — World heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali Wednesday glared and fumed at Japanese wrestler Antonio Inoki as the two men agreed winner will take all — as much as $9 million — in their boxing-wrestling match Saturday.

Shouting "he will fall, I am the greatest fighter of all time," Ali strode into the hotel banquet room where the formal contract signing ceremony took place and had to be restrained as he continually lurched at Inoki sitting silently with arms folded and wearing a kimono-style bathrobe.

"Would you sign a statement for a winner-takes-all fight?" Inoki's spokesman Ken Tajima asked Ali during the televised 10-minute signing ceremony. "I agree, yes, yes," Ali replied, baring his teeth as he grabbed the pen and signed.

Originally, Ali was guaranteed $3 million and, with his share of the gate included, possibly as much as $6 million. Inoki was expected to receive about $2 million for the bout billed as the "super fight of the century."

Favorites advance at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON (UPI) — Jimmy Connors, claiming "they're trying to get rid of me early but I won't go," Wednesday powered his way into the last 16 at the $280,000 Wimbledon tennis championships on a day when first aid workers were busier than the players because of the 95 degree temperature.

Connors, appearing in singles for the third successive day, is now one round ahead of the field, but the manner in which he disposed of Egypt's Ismael el Shafei, 6-4, 6-0, 6-3, suggests nothing will stop him regaining the championship July 3, when he is seeded to meet Arthur Ashe in the final of the 12-day tournament.

Chris Evert, however, was even quicker than Connors when it came to cutting down an opponent. Annette Coe of Britain was the unlucky 6-0, 6-0 victim. It was all over in 23 minutes.

Ashe, the defending champion who has looked anything but a top seed in his first two matches, had the day off. Nine out of an original field of 33 Americans still are in contention in the men's singles, which carries a first prize of $22,125.

With the tournament into its third day, all the seeds still are surprisingly in contention, although 10th seeded John Newcombe, three times the champion between 1967-71, had to survive a record 42 aces served by Briton John Feaver before he disposed of him, 6-3, 3-6, 8-0, 6-4, 6-4.

Orr to sign with Hawks today

Bobby Orr officially joins the Black Hawks today and officials of the Chicago hockey club are making sure he'll do it in style.

About 2,000 persons are expected to attend the signing of Orr to a multi year contract calling for $3-million. The signing, open to the public, will start at noon in Chicago's Bismarck Theatre.

Chicago Mayor Richard Daley is expected to be among the guests at the signing ceremony, according to Don Murphy, director of public relations for the Black Hawks.

The former star defenseman of the Boston Bruins agreed to the Hawks' offer after he had played out his option.

Orr's appearance conforms to a pattern established by the Arthur Wirtz family, which owns the Black Hawks as well as the largest interest in the Chicago Bulls, when the Bulls' headquarters for the National Basketball Association draft were on the same stage before the public.

Orr, eight times on the National Hockey League All-Star team and eight times voted the league's best defenseman, was expected to sign a contract calling for $3 million.

One report was that the money would be paid at the rate of $100,000 a year for 30 years, but Orr's advisor, Alan Eagleson, insisted it would be a flat payment divided by the number of years covered by the contract, either three or five.

Orr missed most of last season with Boston, appearing in only 16 games. He brings a bad left knee to the Hawks. He has had five operations on the knee, and there was some question how effective he could be playing next year.

But an examination in a Toronto hospital indicated no further surgery is required and Orr is expected to be able to start the season.

Evert leads Wimbledon protest

WIMBLEDON (UPI) — A weary John Newcombe came off court after surviving a match in which his opponent, Briton John Feaver, fired a record 42 aces at him and in his role as president of the Association of Tennis Professionals said: "I think we may find the women players are overpaid."

Newcombe, Arthur Ashe's successor as ATP president, was reacting to a demand by the women that they receive equal prize money as the men or they'll pitch their tents elsewhere when Wimbledon celebrates its 100th anniversary next year.

The girls, led by Chris Evert, are to present their demands to the Championship Committee on Thursday or Friday.

"I think," Newcombe said, "you'll find the women are overpaid." The men's champion will receive $22,125 this year and his female counterpart, $17,700.

House panel to probe Finley sale

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A special House committee decided Wednesday to make the cancelled $3.5 million sale of three Oakland players the first of its investigations into professional sports controversies.

Chairman B. F. Sisk, D-Calif., agreed at an organizational meeting of the Select Committee on Professional Sports to consider calling the principals in the case for a hearing as early as next week.

They would include Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and owners Charles O. Finley of the Oakland A's, George Steinbrenner of the New York Yankees and Tom Yawkey of the Boston Red Sox.

Last week, Finley sold pitcher Vida Blue to the Yankees for $1.5 million and pitcher Rolfe Fingers and outfielder Joe Rudi to the Red Sox for $1 million each. Kuhn overruled the sale on grounds it would hurt baseball.

Sisk said he doubted there would be time to prepare for a hearing next week and the earliest chance for a hearing after that, he said, would be on July 19, after the Democratic National Convention.

Sisk said the baseball sale controversy was only one of several "sports crises that aptly epitomize the turmoil that has convulsed the world of sports in the past few years."

Top Twins, 4-3 and 9-5

Sox take two at Minnesota

From Herald Wire Services

BLOOMINGTON, MINN. — The White Sox, showing no ill effects from their recent 10-game losing streak, swept a doubleheader from the Twins here Wednesday night by scores of 4-3 and 9-5.

The win was the fourth in a row for the recharged Sox, who close the series here this afternoon with a single game.

Jorge Orta slugged a two run fifth inning homer to extend his hitting streak to nine games and paced the Sox to the win in the nightcap.

Rookie Chris Knapp, just up from Iowa, started on the mound and last 4-1/3 innings, giving up three runs before giving way for Pete Vachovich who got the win, his fifth in seven decisions. Ken Brett finished up and got credit for the save.

Rod Carew had five runs batted in, four of them coming in the second game, for the Twins. Carew had a solo homer in the eighth inning of the first game that pulled the Twins to within one at 4-3.

The wins moved the Sox into fourth place, ahead of the Twins.

It was walks that got Knapp in trouble in the first game. The lanky righthander gave up five passes, two of which turned into Minnesota runs. Bobby Randall homered in the third inning off Knapp with nobody on.

Jack Brohamer's solo homer ignited a two-run fourth inning which carried the Pale Hose to a 4-3 win in the first game.

Bart Johnson picked up the win, breaking a personal three-game losing streak. Johnson is now 4-7. He had relief help from Terry Forster who worked the last 1-2/3 innings and got the save.

The Sox close out the series here with an afternoon game today, starting at 1:15 p.m. Rich Gossage, (5-5), will pitch against the Twins' Bill Singer.

The Sox then move on to Texas for a two-nite doubleheader Friday, and night games Saturday and Sunday.

Cubs tip Bucs, 6-5, then lose to darkness

The Cubs took advantage of Bob Moose's throwing error in the ninth inning to scratch out a 6-5 win over Pittsburgh Wednesday in the first game of a scheduled twinbill.

The second game, after considerable discussion and a telephone call from the umpires to the National League office, was called after four innings because of darkness with the Pirates ahead, 2-0.

A rain delay of more than an hour during the first game pushed the second game into the early evening hours and when yet more dark storm clouds formed over Wrigley Field, umpires decided to stop the game.

At first it was decided that the game would be resumed before today's regularly scheduled game with the Pirates, but after a check with league officials, umpires announced that the game would be replayed entirely, probably when the Pirates next visit Chicago in September.

With one out and the winning run on second base in the first game, Jerry Morales hit a ground ball that Moose fielded along the third base line. He tried to get Bill Madlock going into second but his throw sailed into center field, allowing Jose Cardenal to score the winning run.

Oscar Zamora picked up the win in relief, his fourth against two defeats.

Willie Stargell and Richie Zisk hit home runs for the Pirates.

The Cubs close out the series with Pittsburgh today with a 1:30 p.m. game. John Candelaria (6-4), is slated to pitch for the Pirates. The Cubs will counter with Ray Burris (3-9).

The Mets and National League home run leader Dave Kingman then come into town for the weekend.

Siles couple sweeps trophies

A husband-and-wife team, Al and Cookie Siles, of Arlington Heights, won the first-place trophies in the men's and women's divisions of the class C singles tournament last weekend, hosted by the Arlington Tennis Club.

Al Siles beat Andy Bratton in the men's finals, 6-4, 6-2, and Cookie Siles defeated Darlene Scott, 6-1, 7-6, in the finals of the women's division.

Fifty nine C-ranked players participated in the tournament, held at Buffalo Grove High School.

Ed Addison won the men's consolation title and Cathy Burns took first place in the women's consolation bracket.

The Arlington Tennis Club will hold a Beer and Brat Tournament Saturday at River Trails.

Schaumburg Kings host hockey clinic

The Schaumburg Kings hockey team is sponsoring a summer clinic to help players stay in top shape during the off-season.

Directed by Kings head coach Jim Tally, the Kings Summer clinic provides the players the opportunity to work on deficiencies in skill techniques while building the endurance required for hockey school and fall tryouts.

Players will skate in one session each for six weeks and in five intense sessions during the seventh week of the program.

The cost per player for the summer program is $30.

The summer clinic will be conducted at the Woodfield Ice Arena in the Woodfield Shopping Center.

Sessions are available for miles through bantams and class sizes are limited.

Registrations will be accepted by telephone at 863-1261.

Ferrari team

ROME (UPI)—The Italian Ferrari swept the first three Grand Prix races in 1976. Defending driving champion Niki Lauda won the Brazilian and South African events and Clay Regazzoni captured the Grand Prix West in Long Beach, Calif.

DICK REDMOND of the Chicago All-Stars controls the puck in heavy traffic during game with Deaf Olympics Hockey team at Randhurst Twin Ice Arena. The game was the climax to a week-long hockey clinic for hearing-impaired youngsters sponsored by Stan Mikita's American Hearing Impaired Hockey Assn. Chicago team was made up of several Black Hawks, including Redmond and Mikita.

Academy to get help from DP Jaycees

The Des Plaines Jaycees have made a commitment to assisting young gymnasts and putting Des Plaines on the map as a gymnastics center in the Midwest.

Tom Downs, President of the Des Plaines Jaycees, recently presented a check to Pat Canary, President of the Gymnastic Booster Assn., American Academy of Gymnastics Inc., 1527 Ellinwood, Des Plaines.

The Booster Association is a non-profit organization that supports the Academy teams. As most people are well aware, amateur sports in the United States face tremendous obstacles. However, in less than three years, The American Academy under the direction of head coach Leonard Isaacs, assistant coach Bill Sands and boy's coach Craig Martin has achieved prominence in the Midwest.

This year, The Academy's girls teams won first place in both the junior and senior divisions of the U.S.G.F. Illinois State Championships, and the senior team went on to win first place in the U.S.G.F. Regional Championships.

Four of the Academy's senior girls qualified for the National U.S.G.F. Championships in Washington D.C. and one of them placed tenth in all-around competition at that meet. One girl also qualified for the U.S.G.F. Junior Nationals in Eugene, Oregon where she narrowly missed placing in the top five in the country.

The boys team also has done extremely well and recently captured five of six all-around awards in the U.S.G.F. Junior Olympic State Championships, Intermediate Division. Three of the boys took the top places in the all-around competition at the U.S.G.F. Regional Championships and will soon compete in the U.S.G.F. National Championships in Fort Worth, Texas.

Canary commented that the American Academy wants to become an integral part of the community. Last summer, their gymnasts placed first in the Marching Division of the Des Plaines Fourth of July parade.

Also, the gymnasts put on an exhibition at the Jaycee's carnival last year and at a luncheon for the Des Plaines Kiwanis Club.

Canary stated "the interest and help we are receiving from the Des Plaines Jaycees is absolutely fantastic, and we are looking forward to working with the Jaycees in the future. Maybe with the help of the Jaycees and the Des Plaines community, the American Academy will produce an Olympic competitor for the 1980 Olympics."

Sting Soccer Camp opens Monday at Palatine park

Palatine's Community Park will be Mecca for the area soccer players next week when several stars from the Chicago Sting professional team and Sam Donnelly, head soccer coach of the University of Illinois Circle Campus, arrive to conduct a Sting Summer Soccer Camp.

The event, which will last from Monday, June 28 through Friday, July 2, will be hosted by the Palatine Park District and the Celtic Soccer Club. It is open to boys and girls between the ages of 9 and 18. The cost is $55.

Most of the campers will be from Palatine, but others are coming from as far away as LaCrosse, Wis. and Metuchen, N.J.

The curriculum for the all-day program will include all kinds of fundamental and advanced soccer and ball handling skills, tactics, teamwork, organized game play, and special training for goalkeepers.

Anyone interested in joining the group should call 332-2292 for further information.

Woodfield crushes Hanover Park

The Woodfield entry of the Babe Ruth League destroyed the Hanover Park Cubs Monday night, 14-0, in a game halted after five innings by the slaughter rule.

Woodfield scored eight runs in the fourth, highlighted by Scott Mielke's grand slam home run over the fence in center field. Russ Zonca also had two hits in the game and three RBIs.

Mark Koss was the winning pitcher, allowing only two hits and one walk to go along with seven strikeouts.

It was the first decision of the season for Woodfield, which had been involved in a tie with the Hoffman Expos. That game will be replayed.

the tour's second leading money winner with $176,643. "It's a challenging course. It dares you, 'Try and shoot at me.'"

Billy Casper, a four-time Western winner, has been shot down the past two years since the tourney was moved to Butler. He's hoping to make the cut this time, but in his practice round he was 10 strokes over par on four of the final five holes.

"It's one of the toughest (on the tour)," said Casper. "I don't really enjoy it. I can't see how the members enjoy it. You have to be really playing well to play well here.

Paul Logan

Associate Sports Editor

"It's probably considerably tighter than the Open course (in Atlanta). Considerably tighter."

Jerry Pate, the tour's 22-year-old phenom, mastered the Atlanta Athletic Club to win the U. S. Open. However, for two straight days he's been driven off Butler by lightning and rain. He has yet to even play a full 18 holes.

Curtis Strange, who like Belleville's Jay Haas will be making his pro debut this week, said Butler "was possibly the toughest one I've (ever) played. The more you play this golf course, the better it is."

Strange has played it twice and had hoped to get on a third time after the pro-am (he wasn't one of the select 52 pros who played) Wednesday, but the third cloudburst at 5:40 p.m. closed the course permanently.

The Western people are hoping that the weather forecast for today is wrong. There's a 75 per cent chance of rain.

The '75 classic was rained out on Friday and Saturday, forcing a 38-hole finale on Monday. This 73rd Western Open — the second oldest tournament in America, deserves a better fate than that this year.

Many winners, losers at pro-am

by PAUL LOGAN

OAK BROOK — There were 52 winners and nearly that many losers here as the Butler National hosted the 14th annual Evans Scholarship Foundation Pro-Am golf tournament Wednesday.

The top 52 touring pros teed it up with gentlemen who contributed sizable checks to this Western Open fund. Unfortunately, three electrical storms delayed and then cancelled the $7,500 pro-am.

So the prize money was shared by the pro competitors, leaving each about $144. The rainout left most of them losers, too, in that they were prevented from playing one more full round on this most testing course prior to today's opening round.

The cancellation wasn't good news for Mark Hayes and Rik Massengale, who were the early leaders with one-under-par 70s. They each lost about $700 for four hours of work.

"You don't worry about it (scoring well) in the pro-am," said Hayes, a 26-year-old Oklahoman. "Not a whole lot of guys win the pro-am and the tournament, too."

"It's going to play AS hard (as last year)," continued the new star, winner of $109,342. "I think even par or one or two under could win it."

Massengale, a Texan, has won nearly $50,000 this season. He's won one tour title — the 1975 Tallahassee Open. This 29-year-old pro finished second to Johnny Miller in the Bob Hope Desert Classic this year.

This might be his week to contend for the title. The past two years that the Western has been held here, Massengale has finished both times in the top 25.

Asked if the rest of the pros felt any relief because Nicklaus, Palmer, Trevino, Miller and Player weren't playing, Massengale said, "I don't think anyone feels any different because the big boys aren't here."

Several superstars are here, including Hale Irwin — the defending Western champ.

"Look at the pro-am scores," said Irwin. "It's a good indicator of how the course is playing."

Besides those two 70s, the only other pro to match par (among those who could finish before the final downpour) was Wally Armstrong, who celebrated his 31st birthday Saturday. Armstrong's best finish ever was a second at Pensacola last year.

"It's a day you try to devote to the amateurs and to check a few things yourself," said Irwin. "Today is a multi-purpose day."

But Irwin and his fellow pros spent more time running from the lightning and rain than concentrating on the pro-am. It was a day for umbrellas, not putters.

WESTERN OPEN NOTES: A modest crowd of 3,800 watched the pros perform in between the showers . . .

Those coming out today and Friday can pass through the gates for $3 grounds fees or $10 for both grounds and pavilion privileges . . .

Those who have been to past Westerns will find this year's tourney more enjoyable. Fans can get within a few feet of the pros on the practice range and gallery viewing areas on the course have been improved . . .

One stop galleries should make is at the World Golf Hall of Fame's "Golfmobile." Located just north of the clubhouse, this traveling museum has a fine sampling of the vast collection of artifacts which are housed in the new hall in Pinehurst, N.C.

Letters, packages 'unreal'

Postal 'mess'—our carelessness

by DIANE MERMIGAS

A correctly stamped, addressed and sealed envelope or package is a rare sight to most U.S. Postal Service officials.

"They've seen the best of the worst that most people try to push through the postal system. And it's trying to get the "undeliverable" mail back to the sender, and matching up illegible names with the right addresses and zip codes that take up much of their days.

"It's really a mess sometimes," said Charles Ward, manager of quality control for Chicago's main post office.

"It's unreal the things that people send through the mail system, because we really don't turn anything away. But, it's even more surprising the way they address and seal their packages and still expect them to get through," he said.

THERE IS A dead letter section of the post office where Ward works. There, between 800 and 3,000 pieces of mail are stored each day because the post office tried in vain to get them back to the sender or forwarded to the proper party.

Why?
"Because the envelope or package wasn't addressed correctly or legibly. There was no return address on the mail or not enough postage. Maybe the package opened and the contents spilled out and was lost. There are a lot of different reasons why mail ends up here," Ward said.

And those reasons can all be summed up in one word. Carelessness.

"We give the mail 60 days to remain here. That's only after we've done everything we can to get it delivered somewhere. We even open the mail, eventually, to see if there is some identification inside of who we can send it to," said Stephanie Skurdy, a spokesman for Chicago's main post office.

"What cannot be returned or what is not claimed within 60 days either gets destroyed or auctioned off," she said.

UNCLAIMED CASH that is included in mail goes into the post office coffers. Packaged goods that are not claimed are auctioned off, "and those are not just books," she said.

"Hospitals send their equipment and medicines through the mail. All sorts of gifts are sent. We've had jewelry worth thousands of dollars, expensive pictures, dolls and clothes never claimed and all auctioned off here at the post office," Ms. Skurdy said.

"It's sad when you think that someone never received these things because the sender was too lazy to address the package correctly or seal it tight," she said.

But, packages are only a part of the problem. The biggest pain-in-the-neck for postal officials are the letters.

The biggest problem child includes letters that don't have enough postage to pay for their trip through the postal system and letters that don't have the proper zip code.

Letters with insufficient postage are to be returned to the sender. But, that's a little difficult when the envelope has no return address on it, and most of them don't, said Ward.

ENVELOPES THAT don't have a zip code on them, or the wrong one, present a real problem for postal officials. Staff members must thumb through directories to match up the proper forwarding address with the proper zip code number before the mail can get on its way.

That's mainly because most sorting systems are computerized and separate mail according to zip code, said Kline Sauer, director of mail processing at the North Suburban Post Office in River Grove.

The facility is a sorting point for mail that goes on to 108 local post offices in a suburban area that extends from Lake Michigan to the Wisconsin state line. The area includes the Northwest suburbs.

About 80 per cent of the mail that passes through the regional office "is deliverable," Sauer said.

But the rest of the statistics are grim. About 35,000 pieces of mail handled daily by the regional post office have the wrong zip codes. Another 380,000 letters have no zip codes at all. At least 5,500 letters of the 4 million received daily have insufficient postage, he said.

WHAT THE REGIONAL office can't send out, it returns to the dead letter section at the main post office.

"It takes a lot of our time and a lot of the postal system's money to get this problem ironed out," Sauer said.

Just how much money it costs the postal system each year to handle "problem mail," no one could say.

But, everyone from an area postmaster to the manager of quality control at Chicago's main post office agreed, they just cringe when they come across an envelope with only a person's name on it. Or, how about a brown paper package sopping wet because its contents broke open. Or, how about a nice thick envelope with no postage at all and no return address?

It's all in a day's work, they say, and it happens every day.

Transit employe busing still on

by KURT BAER

The State of Illinois will spend about $30,000 to continue busing state employes to the Dept. of Transportation's new headquarters in Schaumburg for three more months.

The $30,000 figure, based on low bids opened Monday, will bring the total cost of 17 months of state-paid-for busing for DOT employes to more than $175,000.

Busing was started in April 1975 after DOT closed its offices in Elgin and Chicago and moved to new quarters in the Woodfield office complex, 1000 Plaza Dr., Schaumburg.

As part of the relocation, the state agreed to pay certain moving expenses for DOT employes and to charter buses from Chicago, Skokie and Elgin to the Woodfield office building. About 160 DOT employes use the buses to get to work, Ralph C. Wehner, assistant district engineer in Schaumburg, said Wednesday.

THE MOVE came under fire in March when an Illinois legislative subcommittee charged that the $9.94-a-square-foot rent for the Woodfield building, the cost of moving employes and providing bus transportation was too high.

Current bus contracts, including $90,860 paid to the Schaumburg Transportation Co. and $54,624 to Continental Air Transport Co., expire June 30.

Bids to continue the bus service were opened Monday. Specifications call for one bus on four different routes Monday through Friday for a period of 90 days. Buses run from the Jefferson Park CTA terminal, the Skokie Swift terminal, 95th Street and Western Avenue and Elgin. Continental Transport submitted the low bid for each route. The DOT, which has the right to disqualify any of the bids, is expected to award the contract early next week.

TOP DOT OFFICIALS have defended the move to Schaumburg, saying that it consolidates department functions that used to be divided between offices in Marina City, Chicago, and Elgin.

Paying the moving expenses of employes who move closer to the Schaumburg office and paying for the bus transportation was intended to lessen the impact of the relocation, they said.

Both measures also were requested by the American Federation of State and Municipal Employees, the union that represents many DOT employes.

SUBCOMMITTEE members charged that DOT could have found less expensive office space that is more accessible to public transportation than the Woodfield office.

At an annual rent of $1.2 million, the state will pay off the total $3.1 million cost of constructing the Woodfield office building in just three years, the subcommittee said.

J. Emil Anderson & Son, Des Plaines, built and manages the building.

Although the subcommittee investigation is technically still alive, legislators have been less active since reports that U.S. Atty. Samuel Skinner has subpoenaed DOT records in connection with the move to Schaumburg.

Buying a pool? Shop around, avoid leaky deals

by LYNN ASINOF

A swimming pool can be a hole in the ground that you pour your money into, particularly if you don't shop carefully.

The Federal Trade Commission recently reported that the swimming pool industry is plagued with worthless guarantees, bait-and-switch advertising and shoddy workmanship.

Americans spend more than $1.3 billion a year on backyard pools, the report said. While most of the industry is honest, the report said there is much consumer abuse, particularly with vinyl liner pools.

Ray Waddington of the Midwest Chapter of the National Swimming Pool Institute, said consumers should not plunge into a pool purchase. He also said they shouldn't expect "good deals."

"MORE OR LESS, you get what you pay for," Waddington said, noting that people who cut corners in the beginning will pay for it in the end.

Among the in-ground pools, for example, Waddington said the least expensive and most popular is the vinyl liner pool. Although a vinyl liner is about 20 per cent cheaper than other types of in-ground pools, Waddington said liner pools have more problems.

First, the liners have to be replaced every six to 10 years, and liner guarantees do not really protect the pool owner.

"Most of the liner guarantees I've seen aren't very good because all they guarantee is the seams," Waddington said.

IN MANY CASES the owner is required to drain the pool, remove the liner and ship it prepaid to the manufacturer before it can be repaired under the guarantee.

Waddington said these guarantees also will not cover leaks caused by holes in the vinyl. Many owners have shipped their liners out only to get them back unrepaired, he said.

Liners cost between $300 and $600, Waddington said, noting that the less expensive ones are thinner and tend to shrink. Once again, he said, "You get what you pay for."

Waddington estimated that in-ground swimming pools range in price from $4,000 to $12,000 depending upon the size and the accessories. The National Swimming Pool Institute estimates that an in-ground pool will cost between $15 and $20 per square foot of water.

IN-GROUND POOLS are made of a variety of materials including concrete, gunite, fiberglass and reinforced concrete. While everyone has their individual preference, Waddington said the more durable materials such as concrete and gunite make better pools.

Pools usually are sold like cars. There is a basic model and the accessories are extra. Every contractor, however, offers a different package, and the buyer should make sure he knows what he is getting.

For example, Waddington said his basic pool includes the pool itself, filter, pump and standard deck. It costs extra to add underwater lights, a slide or diving board, extra patio space, pool heater or underwater stereo.

An important item in any pool is a main recirculation pipe at the bottom of the pool.

"A SWIMMING POOL is a body of water that recirculates," Waddington said. "You only get proper circulation if you have a pipe down at the bottom that pulls water from the bottom."

Installation of an in-ground pool can take from one to three weeks depending on weather conditions. A good contractor will make sure the soil is dry and in good condition or problems will develop later.

The FTC report says this is a problem area because many contractors employ untrained college students for their excavating, even though the work is often complex.

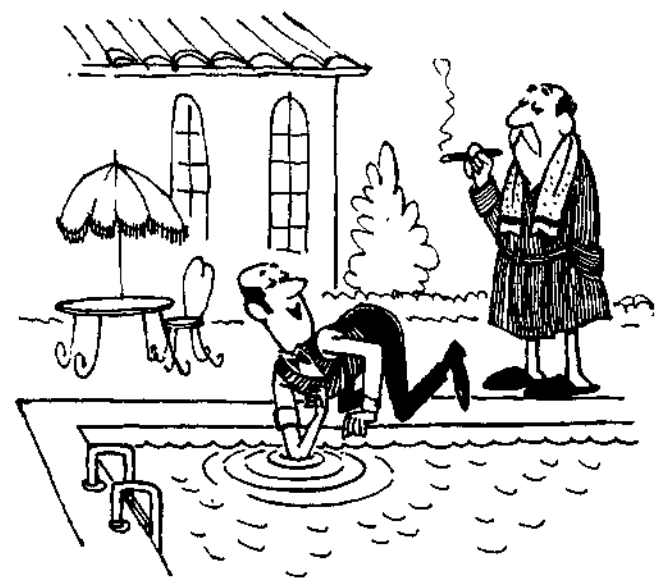

Waddington recommended pool buyers get the names of previous clients from prospective contractors.

"Get a list of their customers and actually go see some of their pools," Waddington said, noting buyers should also check with the Better Business Bureau and the state attorney general's office.

THE FTC REPORT also warns against the "bait-and-switch" advertising gimmick. It says a "significant segment" of the pool industry advertises low-priced pools and then switches customers to more expensive pools.

In-ground pools are considered an investment in addition to providing family recreation.

"Some people approach it from an investment, something like buying stocks and bonds in the market," Waddington said. "A good pool put in the ground should have at least a 50 per cent resale value."

People who can't afford the $4,000 and up price of an in-ground pool often look to the above-ground pool. These pools are usually 3½ to 4 feet deep, providing enough water for splashing but not serious swimming or diving.

"The above-grounds outsell the in-grounds because they are not nearly as expensive," Waddington said, estimating that these pools range in price from $500 to $4,000.

THE ABOVE-GROUND pools also are more portable, easily erected by the owner and tax free. Waddington said the above-ground pools are considered "temporary" and can last anywhere from 6 months to 6 years.

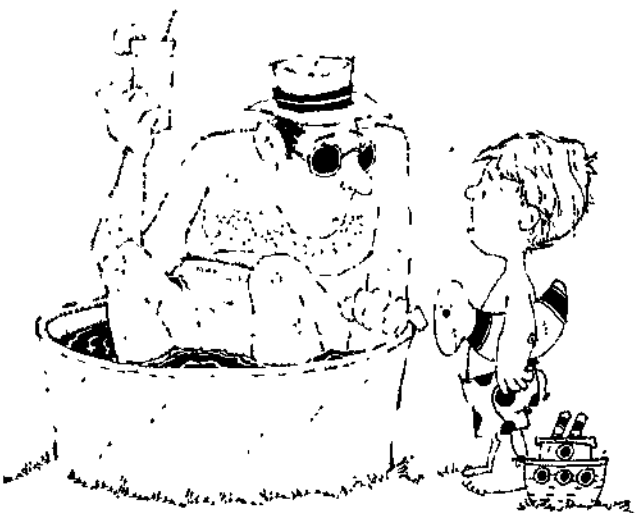

Since above-ground pools are less expensive, Waddington said people often buy them on the spur of the moment. Purchasers of in-ground pools, however, usually take about two years to decide to buy.

"They don't buy it on the spur of the moment," Waddington said. "I think most people think a long time and they save their money."

All pools require a certain amount of maintenance, which Waddington said surprises some people. He said, however, people can cut back on their maintenance time by buying good equipment.

"Your better pools with the proper equipment are a lot less maintenance than the less expensive pools without proper equipment," he said.

"Once again, you get what you pay for," he said.

'Back to basics' approach

Compact house may be a fixture of the future

The "basic house" that some say is a temporary solution to a depressed economy may evolve as a permanent and prominent fixture on the American housing scene.

"Even though affordability was the fuel that helped put compact homes into orbit during the past year or so, their popularity reflects more fundamental changes," said Tracy Cross, vice president of marketing for the Hoffman Group, Inc., a Hoffman Estates-based builder. Two of the company's product lines — its Mainstreet detached homes and its Havens single-family attached homes — have been in the forefront of the "back to basics" movement in the Chicago market.

Cross said the increasing participation of women in the work force is the basis for the popularity of basic homes.

"We think it a mistake to totally view the current popularity as a knee-jerk reaction to the housing slump. Our own sales data strongly suggest that homes with about 1,200 to 1,400 square feet of efficiently designed, well-planned space may well be the premiere homes of the future for a large portion of the homebuying public," said Cross.

An analysis of Mainstreet home buyers at Frankfort Square, one of its developments, revealed that 58.9 per cent have two incomes and average annual household earnings of $19,870. At Westlake, where Havens homes are being sold, there is a 70.7 per cent incidence of dual income with an average annual income of $22,900.

The Mainstreet and Havens sell from the mid $30,000 to the low $40,000 range, and families with incomes of around $20,000 a year can afford bigger and more expensive homes. According to Kenneth J. Thygeson, economist for the U.S. Savings League, using the traditional 25 per cent of gross monthly income rule, with 20 per cent down and an interest rate of 9.25 per cent a $50,000 house would require an income of about $16,500. Consequently, $20,000 to $23,000 incomes should do even better.

In Cross's estimation, the high proportion of working wives and the fact that many families are buying smaller homes than their budget might permit shows a continuing attraction to this kind of housing.

"People don't want to be tied down by a home. They want the privacy, equity, and tax advantages of their own homes but they don't want their budgets dominated by a house," he said. "They want the freedom to use discretionary income for other things."

"The second thing we perceive is that dual person working households don't want to spend all their personal time as slaves to a big house," he said.

If his assumptions are correct, the smaller house is not a compromise with a shaky economy. It is a free choice and it could grow as a preferred alternative.

"There is no reason to assume that the role of working women, married or otherwise, is going to reverse itself, and if it continues as it has been — and the futurists say it will — it supports our projection," he said.

Cross said the number of women in the labor force has increased from 16,683,000 in 1947 to 37,087,000. The total over-16 female population has grown from 52,450,000 up to 79,954,000 in the same time.

"While the female population has expanded 52 per cent, the female labor force has grown 123 per cent," observes Cross. "In 1947, 31 per cent of the females 16 and up were part of the labor force. Today it's around 48 per cent."

The importance of a career for both members of the household appears to be influencing all age groups.

April volume record set on loans closed at S&Ls

A volume record was set in April for all loans closed and for loans closed on residential mortgages by Illinois insured savings and loan associations.

Total loans closed for the month were $478.7 million, an increase of 11.9 per cent over March of this year and up 59.3 per cent over April of last year.

Residential loans closed for both purchasing and construction were 26.6 per cent higher than in March 1976 and 70 per cent higher than in April 1975.

The figures represent the latest data from the Federal Home Bank Board released for the state by the Illinois Savings and Loan League.

Loans closed for construction during April amounted to $56.4 million while loans closed for purchase were $336.8 million.

Net new savings slipped nearly 7 per cent from March to April, with end-of-April net receipts at $248.3 million, but representing a 21.4 per cent increase from a year ago.

A $77 million difference between new savings including dividends and total loans closed appeared to indicate that associations were using the funds to add to their reserves, pay off borrowed money, and increase their liquidity levels, said Robert J. Hansen, president of the Illinois Savings and Loan League.

New commitments made during April in originating mortgage loans increased from March by 3.4 per cent to $498.9 million.

Mortgage loan commitments outstanding of more than one billion dollars for April were 10 per cent over the volume for March and 57.8 per cent over that of April 1975.

Total savings capital held by the 410 reporting associations was up slightly at $22.7 billion. Total assets for the state's associations was $26.6 billion. Mortgage loans outstanding totaled $21.4 billion.

Paint wear improved with care

The time of year has arrived when you may be taking a good, hard look at your house and thinking, "But I just painted this place . . . not even three years ago."

Should a paint job last longer, or is repainting every few years just part of being a homeowner?

R.A. Pierce, manager of the Sherwin-Williams Decorating Center at 1302 N. Rand Road, Arlington Heights, said "Normal wear and tear are to be expected," Pierce said. "No paint job can stand up forever to the elements of nature."

Paint problems such as peeling, flaking and cracking are something else, though. "These are conditions that will quickly affect the durability of any new coat of paint, if the underlying causes are not identified and remedied first," Pierce said. "It is not at all unreasonable to assume that your new paint job can last twice as long as the last one, if you solve these problems and prepare the house properly."

Pierce said paint lifting away from the house in small, scattered patches is called "blistering." Pierce says that blistering is usually caused by excessive moisture in the side wall of the house. When these blisters crack, peeling takes over. More bare wood is exposed, moisture is now introduced from the outside of the house, and peeling spreads.

If you see a powdery surface, the problem is called "chalking." Chalking occurs when the paint has been worn away by the weather.

"Cracking" or "alligatoring" is easy to spot, because the paint looks like an alligator's skin. The cause of this is usually too many coats of paint within a short period of time.

"Checking" often occurs on exterior plywood. It is identified by parallel cracks in the paint film.

To date this year, the MAP Multiple organization has participated in over 3,850 sales totalling over $186,000,000 in volume with an average sale price of $50,690.

The MAP sales area includes the communities of Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine, Elk Grove Village, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg, Hanover Park, Hoffman Estates, Streamwood, Buffalo Grove, Wheeling and Lake Zurich. The MAP organization currently is represented by over 1,200 professional Real Estate Sales Representatives.

Decorative use of plants popular in homes, office

Plants have gained tremendous popularity as decorative elements in apartments, homes and offices. Their use depends on personal taste, budget and an individual's green thumb abilities.

There are some excellent books available at the library and most florists will be happy to advise you once you discuss with them the light available in your home for good growth.

Proper light for house plants can be a tricky matter. Many foliage plants cannot tolerate direct sunlight, then leaves will burn if they get too much. On the other hand, flowering plants such as succulents will not bloom without enough direct sunlight.

If you live in a city apartment where natural light is not plentiful, both fluorescent and special lights are often adequate. Be sure to check first with your local greenhouse.

Before buying always check the five major requirements for a plant — light, water, soil composition, temperature and humidity. Also find out if the plant is temperate or conditioned to a life indoors. If a plant has been living out of doors, the shock of change without a period in a greenhouse will be very discouraging as leaves will yellow and fall, and you'll have to nurse it through a period of adjustment.

If you are just getting into the botanical thing, you may wonder how to decorate tastefully with plants. Although there are no rules as such, you want your plants to look like they belong in your particular decor.

Whatever the advice from friend and florist and your own inclinations, plants can be mixed or matched. If your firm lines are predominantly of the following styles, interior designers at Armstrong Cork Company have these suggestions:

For exotic settings, Paradise Palms (Howea forsteriana) are easy to grow. Time was when these palms were status symbols and greatly sought after because of their rarity and the fact that such plants could not be shipped from far-off ports successfully. Today thanks to modern transportation and improved chemical technology, many varieties of tropical flora are widely available. Palms require relatively little light, they're reasonable, and they grow to dramatic heights that vary from 2½ to 6 feet.

Boston Ferns (Nephrolepis cordifolia) are beautifully suited to elegant or traditional interiors. Big gardeners of feathery ferns add romantic touches of greenery. They "sentimentalize" a room. Ferns love high humidity and cool temperatures but should be kept away from drafts and air conditioners which take moisture out of the air. Curtains or blinds are a good idea if a fern is in front of a window. Four or five feet back from a sunlit window would be best placement. If you're an early American buff, Grape Ivy (Cissus rhombifolia) is perfect. It's very adaptable and can be used in the very popular hanging baskets in centerpieces, dry sinks, etc. Easy to grow, Grape Ivy is medium light requiring, relatively inexpensive, and varies from 2 inches to 3 feet in size.

Spanish or Mediterranean decors look more authentic with the luxuriant Corn plant (Dracaena) around. Its cost is determined by the variety and the quality and the size can vary from 10 inches to 15 feet. Dracaena is easy to grow because it requires low to medium light, and its water needs are moderate.

One of the newer decorating trends is a revival of Art Deco, and one of the plants that looks appropriate with Deco is Difframbachia maculata — or "Mother-in-law's Tongue." No green thumb is required for this conversation item... it's that hard to kill! Size can vary from four inches to four feet, and it can be kept alive for years with low light and only an occasional watering.

Modernists like the Weeping Laurel (Ficus benjamina). It, too, is relatively inexpensive, needs moderate water and average light, and its size varies from 1 foot table-plant size to the 10 foot floor-plant variety.

Philodendrons (Araceae) are undoubtedly the most versatile of house plants and seem to suit eclectic backgrounds because of their own flexibility. Except for the very exotic varieties, they are fairly inexpensive with minimal light and water needs.

Plants have a lot in common with people: they can be killed with too much food, drink, and warmth.

Public is not priced out of house market: expert

The widespread myth that the public is priced out of the single-family housing market is not true, said Arnold Schumacher, vice president and economist for Chicago Title Insurance Co.

"Housing remains a selective bargain which the vast majority of people can afford and, in fact, can afford easier than they could at any time in the last several years," he said.

Schumacher said that is because from 1960 to 1975 per capita disposable personal income (after taxes) rose by 60 per cent while during this same period total housing costs (purchase prices, taxes, mortgage interest, upkeep) increased only by 90 per cent as reported by the Home Ownership Component of the Consumer Price Index. Also, if you compare 1970 to 1975, disposable income was up 50 per cent and housing costs gained 40 per cent.

"The significant increase in single-family housing starts from 1975 to 1976 seem to dispel this "priced-out" myth. Single-family home starts have jumped from a 720,000 to 1,200,000 annual rate and a substantial number of buyers are in the 25 to 35 age group," he said.

Another part of the reason for this increase in single-family home purchasing power is that in the past few years there has been a significant increase in the number of young married wives entering the work force and thus contributing greatly to an increase in household income, Schumacher said. This increase in income is enabling couples to purchase homes which were formerly considered high-priced.

"The sharp rise in single-family home construction and sales since late 1974 confirms the fact that the single-family market is very healthy indeed," Schumacher said. "Home starts were at a low point of 719,000 annual rate in December 1974 and have risen over 40 per cent. Current levels of home construction approximate the previous record peaks reached in 1972 and 1973."

"Therefore," Schumacher said, "the public is not priced out of the single-family housing market. Houses do cost more today, but they are also more affordable."

Small homes, mobile walls to characterize year 2000

The home of the year 2000 will bear only passing resemblance to the house of the '70s, said Jackson W. Goss, president of Investors Mortgage Insurance Company, Boston.

Goss said there will be 90 million families by the end of the century compared with 56 million today. Also, the average family will be smaller. Current projections indicate one child families as compared to the present average of two-plus children.

Because of smaller families, houses will be smaller, too. Homes will likely average 1,000-1,200 square feet, compared with more than 1,500 square feet today," he said.

"Interiors will appear more spacious, however. They will tend toward one large room, divided by semi-transparent movable partitions that will enable homeowners to select their own interior — changing room shape and size when they so wish."

Goss said he believes technical advancements, including many civilian spinoffs from various technological research programs, will have a significant impact on housing by year 2000. Some of these will include:

- Better lighting. Using skylights, glowing luminescent wall panels and fiber optics, both daylight and artificial light will be transmitted to every room in the home.

- Better home security and communications systems, including two-way color cable television, long-distance laser picture telephone service, small computers to make more offices in the home possible, self-contained fire warning and extinguishing systems, magnetically coded door locks and wireless room-to-room intercoms.

- More advanced appliances — much more sophisticated radar ovens, ultra-sonic washers for clothes and dishes — the epitome of automatically controlled kitchens.

- A small, self-contained fuel cell, solar or nuclear power plant in each home that will provide heat, electricity and air conditioning.

"Architectural styles will be more appealing — more individualized, as builders and developers learn to work with a greater variety of preformed concrete, plastic, metal and glass products.

"The innovative homes produced by U.S. builders during the early '70s will appear conservative when compared to the styles of the next century," Goss said.

Poll asks data on home costs

Questions on expenditures for the improvement and upkeep of residential properties will be asked in a sample of households in this area by Bureau of the Census interviewers during the period of June 28-July 12, 1976, said Forrest P. Cawley, Jr., Director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Chicago.

The home improvement survey, conducted four times a year, yields valuable information on this segment of the American economy which is of interest to many government agencies and private groups. The sample households in this area are among the approximately 5,000 throughout the United States that will be included.

Total expenditures for the upkeep and improvement of residential properties in the fourth quarter of 1975 were $6.5 billion, or $26.9 billion at a seasonally adjusted annual rate. During 1975, the seasonally adjusted annual rate ranged from $23.9 billion to $26.9 billion.

The law requires that information reported to the Bureau of the Census must be held in strictest confidence. Published reports show totals only. No information identifying individuals or households is released.

Won't be punished

Real estate broker can advertise

DEAR MR. MELTZER: Before selling my house, I investigated brokers' commissions. My experience can be enlightening to your readers. However, because of the sensitive nature of the topic, I think you will never print my letter.

I began by consulting three reputable Realtors in our area. Each of them wanted 7 per cent commission. A Realtor who is a lodge broker agreed to sell the property for 5 per cent. He did a very good job. The property was sold in three weeks.

I was very much impressed with the young man's professional competence. I asked him why he didn't advertise that his rate was 5 per cent, so that others could benefit. His answer was, "They would take my license away if I were to advertise my 5 per cent rate."

How dare they do this? What can you do to stop this injustice? — Outraged.

The young man may have impressed you with his "professional competence" in real estate, but I believe he is being a bit loose with the facts. I don't think any broker today would lose his license or be disciplined by his real estate board if he were to advertise a rate lower than the prevailing one in the area.

Recent court decisions, when applied to real estate, seem to indicate that as long as the advertisement is in good taste, a broker may advertise his professional services and mention his commission rate, if that is what he wants to do.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: My house is equipped with thermal windows. In the past year, a collection of moisture has developed between the inside and outside pane. Please tell me how to clean it. — Crummy Windows.

Cleaning is not your solution. A thermal window consists of an inner pane of glass and an outer pane of glass with a vacuum in between. The purpose of the thermal window is to avoid the transmission of heat between the inside and outside of the house. It is supposed to eliminate the drafts caused by large window areas.

When moisture collects inbetween, it is an indication that the seal surrounding the glass is broken and air has entered this space. The only way to correct this is to replace the entire glass and frame.

If yours is a new house, it may be covered under warranty.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: I am known as a Casanova in my neck of the woods. I am "keeping" two women in different apartments in the same building. I have been paying both rents from different accounts for the past three years.

Last month the landlord raised the rent on one of the apartments by almost 50 per cent, with no explanation. The other apartment was not changed.

This seems unfair. Obviously, I can't call the landlord and disclose my problem. Maybe you, with your wide experience, can tell me if this is legal. — Two Many Girlfriends.

Except for the few communities in this country which still have rent control, there are no regulations covering rental increases. Generally, the landlord will raise the rent to whatever level the market will bear.

Apparently your landlord had some reason for raising the rent of one apartment, and not the other. If you don't feel like averaging out the increase, the only alternative is to stay with the girlfriend who has the lowest rent.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: I know it is very easy to repair a dripping faucet by installing a new washer. However, I have a complication. The main water shut-off in the basement does not work. It is impossible for me to turn off the water to make any minor repairs.

What can you do in a case like this? — Big Drip.

I am afraid your problem requires a professional plumber. Every house has a shut-off valve located outside the property, but you need specialized knowledge and equipment to operate it.

By shutting this off, the plumber would be able to install a new valve inside your basement. Some old-time plumbers will use dry ice to stop the flow of water long enough to install a new valve.

Insured home loans prominent in home buying

More than one-third of the total 1-4 family mortgage debt outstanding in the United States at the end of 1975 carried some form of insurance to protect lenders against loan default losses, according to Mortgage Guaranty Insurance Corp. (MGIC).

In its newly published "Fact Book," MGIC points out that $440 billion in total mortgage debt was outstanding at year-end 1975. Of that amount, $168 billion, or 38.4 per cent, was insured by either government or private mortgage insurance. MGIC founded the private mortgage insurance business in 1957.

The percentage of mortgage debt that is insured has remained somewhat level in the past 15 years, says MGIC. In 1960, 40.1 per cent of the outstanding 1-4 family mortgage debt was insured, nearly all under the federal government's FHA VA programs. The lowest percentage reached since 1960 was 35.7 per cent in 1968.

What has changed considerably since 1960 is the rising volume of mortgage debt carrying private mortgage insurance and a corresponding decrease in FHA VA insurance. In 1960, less than one per cent of insured loans were privately insured. That figure rose to nearly 24 per cent at the end of 1975, and is expected to continue growing in the years ahead.

As MGIC points out, the growth of private insurance at the expense of government programs is primarily due to the speed and ease of processing insurance applications by private insurers, and the lower cost to the borrower.

ANT AD

OFFERED AT $2.9 million, this LaJolla, Calif., residence is one of the most expensive homes built in the San Diego area in recent years. Enjoying nearly six acres on a bluff overlooking the Pacific Ocean, the 17-room house contains a luxurious array of facilities for entertaining and athletic activities.

For just $2.9 million you can buy this house

One of the most expensive residences built in the San Diego area in recent years has been placed on sale through Previews Inc. for $2.9 million. The estate has an ocean bluff-top location in LaJolla.

The 17-room residence was completed in 1972, and is being sold with 1.9 acres of grounds above a stretch of Pacific beach. A combination of advanced security systems and the location assure total privacy.

A major portion of the cost of the LaJolla residence went into custom-designed features. The living room, 64 feet by 40 feet, and the 24-foot square dining room have carpeting designed and woven in Hong Kong. The great bronze and crystal chandeliers in the two rooms hang from high ceilings. The fire pit hood is 20 feet to the ceiling is of Italian travertine marble.

Throughout the house there are art works commissioned for their particular placements — mosaic murals by Yoonso Pardinas of Mexico in the entrance court, a patio mural by Theresa Kulikowski, a tremendous bronze sculpture by Donald Gluck supporting the pits for a ground-floor study and the second-floor master bedrooms.

Rooms on two floors circle an enormous inner garden and 74 ft. by 54 foot swimming pool, which has a series of "bays" and "coves" of varying depth, one extending under a well of glass into the gymnasium. Hospitality and sports activities were important considerations in the architectural design, according to Jon Clerc-Scott of Previews. In addition to the huge pool, there are a sauna, Jacuzzi pool, tennis court, handball court, shuffleboard, practice putting green, and several patios with fire pits. The two recreation rooms are provided — one for adults with a sunken bar, fireside conversation area and wine-tasting cellar, and one for children with a soda fountain and snack kitchen.

The residence has seven bedrooms, six baths, and six half-baths. It includes a self-contained apartment for a caretaker or family member of an older generation.

The Los Angeles office of Previews Inc. has effected sales recently for the Beverly Hills home of Julie Andrews Edwards, three of Dean Martin's properties, James Stewart's ranch, and countless others.

No time? Try a border garden

If you like formal gardens but haven't the space to develop one completely — or if you don't have the time or inclination to take care of a large formal garden — why not make a partial one?

The garden illustrated here is really nothing more than a modified border garden. But its lines are formal and it is developed about a central axis (an imaginary line that divides it into two equal parts, with all elements carefully balanced about this line).

This garden is enclosed by a simple fence. The fence gives the garden definition at its rear and sides. It also acts as a deterrent to possible invasion of the garden by children at play.

Further definition is gained by a low border of compact cranberry bushes (Viburnum opulus nana), a compressed shrub that seldom reaches a height over two feet. It is hardy and responds well to shearing — or, you can let it grow naturally. You can easily keep it to a height of one foot. The central feature of this garden is a small pool at the center. You can equip a pool of this kind with a recirculating pump and fill it with water in warm weather and syphon it before cold weather begins, thus eliminating the need for a piped water supply.

The front corners of the pool are accented with two low-growing Dwarf Japanese yews (Taxus cuspidata nana) and the sides and rear are complemented with a ground-hugging, fast-growing hybrid, Cotoneaster "Herbstfeuer" (Cotoneaster dammeri x salicifolia) with evergreen leaves and decorative red berries in abundance.

Two fine yews, Sebian Intermediate (Taxus cuspidata "Sebian"), accent the inner corners of the garden while each outer front corner features a Star Magnolia (Magnolia stellata), a slow-growing very early blooming shrub with fragrant white flowers.

Each of the rear corners is given stature with a Sargent crab apple (Malus sargentii), a diminutive crab apple with a rounded form that ultimately reaches a height of eight to 10 feet. Its white flowers in May are followed later by decorative small (one-quarter inch) red apples.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. I've heard that veronica, sometimes called speedwell, makes a good ground cover. Would you recommend this plant?

A. No. Once it escapes into a lawn it is very difficult to remove and will eventually ruin the lawn.

Q. What kind of separator strips would you recommend for a patterned concrete pavement?

A. One-half inch redwood strips set a quarter inch below the pavement surface would do very well.

Efficient use of energy top goal of 2 federal agencies

The Dept. of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and the Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) have formally agreed to work together closely on a range of energy-related activities in housing and urban development.

The aim is to have HUD and ERDA mutually support and carry out specific programs leading to more efficient use of the nation's energy.

John B. Rhinelander, Under Secretary of HUD, and Robert W. Fri, Deputy Administrator of ERDA, today signed a memorandum of understanding outlining the working relationship between the two agencies.

The memorandum describes the general conditions under which cooperative efforts will be formed and outlines overall approaches and procedures for approving and implementing joint programs. In addition to carrying out the HUD/ERDA interagency agreement on the Residential Demonstration Program of the National Solar Heating and Cooling of Buildings Program, the two agencies will coordinate their work in such areas as energy conservation.

The HUD Secretary and ERDA Administrator each will designate a program coordinator to serve as liaison between the agencies, jointly review HUD and ERDA work in various programs and oversee future interagency agreements.

Ask Andy

Matches nearly two centuries old

Andy sends the Encyclopedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Bruce Horgen, 10 of Tulsa, Okla., for his question: "WHO INVENTED MATCHES?"

Exactly when the first person learned to strike a spark to light a campfire will always remain a secret of the hidden past. Whenever it happened, the original invention remained unchanged until about two centuries ago. What's more, the first match that came close to looking like modern matches didn't show up until the 1800s.

Nowadays, if we wish to light a fire, we simply take a match, strike it and presto! we have an instant flame. In perfect days, however, making a fire was not quite so easy. Our handy chemical matches had not been invented yet, and if you wanted a fire, you had to work for it.

Two common methods of producing fire before the invention of matches involved friction using a stick and a flint, or striking sparks with flint and steel. Needless to say, both of these methods were time consuming and often quite unreliable.

The first effort to produce an instant flame came in the 1700s. The product was called a phosphoric candle. It consisted of a small strip of twisted paper that was tipped with a form of phosphorus. This hot-tempered chemical burns when exposed to oxygen, so the whole thing was sealed in a glass tube. When you wanted a fire, you just broke the glass tube. Because of the poisonous fumes produced and the treacherous nature of phosphorus, the phosphoric candle never became too popular.

It was not until 1827 that the first match was designed that was both practical and, more or less, safe. These were produced by an English pharmacist named John Walker, and he called them congraves. A congrave was a wooden splint about three inches long tipped with various chemicals. To light one, you needed to pull it through a fold of material that resembled sandpaper.

The first safety matches which would ignite only when struck on a special surface were invented by John Lundström in 1855. And the first book matches were patented in 1892 by a Philadelphia attorney named Joshua Pusey. Today, some 25 billion matchbooks are distributed annually.

This year, a new type of match will be marketed—one that will go out by itself. In an effort to greatly reduce the some 10,000 match-related accidents that now occur every year, the manufacturers of this match have coated it below the tip with a fire-resistant chemical. It burns long enough—about 12 to 15 seconds—to serve its purpose. Then it just fizzles out with no shaking.

The modern match is a wonderful invention, and most of the time it does its job right on schedule. But the flame it creates is fire, and even the smallest fire can burst out of control. Even safety matches require responsible usage.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Scott Murphy, 9, of Des Moines, Iowa, for his question: "WHY HAS THE $2 BILL BEEN REISSUED?"

The $2 bill was sort of an odd fellow in the company of the even-popular $1, $5 and $10 bills. People never really got the hang of using it, and in May 1965, the Bureau of Printing and Engraving stopped printing this "outsider." But times have changed, and experts say that inflation and sheer convenience will make the $2 bill as routine and practical as a safety pin.

By reissuing the $2 bill, the federal government will save an estimated $35 million during the next five years. An average of 17 billion $1 notes are required each year, which accounts for nearly 60 percent of the total volume of currency printed. The Treasury anticipates that the $2 bill will replace about half of the $1 bills in circulation. By the end of this Bicentennial year, $400 million worth of $2 bills will have been circulated. All things considered, the $2 bill is back, and from the looks of things it's here to stay.

Various bids decide play

One thing that I learned about match point play at a very early stage in my bridge career was to study both my contract and possible other contracts.

Thus, when dummy hit the table I saw that at least half the field would be in four spades. We really should have been there also. I should have asked my partner to two spades instead of bidding one nothing.

The normal play in spades would be to decline to ruff a heart and play West for the queen of spades. He would make five if West held that card and four if East held it.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

I also noted that if I played West for the spade queen I would wind up making one trick less than the spade declarers and have a poor score

Accordingly, I won the heart in dummy, led dummy's jack of spades and let it ride. This enabled me to pick up East's queen of spades, collect 10 tricks and a top score, since the rest of the field made either four spades or just three notrump.

THE 40 SECOND FLAG

Some time ago senators and congressmen anxious to do something special for the groups before whom they spoke or to monolithically present a flag that had flown over the Capitol of the United States. That practice gained popularity.

In 1971, 27,699 such flags were presented in 1972 a decline to four more than 12,000.

These are not the same as the long flag that flies day and night atop the giant staff above the Capitol. They are instead 3 x 5 foot or "A B C" flags that are raised on three smaller masonry poles. Some have flown no more than 40 seconds. But they are properly raised, lowered, folded, boxed and certified as having flown above the Capitol.

As might be expected requests are heaviest for flags that have flown on national holidays or special occasions. Fourth of July and Flag Day lead in popularity. Elections and Pearl Harbor are close. At the missions also result in huge numbers of requests for these flags.

The cost. While the people who carry out the flag raisings are on the federal payroll the costs involved for the flag, the ceremony, certification and mailing are borne by the individual senators and congressmen or by the constituents.

Runaway teens

New Life House offers a place to think things over

by BONITA BRODT

Tattered curtains on the third floor of the dingy, red brick building are seldom closed, and the seedy Uptown Chicago atmosphere seeps through every open window.

For a teenage girl, it is a risky neighborhood. In the hot, mid-day sun, men with beads of sweat dotting their foreheads, gather on streetcorners and in doorways. Puffing on long cigarettes, they leer at any young girl passing by, sometimes grabbing her arm, beckoning company.

And when sunlight turns to shadow, younger men stand in darkened alleys and ask a girl to step closer. Jewelry around wrists of women with painted nails shimmers under dimly lit street lamps as they solicit along the street.

THE NEW LIFE House has operated behind those curtains for three years — and the word has traveled. Neighborhood pimps routinely call the pay telephone inside and ask about the girls: What do they look like? What are their measurements? Would the girls like to make a few extra bucks working for them? Sometimes men park cars alongside the building and sit on the hoods, calling up to the girls behind the windows asking for a "good time."

The six girls I lived with in the New Life House were familiar with the scenario. Some had grown up in the neighborhood or in a similar one; others had run away from home so many times they could adjust to any street.

Aside from the neighborhood, the New Life House is a reasonable place for a runaway girl to stay when she needs time to think over family problems. It provides a safe bed at night — away from the streets — and a good deal of honest, straightforward counseling to help through a crisis period. A girl may stay at New Life up to six weeks. The New Life House and Park Ridge Crisis Homes are the only temporary housing facilities of their kind for runaway girls in metropolitan Chicago.

ANY RUNAWAY GIRL, age 13-17, may go to the New Life House on her own initiative for counseling or a temporary place to stay. The six girls I met there had been referred to New Life by police or a child welfare agency because they would not or could not return home. Each was there for a different reason and each had her own story to tell.

In the past year, Susie, 17, has run away from home seven times and been hospitalized three times, the first for a nervous breakdown.

"I guess that's when everything between my mother and me started to fall apart," she said, as she inhaled deeply on one of the cigarettes she always had at hand.

"FIRST, I WAS dating this guy, he got interested in my mom, then he chose her over me. Then, my mom had an affair with a Catholic priest. Both of those things hit me pretty hard. I had put my mother on a pedestal all my life, and then — all at once — everything fell apart."

Then Susie was hospitalized after trying to take her life. "I took a large dose of Valium, decided to kill myself, slit my wrists, then fell asleep," she said, showing me two-inch scars on both wrists.

Not long ago, she overdosed on drugs and was taken to the hospital a third time. Her mother kicked her out of the house.

"She just couldn't handle it, the drugs and all. I love my mom. I want to go home, but I can't because she won't have me there. After mom kicked me out, I lived awhile with my stepfather, but then we started fighting and he kicked me out too."

SUSIE IS A KIND, likable girl, now a heavy drug user.

"I can't blame my mom that I started taking drugs. It was my choice, but I have to admit the choice was easier to make when my life started to fall apart. It's not an expensive habit for me; I can get all the stuff free from my friends," she said.

Susie said she has friends in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect she visits some weekends. "They have some really good parties there. I can turn on to anything I want, and it doesn't cost a thing."

The six counselors who work with girls like Susie at New Life are never pushy; it is their philosophy never to pressure a girl into any decision. Instead, they help the girl recognize her alternatives and the consequences of each.

COUNSELORS TAKE the time to listen to what a girl says about her life. They are with the girls as much as possible — at mealtime or watching TV — and make themselves available whenever a girl needs to talk. They make an effort to talk to parents often by phone and try to have them come to New Life for family counseling with their daughters. If possible, they make every effort to keep the family intact.

Finding runaway youth is a continuing problem for Northwest Suburban police departments, and when they cannot or will not return home, that presents another problem of finding the runaway a suitable temporary place to stay.

In the second of her two-part series on the runaway situation in the Northwest suburbs, Bonita Brodt reports today what it was like living in one of the few alternative arrangements available, the New Life House in Chicago's Uptown. Reporter Brodt spent three and a half days there, posing as a runaway teen.

The girls were comfortable with the living arrangement there, and that is easy to understand. The daily routine has only four rules: up at 9 a.m. for breakfast, complete a household chore, be inside the house by city curfew and try to attend house meetings and the dinner meal.

We were not allowed to keep any alcohol or drugs inside the house, and surprisingly, that rule was followed. Often the girls would come home at night visibly "high," but they kept all drug use outside.

NEW LIFE is a loosely structured living arrangement. During the first three days, counselors ask that a girl let them know when she's leaving, but generally, we could come and go as we pleased before curfew. For some, this arrangement worked well. For Cheri, it was a temptation.

An overweight 16-year-old with a loud, raspy voice, Cheri says she has been a prostitute since age 13. "I was looking for something else — something better. I needed the money to pay for alcohol and drugs. I have become addicted to both," she said.

Cheri has done a pretty good job staying away from drugs and alcohol, but prostitution is a more difficult problem. Counselors, familiar with her weakness, try to keep tabs on her, but many times Cheri would lie about where she was going. "When you've had sex three and four times a day for the last three years, it's a pretty hard habit to break," she said.

BUT WHEN I was there, some of her activity was halted. She learned she had venereal disease.

Cheri told me she has earned up to $2,000 a week practicing her profession. She has never used any method of birth control, and has been pregnant four times, she said, pulling up her blouse to show me wide stretch marks all around her plump stomach. All four pregnancies have ended in a miscarriage, she said, the last one only two months ago.

Cheri's voice softened as she explained family problems. "I have never been close to my parents. My father has raped me three times since I was nine. There have been so many times when I have gone up to him and said, 'Dad, I need to talk to someone, can I talk to you?' But he would only look at me, laugh and say, 'Are you' (Continued on Page 3)

The doctor says

by Lawrence F. Lamb, M.D.

Stomach unable to absorb B-12

Because of an ulcer I had part of my stomach removed 15 years ago at age 49. I was told years afterward that my stomach could not absorb vitamin B-12 and that I should have an injection once a month which I have been doing. At first they seemed to improve my well being, but now it seems to make little difference. Is it possible that I am now able to absorb B-12 from food and vitamins? Am I taking too much or too little in your opinion? I'm fairly active for my age, do not smoke and take alcoholic drinks rarely.

Inability to absorb vitamin B-12 resulting in pernicious anemia is a common complication of removal of a major portion of the stomach. Why? Because the stomach forms a substance called intrinsic factor that combines with the B-12 to enable it to be absorbed. One cause of pernicious anemia is the loss of the stomach's ability to form intrinsic factor. This is frequently accompanied with a decrease or absence of the formation of normal stomach acid.

After surgery the stomach may gradually increase in size again and there is a certain amount of regeneration. What happens depends a lot on how much of the stomach was actually removed. It is possible that you no longer need to take vitamin B-12 shots, but the only way to find out is to let your doctor test you.

I would not recommend stopping taking B-12 unless your doctor tells you it would be all right to do so. Absence of B-12 could lead to permanent damage to nerve tracts in your spinal cord and other complications. These changes could slip up on you without you being aware of any changes.

The reason you need to have the injections is that they get the B-12 directly into your body. When the stomach fails to produce intrinsic factor and you can't absorb B-12 properly, swallowing the B-12 will not get it into your bloodstream and it is simply lost.

To give you more information about B-12 I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-5, Vitamin B-12, Folic Acid, Pernicious Anemia. Others who want this information may send 50 cents with a long stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Can anything be done about a person who snores? My husband has, I believe, about the loudest snore possible. The only way I have found to stop it is to have him lie on his side and close his mouth, but sometimes he starts snoring again soon after I've stopped him.

It is not unusual to have this happen three or four times a night, particularly if he is very tired. I hate to keep waking him up. But it is the only way I can get any sleep. Is there any other answer to this problem?

Snooring occurs with mouth breathing and is most common when the person is sleeping on his or her back. Sometimes mouth breathing is related to obstructions of the nose and some of these can be corrected.

More often it is a habit. I read a good suggestion recently that you can try. Strap a ping pong ball or other object to the small of the back or tape it in place. That will keep him off his back and give you some sleep.

In some cases the couples find it is just better to have separate bedrooms so they can both get some sleep.

Government book aids buying safe used car

The price of automobiles being what they are, many a family is driven to think only in terms of used cars. While the savings can be substantial, a faulty purchase can lead to all kinds of frustrating problems. The government has come to the aid of those in this fix with a new, free booklet, "Common Sense in Buying a Safe Used Car." No charge at all. Write for it to the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Dear Dorothy: I seldom take issue with items in your column, but I have had the same experience as the reader who asked about removing perspiration odor from synthetics. After our son played football on a very warm day, I was handed a shirt that would have stopped a charging rhino! Washed with a detergent and ammonia, it still had an underarm problem. With nothing to lose, I sprayed the arm with a pre-wash stain remover, then laundered again. It worked! Since then, I spray these things whether they need it or not. — Helen Zukof

Dear Dorothy: A tip on keeping onions: They do nicely in one of those triangular plastic sink drainers available in dime stores and housewares departments. Keep them in the refrigerator and they will last indefinitely — and won't make the eyes tear when being chopped or sliced. — Ruth Dickler

Dear Dorothy: I know you are supposed to use only mild soap to clean laminated counter tops, but it's frustrating when some stains refuse to disappear. Accidentally spilled some dishwasher detergent on the counter and wiped it off with a damp cloth. The mess was gone and so were the stains. — Maud Whalen

The George Meiers remain on farm through 60 years

It was the tradition years ago for parents to give gifts of farmland to their sons upon the sons' marriages.

As one of the four sons (there also were two daughters) of Sophia and George Meier, Louis and his bride, Anna Rohlwing, started out their married life on 100 acres in Mount Prospect. Now married 60 years, they still reside in the original farm home they constructed at 705 S. Busse Rd., but the rest of their land is now part of the Mount Prospect golf course or has been developed into subdivisions.

Anna was one of the nine children of John and Louise Rohlwing of Elk Grove Township whose farm has now become part of the Woodfield Shopping Center and also part of Busse Woods Forest Preserves.

MARRIED June 22, 1916, Louis and Anna repeated their vows in St. John's Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect, where Louis was also baptized and confirmed. Louis also studied at St. John's Lutheran School, while Anna studied at St. Peter's School in Schaumburg.

The pair met when both were attendants at the wedding in St. John's of Louis' older brother to Anna's older sister.

Louis, who was born in 1892 and Anna, born in 1899, reared two sons, George and Leslie, both now deceased. They have three grandsons: Jim of Minnesota, Wayne of California and Danny of Mount Prospect, a student at Northern Illinois University. All three grandsons were present for the Meiers' 60th wedding anniversary which was celebrated Sunday with a dinner party for 40 at the Brass Rail in Arlington Heights.

Louis retired from farming in 1962, but he and Anna still tend an acre of lawn and garden. They are also Cub fans, enjoy pinochle and are still active in St. John's Church.

Runaways find a place to think at New Life

kidding bitch? You let me lay you You're no daughter of mine

THE GIRLS LIVE in four separate bedrooms each with three or four beds. Each girl is issued a lock and key so she can protect her belongings inside a locker, but few use the locks. Invariably things turn up missing.

Most of the girls at New Life House had a closet full of clothes and several home conveniences: radio books hair dryer and even a Raggedy Ann doll. They did not plan to return home.

But Debbie K. 16, came to the house with nothing but the clothes on her back and pregnant. She had run away from home in May with her fiancé who is 25. They ran away together to his parents' home in Puerto Rico. Later police found them and he was charged with helping a child across state lines.

"I WON'T GO HOME again. I don't want to see my parents and I am sure they don't want to hear from me. Both hate him (her fiancé) because he is Mexican. My mom would yell at me and say 'I don't see how you can lay in bed with him when I can't stand the sight of him.' When they can't accept him as a person it's not worth the argument."

"I'm staying here so we can get a petition to be married. When we get one the charge against him will be dropped."

Her fiancé brought Debbie some clothes but none fit. She had grown a lot in her first two months of pregnancy.

I was pregnant once before in February but I made the mistake of telling my mother. She made me have an abortion. We timed this one so she couldn't find out about the baby until it was too late for another abortion," she said.

DEBBIE SELDOM went out of the house during the day. Though very tall she has a puffy young looking face. When she talks about her abortion she seems older than her 16 years.

I want this child. I don't think about the abortion much. The child wasn't developed yet. But it was far enough along for me to know I had a living thing inside me and someone killed it. Hopefully this child will help me forget that," she said.

Meals are free and prepared by the Salvation Army, the group that operates the New Life House. Personal articles — toothbrush, deodorant, soap — also are provided. Facilities are generally nice — a large TV room, laundry equipment, library and a guest room where the girls may entertain friends.

THE WASHROOM is the worst feature. Bins are almost always dirty. Only one shower worked when I was there, and it was not unusual to have to bend over to scrape hair and muck from the clogged shower drain.

For the most part the girls were very receptive to one another and I was readily accepted among them. Occasionally there were a few hassles but that can be expected when a group of girls live together. They were supportive of one another — especially where Carolyn's problems were concerned.

A tall and slender black girl of 14 Carolyn is nearly three months pregnant. She wants to have her baby even without the father's support. She wants to be placed in a foster home with her child but as counselors have frankly told her, such placements are rare.

CAROLYN HAS BEEN running away from home since she was nine. She refuses to go back, explaining a situation where she can get along fine with her mother when she is a visitor, but not when she lives in the house.

When I was there she was depressed at times because some people — friends outside the house and her social worker from the Department of Children and Family Services — were pressuring her to have an abortion. She was also afraid the state will take custody of her child when it is born. But the girls and counselors at New Life support Carolyn's decision to have her child because it is a choice she has made.

Paula, 15, also flatly refuses to return home. A sun-bleached blonde with piercing blue eyes, she is reluctant to discuss her problems. But when another girl needed advice or conversation, Paula was there. This was her second stay at New Life. She is fighting to terminate her parents' rights.

TO PUT IT straight I just want them totally out of my life. Whenever my dad talks to me he backs me into a corner and starts cutting me down. Don't get me wrong I love my ma. I would like to go home but I just don't want to go crazy," she said.

The girls usually had money a few days. After three days in the house they may earn a $2.50 allowance per week. Most of that is spent on cigarettes. And when a girl needed to ride a bus to any counseling or event linked to family problems (such as to court or to visit the family), New Life would pay the bus fare. But many times a girl would walk to her destination and save the fare to buy cigarettes.

Debbie C., a dark-skinned Puerto Rican girl has run away from home several times in her 14 years. She was born in Puerto Rico, but she and her mother moved to their crowded Uptown neighborhood a few years after her father and brothers and sisters were killed in an automobile accident.

HER MOTHER later remarried, and that is when Debbie's problems began.

"He (her stepfather) hates Puerto Ricans. My mom is white, my step-sister is white — I am the only odd one in the family. He always fights me, but he can't fight without a weapon. He has left me with scars I will have for the rest of my life," she said, pointing to a couple of knicks on her legs and another on her arm.

"I love my mother very much. I realize all she has done for me, but I just can't live with him. Every time I run away, it was because he made me his slave and beat me, but the cops would always find me and take me right back home."

THE LAST TIME she ran away she went to a small Uptown restaurant, told them she was 18 and got a job as a waitress. She lived with another waitress for two weeks, until she was tired of hiding, and turned herself in to the police.

We walked to that restaurant one afternoon. Outside a neon green and pink sign shines in the summer heat, but inside, with only a small fan, it is so hot the men behind the counter wear sweat bands around their heads, and their wrinkled white shirts stick to their backs. The waitresses often have to sit because the heat is intolerable. Yet 16-year-old Debbie had been working there sometimes for 16 hours a day for 75 cents an hour.

Soon she will go to court, and it will decide where she will go after she leaves New Life. "I won't go back home," she said. "If they send me back I will go in one door and out the other."

"My mom says I should think about her feelings, but I have to think of myself too sometimes, right?"

Sour comment on migrant's lot

The year was 1955. The little girl looked with curiosity at the row of shanties and at the ragged children playing in the dirt nearby.

This was rural Ohio, sugarbeet and truckfarming land, and these were Mexican migrant workers. The girl from the city peered out the car window as the odd little settlement slid by. If you looked quickly enough, you could see inside the little huts through the open doorways.

There were clusters of these migrant quarters on a number of the farms in the area, usually located beside the road, far from the farmhouses. For the visiting suburban girl, the funny little houses were just another strange and fascinating part of The Country. Like cows and haystacks and silos.

She heard the grownups explain that the Mexicans — the people who lived in the funny little houses — came here in the summertime to work in the fields. Then in autumn, they went south to work in other fields. All year, year after year, they kept traveling around, going where it was warm and there was produce to be picked.

Some of the grownups seemed not to think much of the Mexicans. After all, anyone who would live in such a "house" and keep moving all the time and take their children in and out of school, and often even into the fields. But then, they were just Mexicans.

Keeping up

by Monica Wilch Perin

THE YEAR WAS 1970. A group of college students fired with idealism gathered around a TV set in Washington, D. C. They were proud this summer to have been chosen for a task force to investigate a wide variety of social ills and to try to change things for the better.

On this evening they were watching a documentary on migrant workers in Florida. The program focused on citrus fruit pickers employed by Coca Cola, producers of Minute Maid orange juice.

The hopeless lot of these workers and the unwillingness of the company to provide them with any kind of economic or physical security was disturbing. The students, a suburban Ohio girl and several Ivy Leaguers, were silent. They had had little exposure to the real world of citrus groves and other oppressions. But this was the Age of Reform, when injustices like that would be recognized for what they were and abolished.

THE YEAR IS 1976. A documentary on a Chicago public education station presents the findings of an eight-month investigation of the Florida citrus industry.

The film crew accompanies several citrus worker families, mostly Mexicans, through their grim daily lives of long hours and back-breaking work. The workers tell of wages averaging 50 cents an hour; of taking the children into the groves because there is no place else to leave them and their work helps feed the family; of inadequate housing and sanitation and non-existent medical care; of being fired for complaining or talking to reporters.

The film then cuts to the annual breakfast meeting of the Florida citrus industry, where growers and state legislators are boasting of the fine cooperation between them and of the progress the industry has made. Twenty-eight of 35 bills written by the citrus industry have been passed by the legislature.

Now cut to a Governor's Task Force report on citrus workers, which recommends minimum wages, workmen's compensation, medical care, collective bargaining and other basic rights for citrus workers, gathering dust in a closet in the state capital.

When asked about these things by the TV reporters, the industry and government people glibly repeat that the citrus workers — "if they're willing to work" — make a "good living wage." The industry-government coalition lists the citrus workers's wage as $3.30 an hour.

The documentary also reports that since 1971 Coca Cola has had a union contract with its citrus workers which has vastly improved their economic and living conditions.

IN A SUBURBAN living room near Chicago a woman watches the documentary intently. She remembers small tacky huts with Mexican faces in the doorways. They are in a distant past, another world. She wonders how she, anyone, could not have questioned it then, but even more incredible, allow it to continue happening in 1976.

As those huts seemed a part of the landscape, people standing outside of supermarkets asking shoppers to boycott lettuce, boycott grapes, perhaps to boycott citrus products other than Minute Maid, seem a part of the landscape to be ignored.

The Florida Citrus Industry has thrived for 25 years on being ignored.

There's beauty in vegetable patch

A few weeks ago I was sitting around thinking that I didn't have anything worthwhile in my vegetable garden. I felt unfulfilled. The idea was ridiculous because I already had quite a variety of things planted.

It occurred to me that I plant vegetables more for the thrill of watching the beautiful ones grow — the unique forms their leaves assume — rather than for what I harvest. I wasn't happy until I made a list of the vegetables I had planted and those I hadn't. What, no beans? I didn't plant them because I can get all I want for nothing from a neighboring bean farm after the harvester goes through.

But beans are one of the most interesting growers. They sprout quickly and vigorously, pushing up their hooked necks with such strength that nothing short of a wayward rabbit will stop them. The seed separates and out of the nodding "head" comes a set of leaves — it reminds me of a hissing snake. Suddenly it springs, lifts its "head" and folds out its first leaves like baby elephant ears. Before you know, you can't count the leaves anymore because they are exploding with spurts of growth so quickly.

"I MUST HAVE beans," I said, "green, purple, lima and garbanzo."

Potting shed

by Mary B. Good

(Nobody can guess that garbanzo plants are beans. It's fun to surprise visitors when they ask, "What is that?")

The first couple weeks of the gardening season are torture because after putting so much effort into planting, I wait for signs of growth, and wait and wait. Just as I start to despair that nothing will grow, voila. It happens — as it's been happening every year since I was a kid. The garden comes up. But I have no squash!!

No squash — I can't stand to see a whole gardening season pass without the thrill of watching immense zucchini plants overwhelm the less flamboyant plants. Last year I had a variety with the most beautiful grey-green artistic design on its leaves. It could have won any vegetable beauty contest. "I must have squash! No matter that nobody likes to eat it in my family — its leaves are lovely to look at."

EGGPLANT IS ANOTHER desirable vegetable. Its strong young leaves are a comfort, but when those black bowling balls appears, I go ape. The same is true of banana pepper. Those yellow waxy peppers don't even look real, but what a sight! And sweet bananas make terrific field nibbles. "I must have eggs and bananas!"

The gardener who has never grown brussels sprouts has missed what to me look like mini-Midwest palm trees with warts growing on the trunk. Man, that's a wild one. What fun when brussels sprouts start producing. "Did I forget to tuck some brussels sprouts plants into my garden?"

Peas are another winner. Lacy and limp, they flail around in the breeze, searching out a support to cling to. When the pods appear, they seem to tease: "Hey — over here! I've got some goodies hiding in my pods — for you to find like Easter eggs."

THE PERENNIAL asparagus is another strange fellow. It comes up so early: "Hello, goodbye, stick your nose in a cherry pie!" Chop asparagus on its entrance into today, or it will grow into a shrub and be worthless as food for the rest of the growing season.

Tomato, undisputed popularity queen of the vegetable patch: it starts out so straggly. I never stake tomato too early because I have little hope that it will one day become a heavy weight unable to support its poundage. How can it delude me every single year?

Barbara Stanwyck had a line in some old late show movie: "Cabbage fields are beautiful." And they are, but what about the habit of growth? Cabbage just sits there, like a big, fat bullfrog. Doesn't grow upward, doesn't do much, just develops obesity. What an easy way to grow.

SO NOW I ENJOY the glories of my garden. Twenty-eight kinds of vegetables out there — count 'em. And they are all doing their thing, as I sit back with wonder and delight.

Do you have an entry in the vegetable beauty contest — some fantastic grower that excites your sense of amazement? Write and share it with us.

Harper design students take prizes

Harper College fashion design students took first and third places and three of the five honorable mentions in the Lane Bryant Student Design contest.

First prize went to Gail Robinson of Libertyville, who is a Harper student and won the Crompton Cordway award for 76. Gail's winning entry was a three-piece weekend outfit with a shoulder bag. Her award is a trip to New York City.

Second place went to Katherine Schlitz, a student at Mount Mary College and third to Harper student Anne Powers of Hoffman Estates. Anne's entry was an off-shoulder voile dress. She earned an internship with Associated Fur Industries of Chicago.

AMONG STUDENTS earning honorable mentions were Harper students Deborah Walters, Crystal Lake, Patty Jo Paluch, Park Ridge, and Betty Lou Sloan, Palatine. Mary Ellen Szontagh of Des Plaines, a student at Triton, was also an honorable mention winner. Betty Lou took second place in the Chicago Fashion Group junior awards in '75 and was also awarded a trip to New York City to Mademoiselle's Fashion Editor's Week.

The student fashions, along with fashions from six Chicago area designers and 10 leading Chicago stores, will be modeled at noon Wednesday, June 30, at the Civic Center Plaza in Chicago at the annual "Chicago Look" fashion show. Sponsored by Mayor Daley's Committee for Economic Development, the show will have a Bicentennial theme and include red, white and blue furs and a song and dance show by students from Brigham Young University.

Purpose of the show is to encourage the growth of the fashion industry in Chicago and to acquaint the city's fashion-minded women with the work of local designers and manufacturers.

Summer's here and so is the hot weather. Time is right for outdoor entertaining again. We all know what a fuss it is to prepare an entire meal outdoors, so the next time you invite guests, why not make it for drinks and hors d'oeuvres? They can be attractive and substantial so no one goes away hungry.

Frosty Rum Coolers

FROSTY RUM COOLER

- 1 can (6 ounces) thawed frozen juice concentrate*
- 1 juice can (6 ounces) water
- 1 juice can (6 ounces) white or gold rum
- 1 large tray ice cubes

Combine ingredients in blender carafe. Mix, gradually adding cracked ice until the blender is full and the drink is frosty to the desired consistency. Garnish with cherries, sliced orange or lime. Makes about 8 half-cup servings.

* Any fruit flavor may be used.

SAVORY FILLED FRENCH BREAD

- 1 long loaf French bread
- 1/4 cup soft white crumbs (divided)
- 1 large package (8 ounces) cream cheese
- 1 tablespoon minced pickle
- 1 tablespoon grated onion
- 1 small can anchovy fillets, drained and mashed
- 1/4 cup chili sauce
- Dash Tabasco
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup minced watercress or parsley

Split the bread lengthwise and remove center. Grate or crumb enough of center to make 1/4 cup fine crumbs. Thoroughly mix 2 tablespoons crumbs, cream cheese, pickle, mashed anchovies, onion, chili sauce and Tabasco. Fill the hollowed out lower half of the bread with this mixture. Mix remaining crumbs, butter and watercress. Fill the hollowed out upper half of bread with the watercress butter. Press the two halves of loaf together, tightly wrap in plastic wrap and chill several hours. Use a very sharp knife to cut loaf into thin slices. Makes about 30 slices.

HOME STYLE PATE

- 1 pound chicken livers
- 1/2 pound pork fat
- 1 pound cooked lean ham
- 1 pound raw veal or lamb
- 1 pound raw lean boneless pork
- 3 large cloves garlic
- 3 eggs, beaten
- 1/2 cup heavy cream
- 1/2 cup white rum
- 1 tablespoon salt
- Pepper to taste
- 1/2 teaspoon each allspice, cinnamon and fine herbs
- 1/2 cup fine bread crumbs

ASPIC:

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- 1 can (10 ounces) consommé madrilène

Poach chicken livers in boiling water for 2 to 3 minutes to firm up. (This makes them easier to handle for grinding.) Put cooled livers, fat, meats and garlic through coarse blade of grinder. Repeat through fine blade. Add the next six ingredients, spices and crumbs to meat mixture, blend very well. Turn smooth mixture into a well greased ring mold (6 to 8 cups). Cover top tightly with foil. Set covered ring mold in pan of hot water, about 2 inches deep. Bake in a moderate oven, 375 degrees, about 3 hours until firm. Drain off liquid from mold. Allow pate to cool slightly, loosen and turn out. Chill.

Aspic:

Soften gelatin in a little cold water, then dissolve in hot consommé. Chill until very thick and syrupy. Place molded pate on a wire cake rack set in a larger pan.* Spoon aspic over mold to cover entire surface. Chill 10 to 15 minutes. Repeat until pate has a thick smooth coating of aspic. Refrigerate molded pate until ready to use.

* Some aspic will collect in pan. This may be remelted and used again if desired.

CHEESE SPREAD

- 1 cup creamy cottage cheese
- 1 cup butter
- 1 tablespoon dry mustard
- 1 tablespoon paprika
- 1 tablespoon minced chives
- 1 tablespoon minced parsley
- 1 tablespoon caraway seeds, crushed
- 1 tablespoon capers, minced
- 1/4 teaspoon anchovy paste
- Dash Tabasco

EASY DIP

- 1 pound blue cheese
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine (1 stick)
- 1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, softened
- 1/4 cup white rum
- Dash Tabasco
- Dairy sour cream

Blend cheese, butter or margarine and cream cheese until smooth and creamy. Blend in rum and Tabasco. Stir in sour cream — 2 tablespoons at a time — to get consistency desired. Chill. Makes a generous 3 cups.

CHEESE AN' WINE SPREAD

- 1/4 pound sharp cheese, grated
- 1/2 cup dairy sour cream
- 3 to 4 tablespoons sherry
- 4 stuffed olives, minced

Combine ingredients. Blend until smooth. Makes about 2 cups.

Chocolate Ice Cream Moons

Ice cream sandwich easy to make at home

Children love ice cream sandwiches and they are simple to make — just big scoops of ice cream put together with delicious homemade chocolate cookies. The cookies may be made ahead of time, then frozen and stored in individual containers until party time.

Measurements are given in both metric and American Standard units. Usually dry ingredients are measured in grams in the metric system. But food and utensil manufacturers have developed cups and spoons for both liquid and dry ingredients to make conversion easier for cooks.

Cooking with metrics

CHOCOLATE ICE CREAM MOONS

- 500 milliliters or 2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
- 250 milliliters or 1 cup sugar
- 71 1/2 milliliters or 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 21 1/2 milliliters or 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 21 1/2 milliliters or 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 125 milliliters or 1/2 cup softened margarine
- 83 milliliters or 1/3 cup buttermilk
- 2 eggs
- 2 squares (28 1/3 grams or 1 ounce each) unsweetened chocolate, melted and cooled
- 5 milliliters or 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 1/4 liters or 1 1/2 gallon ice cream, any flavor

Combine flour, sugar, baking powder, baking soda and salt in large mixing bowl. Add margarine, buttermilk, eggs, chocolate and vanilla; blend well. Beat thoroughly for about 1 minute. Drop 30 milliliters (2 tablespoons) of dough on greased baking sheet about 10 centimeters (4 inches) apart. Spread dough to make a 7 1/2-centimeter (3-inch) round. Bake at 200 degrees Celsius (400 degrees Fahrenheit) for 5 to 6 minutes. Remove from baking sheet immediately. Cool.

Pair cookies with ice cream in center. Makes about 14 ice cream sandwiches.

Travelers find soup to be soothing pick-up

Soups make excellent traveling companions. With so many families enjoying hiking and biking, hot or cold soups are in order. Fill containers with soups to take along or prepare soups in advance of day trips to have with sandwiches when you return too weary to prepare a full meal. A potato soup with dill is soothing to the hungry stomach when served hot, but also may be served thoroughly chilled. Also refreshing on hot days is a chilled fruit soup of Swedish inspiration and a Spanish gazpacho or tomato-vegetable soup.

POTATO SOUP WITH DILL

- 1 cup finely chopped onion
- 1 1/2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 large potatoes, peeled and sliced
- 1 can (13 1/2 ounce) chicken broth
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- Dash pepper
- 2 cups milk
- 2 teaspoons chopped dill or 1 1/2 teaspoon dill weed, crushed

In large saucepan, saute onion in butter 4 minutes or until soft. Add potatoes and chicken broth. Cover and simmer 30 minutes. Remove potatoes and onion and puree them in a food mill or electric blender. Then combine the broth, pureed potato mixture, salt, pepper, milk and dill in saucepan. Heat slowly until piping hot. Makes 3 to 4 generous servings.

GAZPACHO

- 3 cups cocktail vegetable juice
- 1 raw egg
- 1 green pepper, halved and seeded
- 1 cucumber, halved and peeled
- 1 small onion, coarsely chopped
- 1 clove garlic
- 1 1/2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup olive or salad oil
- 1/4 cup wine vinegar
- 4 scallions or green onion
- 1 tomato
- 1 cup garlic croutons

Coarsely chop green pepper and cucumber.

In the jar of an electric blender combine juice, egg, half of the coarsely chopped green pepper, half of the coarsely chopped cucumber, onion, garlic, Worcestershire sauce and salt. Blend until smooth (or puree in food mill.) Stir in oil and vinegar. Chill well. Meanwhile, finely dice remaining half of the green pepper and the cucumber. Thinly slice the scallions. Peel, seed and dice the tomato. Put in individual bowls. Pour chilled soup into bowls and serve with the prepared diced vegetables and croutons. Makes 1 quart.

CONCORD SWEDISH

FRUIT SOUP

- 1 bottle (12-ounces) Concord grape juice
  - 1 1/2 cups apple juice
  - Generous dash allspice
  - Generous dash ground cardamom
  - 1/2 cup cantaloupe balls
  - 1/2 cup thinly sliced unpared apple
  - 1 medium orange, sectioned
  - 1 can (8 ounces) peach slices, undrained
- Combine all ingredients. Chill well. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Big cheese eaters

Americans ate an average of more than 19 pounds of cheese per capita last year, says the Cooperative Extension Service of Cornell University. Nearly half the total was American cheese, either natural or processed. The processed kind is a pasteurized blend of natural cheeses and an emulsifier. Cheese food is similar, but contains more moisture and less fat. It can also contain optional ingredients, such as whey, fruits or vegetables. Cheese spreads have even higher moisture content.

No easy time for colonial cooks

The Bicentennial is here, so I think we should take time out to appreciate what the housewife in colonial America was up against when she tried keeping house.

The American housewife of 1776 did not have an easy time of it. There was a war on and if the colonies were going to be independent, they would have to learn to get along without imported goods. Our balance of trade in those days was even worse than it is now.

This meant a full day for the woman of the house. Most households had a plot of ground where they could grow needed supplies and perhaps keep a cow, some chickens and a sheep or two, provided the lady was good at livestock management.

THERE WAS of necessity, a division of labor in the colonial household. The man was responsible for building the house, making the furniture and tools and tending the fields. The lady took charge of food, clothing, children and making money to buy whatever she needed to carry out those duties. It took a lot of time.

The book "Founding Mothers" by Linda Grant De Pauw gives a clear and sometimes hilarious picture of life in colonial America. She tells us that colonial housewives were terrible cooks. Occasionally one would try her hand at baking, and De Pauw recounts one traveler's plaintive report that the "house pie was made of apples neither peeled nor separated from their cores, its crust not broken if a wagon wheel goes over it."

Fact was, there wasn't much to cook and people didn't expect to enjoy eating it. It was just something they had to do.

MANY HOUSES didn't have tables or chairs for mealtimes and quite often there was just one bowl from which everyone ate, with the help of chunks of bread.

The typical colonial meal cooked over and over again was salted meat boiled with root vegetables, corn in some form (either pone, mush or pop-ped), and rum cut with water.

Everyone drank rum. It was considered downright medicinal and a necessity of life. No wonder the colonists raised such a fuss when England tried to restrict imports.

Martha Washington's almost unbelievable recipe for an alcoholic chicken soup used as a treatment for tuberculosis is also recorded in the book. Women grew any number of herbs in their gardens and dispensed them for the constant illnesses that plagued the early settlers. Many doctors in those days were feared because their cures very often killed the patients. I can't say much for the home remedies either.

I have an old book that records some of these potions. Consider the recipe for a soaking solution for the "white swelling": boil one pound tobacco in two quarts cider, strain it and add one pound beeswax and one pound sheep tallow. Stir until dissolved.

A GOOD CURE for constipation and worms was a tea made of peach flowers. And peach kernels were good for the "gravel," meaning kidney stones.

Well, in honor of the occasion of the Bicentennial I think we should make something from an early American recipe. I have a cookie recipe that is reputed to have been baked by Ann Page, a very genteel lady from the same Virginia family that produced Robert E. Lee. It is rumored that Ann Page baked these cookies and put her initials upon them in order to sell them to make money for the revolutionary troops. I can't swear to that,

The working woman cooks

but the cookies are called: AP's

- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup butter
- 5 eggs
- 1 1/2 cup cream
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 4 1/2 cups unsifted flour
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon water

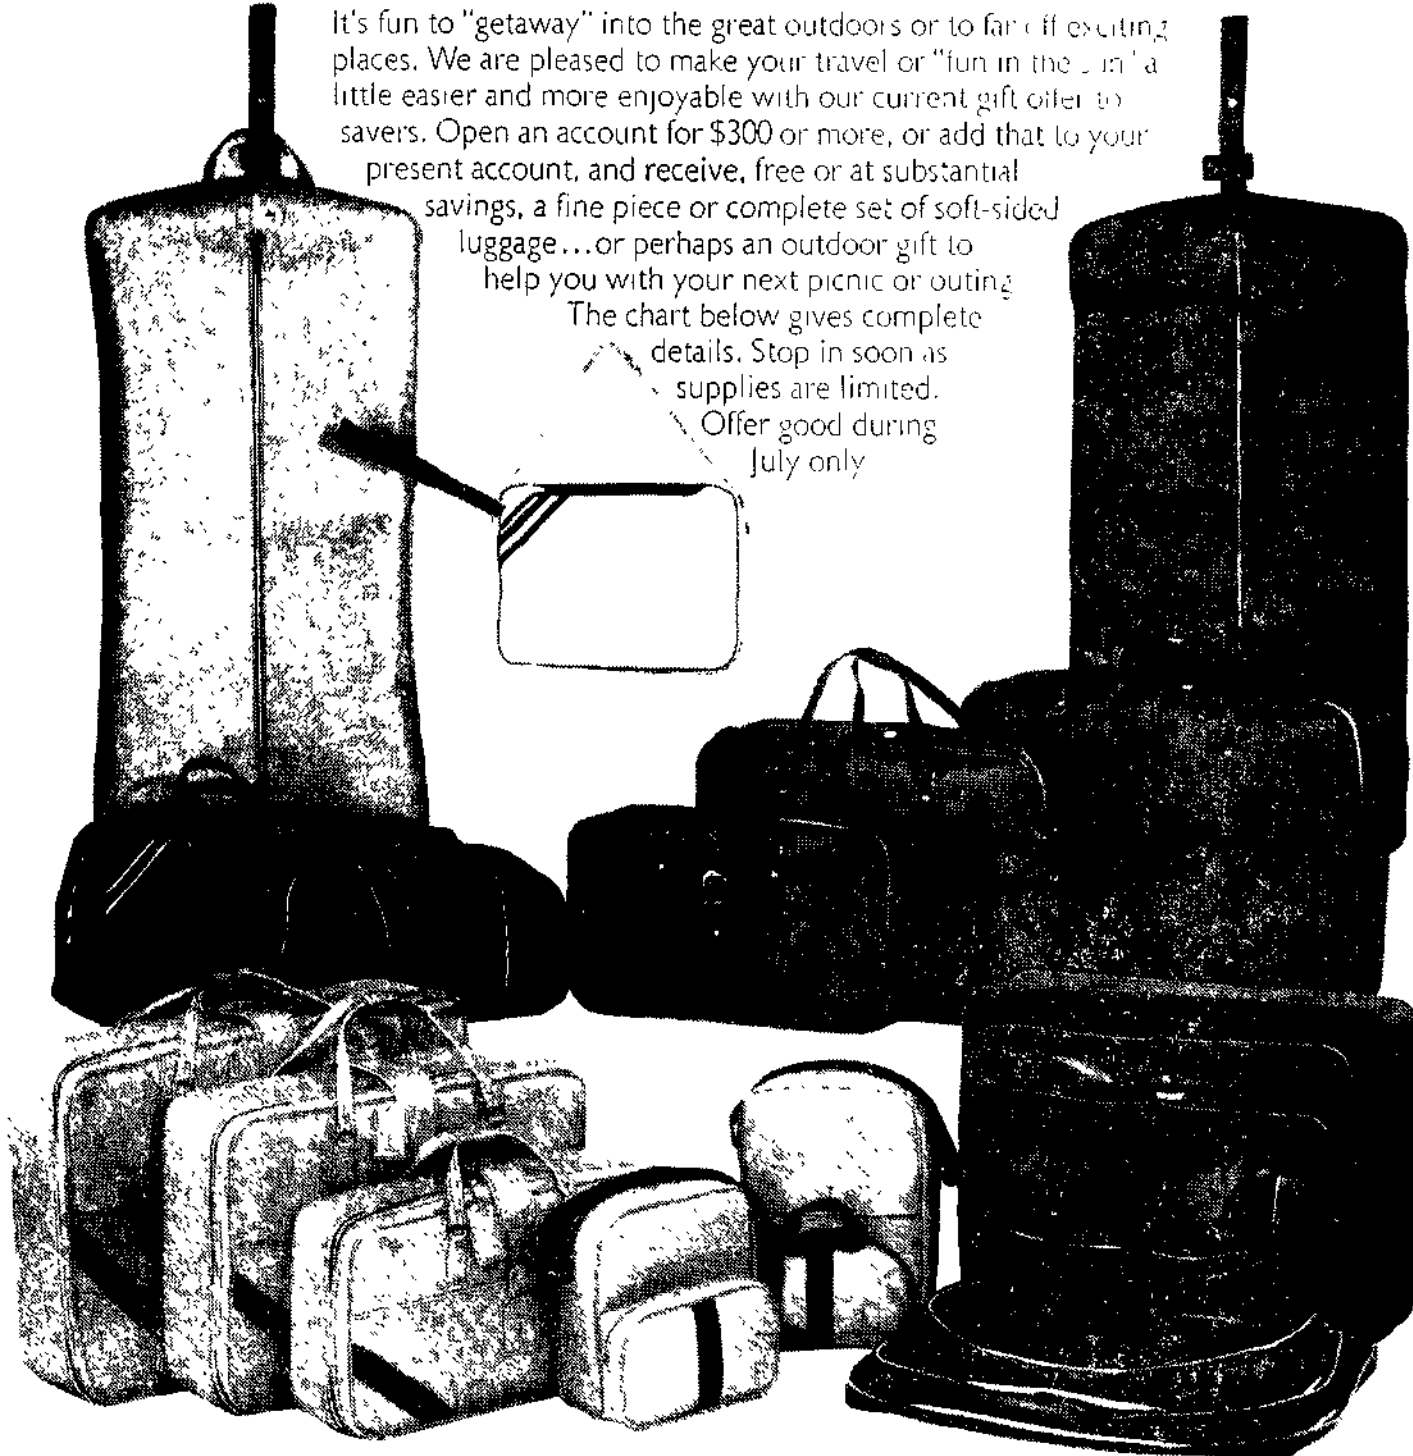

Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs one at a time and beat well after each addition. Add cream and vanilla. Add flour and baking soda that has been dissolved in water. Blend all ingredients completely and chill overnight. Roll very thin and cut into rounds. Bake at 350 degrees until slightly brown. Makes about 10 dozen 3-inch cookies.

Canning lid regulation under fire

by MICHAEL T. CONLON

LAST year homemakers worried about finding canning lids. This year there are lots of lids, but no one is willing to assure home canners they are safe.

New lids rushed into production in the wake of last year's shortage, but because of a jurisdictional dispute no government agency accepts responsibility for determining whether some lids may be faulty or dangerous.

The agencies are receiving complaints about spoiled food resulting from faulty lids from novice manufacturers or importers, and the Food and Drug Administration and the Agricultural Department are urging the Consumer Product Safety Commission to step in.

However, the commission decided last year it lacks jurisdiction over the canning lids, so what they are urged to do is seal the food effectively to make it edible months later.

The FDA has told the safety commission it is troubled by that standard because the CPSC could exercise jurisdiction to deal with such cases as containers that fail to seal or equipment that operates.

The FDA believes its own powers are limited to cases where a chemical substance might leach from the lid into the food, thus becoming a "food additive" and making the lid subject to its jurisdiction.

The Agriculture Department's consumer adviser Nancy Steorts says the government has been deluged with inquiries from both consumers and retailers asking whether these new lids are safe to use.

Because of a lack of a testing program we are left in the unfortunate position of saying "we don't know," she said.

The consumer safety commission may vote later this week on whether to reconsider its earlier stand.

A tentative plan was worked out earlier this year by officials of the three agencies whereby Agriculture could find and suspect lids to the FDA testing and the FDA would report back to it with the information then going to consumers.

But government lawyers have ruled Agriculture does not have the power to implement the plan.

Preserving save money?

by GAYNOR MADDOX

In other times "home canning" was the economy city of women throughout the country. But today women are realizing that home canning is not the money saver it once was.

"Times change, customs change and economic patterns change," said nutrition specialist Anita Dean, at Michigan State University. "In the Middle West where more canning is done than in any other part of the country we have found that the cost of the food women put up is often the biggest factor in the total cost of preserving food at home. And the cost very often depends on the source of the food," she added.

"GITS OF produce from friends with overproducing gardens reduces the costs of preserving foods immensely," she said. "Growing your own produce — vegetables and small fruits — is probably the next most economical way to get food for processing. Buying from a pick your own operation, a farmer's market or a roadside produce stand during the height of the season is another fairly low-cost option."

Family food preferences should determine what you preserve. Just because green beans, carrots or potatoes are plentiful does not mean you should can them. They are available all year around. But foods such as peaches, cherries, rhubarb and other foods of short availability should be top priority.

"Failure to follow canning instructions carefully can lead to spoilage and waste and even food poisoning," cautioned Dr. Dean. "If you are unsure about your skills, you would be better off freezing food or buying commercially processed products."

STORAGE OF your canned foods is important. They need a cool, dark place that does not get cold enough for food to freeze. Storage in an overly warm area lowers the quality of the food. And storage in a hard to get to spot may lead to waste because you have forgotten the food is there.

"Because of the initial cost of a home freezer and the expense of operating it, home freezing is usually more expensive than home canning,"

New home appliance

New home appliances for small households include a pint-sized deep fat fryer and an electrical hamburger cooker that doubles as an open griddle with more than 40 square inches of grilling surface. The fryer comes with a snap-on plastic lid to permit storing used fat in the appliance between uses. Both products have nonstick-coated cooking surfaces.

Celery adds crunchy interest to menu

Few cooks take full advantage of celery. For example, when was the last time you served braised or sautéed celery to your family? Cooked celery often turns up in delicious soups but it is time to put this crunchy vegetable to greater use in your menus. Here is a variation of an Italian risotto which usually is a thick and creamy rice dish. Make a celery 'risotto' to serve individually or to mix with meat dishes.

CELERY "RISOTTO"

2 tablespoons cooking oil
1/4 cup finely chopped onion

1 cup boiling water
1 chicken bouillon cube
1/4 teaspoon basil leaves crumbled
1/16 teaspoon ground black pepper
Pinch saffron
9 cups finely chopped celery
In large saucepan or skillet heat oil Add onion, sauté 3 minutes or until tender. Add water, bouillon cube, basil, black pepper and saffron. Stir to dissolve bouillon. Stir in celery, simmer, uncovered 12 to 15 minutes stirring occasionally, or until celery is crisp-tender. Season to taste with salt, if desired. Makes 6 to 8 portions.

Age determines frozen purchases

A recent consumer profile indicates age and income are among the key factors determining how much of a household's food budget is spent on frozen products.

The National Live Stock and Meat Board says usage of frozen food at home increases with income. Almost half of the respondents in the over $20,000 income range said they spent more than $4 a week on frozen food, while only 22 per cent of those with incomes under $6,000 a year spent as much.

The biggest consumers among age groups were 40-to 49 year-olds, and the smallest the under 30s and over 60s.

Changed habits

A new poll indicates that only four out of 10 persons surveyed have changed their eating habits, although their interest in nutrition is changing.

The Gallup study was commissioned by a magazine and a San Francisco-based advertising and public relations agency. The poll showed those who changed eating habits halved their sugar intake and cut consumption of high cholesterol foods by 38 per cent.

Bus system has until fall to boost use

by JOE FRANZ

Related story on Page 12

The Regional Transportation Authority will consider eliminating the north and southwest routes of the Des Plaines intracity bus system if ridership does not improve by Sept. 1, Ald. George Olen, 2nd, said Wednesday.

Olen, chairman of the city's special transportation committee, said the RTA was considering reducing or eliminating service sooner, but has decided to give the routes more time to build ridership.

"We have until Sept. 1 to show a better growth pattern," Olen said. "They said if we don't show more ridership by then, the two routes may be eliminated."

RIDERSHIP ON ALL four of the intracity routes has been below the breakeven point, but the number of riders on the north and southwest routes has been considerably lower than on the south and west routes.

Saturday service and some evening runs on the intracity bus system already have been eliminated because of poor ridership.

The system, operated by the North Suburban Mass Transit District and funded by the RTA, needs 6,000 riders a week to break-even. Currently, about 1,100 riders a week use the buses.

Olen said that new "more readable" schedules will be distributed throughout Des Plaines within three weeks in an attempt to encourage ridership on the system.

"We hope the schedules will be easier to read and understand," Olen said. "I think that's where some of the problem has been. They've been too complicated and people just don't know when the buses run."

HE SAID 50 BUS stop signs, a number of benches and three bus shelters also will be placed around the city in an attempt to bolster sagging ridership. The shelters will be placed at Ellinwood and Pearson streets, Lee Street and Ashland Avenue and in front of the Chicago and North Western Ry. train station in downtown Des Plaines.

In addition, the RTA is considering lowering fares from 45 cents to 30 cents on the system and city officials are considering subsidizing the service so senior citizens may ride free.

Olen said the proposal to allow senior citizens to ride free has been referred to the city council's finance committee for study. "They will determine how much it will cost the city and decide whether they want it put in the city budget," he said.

Intracity buses depart from the Chicago and North Western Ry. station and are designed to bring the service to within six blocks of most homes in Des Plaines.

The system operates Monday through Friday from 6 a.m. to about 6 p.m. The buses run at 30-minute intervals during rush periods and one-hour intervals at other times.

The contest is cosponsored by the Mount Prospect State Bank and Prospect High School Boosters Club. The Olympic team will arrive in the afternoon today and depart Friday morning after staying at the Arlington Park Hilton.

ABOUT 95 TONS of metal cans, glass and other solid waste materials have been recycled at the Des Plaines recycling center on tion of cans into the bin. The cans and other materials are sold to firms which recycle the materials into usable goods.

Oakton to hold evening classes at Notre Dame

Oakton Community College will lease Notre Dame High School in Niles as a temporary extension center for evening classes during the 1976-77 school year.

The board of trustees has approved leasing the school at 7655 Dempster St. for $14,000 for 13 classrooms and the lounge. Pres. William Koehnline said the center will give Oakton enough space to provide for growing enrollment in the evening classes.

Trustee Raymond Hartstein voted against renting Notre Dame, saying "we are not living up to our commitment to the eastern end of the district."

When the board approved the Des Plaines site for the permanent campus, it agreed to seek locations in the eastern end of the district for satellite class sites.

Board chairman Vivan Medak said elementary and high school districts in the eastern area of the district were contacted, but did not respond to the request for classroom space.

City to appeal MSD court ruling

Des Plaines officials will appeal a U.S. District Court decision that struck down city objections to the Metropolitan Sanitary District O'Hare Water Reclamation Plant.

The city council voted 15 to 2 to file with the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to overturn the lower court decision.

The lawsuit charges the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency environmental impact study was inadequate to ensure the safety of residents near the sewage treatment plant, which is under construction at the southeast corner of Elmhurst Road and Oakton Street.

U.S. DISTRICT Court Judge George Leighton ruled in favor of the MSD about two weeks ago after reviewing the impact study and briefs filed by the city and MSD.

The recommendation to appeal the judge's decision was made by the city council's city code and judiciary committee.

Ald. Alan Abrams, 8th, committee chairman, said although the city has "sustained a number of defeats" in the MSD case, he believes the city should continue its court battle because of the potential health hazards he says the sewage treatment plant will pose.

"Our appeal is on a very legitimate issue — the environmental impact statement," Abrams said. "I think the action is very reasonable."

ALD. GEORGE Olen, 2nd, said although he voted to appeal the case, he believes the city may be fighting a losing battle.

"It might be foolish to keep fighting the MSD because they already are building the plant," he said. "At what point does it become ridiculous?"

'Vital data' kept from Warren panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Warren Commission never considered the possibility that John F. Kennedy's assassination was arranged by Fidel Castro because the CIA never told the panel about plans to kill the Cuban premier, according to a Senate study released Wednesday.

The 106-page report said the CIA and FBI withheld certain vital data from the Warren Commission, including secret reports about two mysterious travelers who fled to Cuba after Kennedy's murder in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963 — another failure to look into "the Cuban connection."

While the report, prepared by a task force directed by Sens. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., and Gary Hart, D-Colo., pointed to several new leads, it said it had no evidence to overturn the Warren Commission's conclusion Lee Harvey Oswald was Kennedy's sole assassin, acting alone.

But Schweiker said the CIA and FBI were engaged in "a coverup" that kept the Warren Commission from following every lead and "there is no longer any reason to have faith in its picture of the Kennedy assassination." He said a new investigation is needed "before the American people will ever know the truth."

The report said former CIA Director Allen W. Dulles, one of the seven members of the Warren Commission, never told the six other members (Continued on Page 3)

Pros to test Olympic team tonight

The inside story

by BOB FRISK
Time is not on the side of the U.S. Olympic basketball team.

It is very difficult to achieve total cohesion in any team sport in just four weeks.

Just how much progress has been made? Area basketball fans will be the judges tonight.

A capacity crowd of 3,500 will jam the Prospect High School fieldhouse at 8 p.m. today for the only Midwest appearance by the team. Coach Dean Smith's Olympians will battle the Midwest All-Stars coached by Ray

Meyer of DePaul University.

ALTHOUGH THE game is a sellout, it will be broadcast on WWMM-FM (92.7), starting at 7:30 p.m.

The contest is cosponsored by the Mount Prospect State Bank and Prospect High School Boosters Club. The Olympic team will arrive in the afternoon today and depart Friday morning after staying at the Arlington Park Hilton.

"I'm greatly impressed with the attitude and unselfishness of our team," said Smith as he prepared to bring the Olympians to Mount Prospect.

"The players are giving up six-footers when someone else has a layup attempt. This is one of the best shooting teams ever — college or pro!"

Smith's team split with the professional Denver Nuggets in two appearances and then handled the Spanish Olympic team and Israeli Nationals. They shot an incredible 81 per cent in overwhelming the Israelis, 123-69, but should have more problems tonight against a team of professionals coached by Meyer.

THE MIDWEST All-Stars have had three practice sessions at Prospect

High. A definite lineup was still unsettled Wednesday, depending on the availability of certain players, but Clifford Ray of the Golden State Warriors has joined the club.

Ray, a former member of the Chicago Bulls, will now operate with Bob Love and Mickey Johnson of the Bulls in a front line that should give the Olympians an interesting argument. The 6-9, 222-pound Ray starred on the Warriors' 1975 NBA champions after being traded to Golden State for Nate Thurmond. He is only a fair shooter but a ferocious rebounder and tough defensive player.

Junior Bridgeman of the Milwaukee Bucks also joined the Midwest All-Stars Wednesday. The 6-5, 210-pound Bridgeman was a two-time Missouri Valley Conference MVP at Louisville, who was acquired from the Los Angeles Lakers in the Abdul-Jabbar deal.

The Midwest entry needs all the firepower it can put together because the Olympic team has class at every position, particularly at forward where 6-7 Scott May — college player of the (Continued on Sect. 2, Page 1)

The Illinois Senate Wednesday sent the fiscal 1977 budget bills for the University of Illinois and Southern Illinois University to Gov. Daniel Walker's desk. The Senate voted 52-2 to accept three House amendments to the U of I budget bill (S1628), bringing the total for that system's three campuses to $276.5 million for the coming fiscal year. One amendment would add $60,000 to the bill for an energy resources center at the Chicago Circle campus. A second amendment would cut a total of $9 million in capital development projects. A third, adding $1.2 million in health program support, would enable 109 additional students to enroll in health professions at the U of I medical school.

Special ed demands nixed by 5-2 vote in Dist. 59

The demands of a group of more than 60 parents with students in special education programs in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 were rejected by the board of education in a 5-to-2 vote.

Board members Charles Canupp, who has children in the special education program, and Paul Kucharski voted in favor of a resolution Monday which would have supported the demands of the special education parents.

The demands included reinstating Merle Nevenhoven as director of pupil personnel services; dropping the decentralization of special education services; and including special education parents in future decisions affecting that department.

THE BOARD MONDAY agreed to set up a committee which will include special education parents to ensure the program would be effective. Board members and parents on that committee will be announced at the July 12 board meeting.

Mary Kay Canupp, wife of the board member, read a statement from the special education parents stating, "We believe it (decentralization) will violate the state regulations in that the principals are not experienced in the field of special education. Therefore they are not qualified to make decisions as to our children's special needs."

The goal of the decentralization plan is to place more staff members directly in contact with students, said Supt. Roger Bardwell. The special education instructors are assigned to a group of schools rather than to specific cases throughout the district, as under the former centralized system.

The decentralized system also places more responsibility on the principals who, with the teachers' advice, decide the type of special education staffing needed in their school, he said.

THE REORGANIZATION also placed Merlyn Swanson as director of signed Nevenhoven as a psychologist in the district.

Board president Judith Zanca said the plan is trying to "increase staff utilization. I don't know of one time we have refused a request for more staff from the special education department."

Bardwell said there have been few changes in the organization of special education. "It is still centrally oriented. Decentralization is designed to put the power back to the people," he said.

He said the reorganization also has saved more than $98,000 in central administration costs.

Canupp said the special education program has had a "high success rate" as a centrally directed program operating out of one building.

Frank Ford, parent of a student in the district's deaf education program, said "The ultimatum read tonight is not unanimous among the parents in special education. My experience with this board has been nothing less than tremendous."

Dist. 59 rehires 40 teachers

Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 rehired 40 teachers for September who had been laid off in March because of budget cuts.

The board approved rehiring 40 of the 54 first-year laid off teachers to replace teachers who have resigned or retired from the district for the 1976-77 school year.

District officials have said they believe the remaining first-year teachers will be rehired by September because of attrition.

Al Stone, associate superintendent, said the attrition rate has been "normal." Usually the district loses between 70 and 80 of its 530 teachers each year through resignations and retirements.

Residents oppose ambulance tax

A group of Wheeling residents is circulating a petition opposing the Wheeling Rural Fire Protection District ambulance tax referendum planned for July 17.

Trustee William Hein, a spokesman for the group, said petitions will be circulated throughout the village this week. He said there are about 18 members in the group.

The petition states the residents "are opposed to the consideration of an ambulance tax by the district. We are not opposed to continued ambulance service as provided to us by the village of Wheeling."

THE PETITION also asks that "Wheeling, now a part of the Wheeling Rural Fire Protection District, be disconnected" from the district. Hein said the petitions will be presented to the fire district trustees before the ambulance tax referendum.

The Wheeling village board last week approved a resolution opposing

Faces review by trustees

Ethics law vague, can't be enforced: attorney

A proposed revision of the Wheeling ethics ordinance is being reviewed by village trustees after Village Atty. John Burke said parts of the ordinance could be "vague and unenforceable."

Trustees earlier this week asked to meet with the ethics committee to discuss the proposed revision. Trustee Otis L. Hedlund said the two groups "need to iron out some amendments" to the proposed ordinance.

In a report to the board, Burke said the proposed ordinance's definition of "personal interest" is defined "in such a manner that it could be vague and unenforceable."

"FOR EXAMPLE, it is difficult to define a close business or political association. (The ordinance) allows the officials or employees of the Village of Wheeling to contract with the village if his interest in the contract is made known to the proper authorities," he said.

Burke said the proposed ordinance also "indicates that the official shall refrain from voting upon the contract, and then the next paragraph indicates the official shall not be deemed interested in the contract unless he 'approves' the contract."

The proposed ordinance also "allows the president or trustees or other officials or employees to have financial or private interests in legislation as long as the interest is disclosed and the voting member disqualifies himself from so voting," Burke said.

The revised ordinance also would not require prospective office holders or employers to file ethics statements. Burke said while this provision "would eliminate much paper work... there would be no prior screening of candidates so any potential conflict would not be known until after the candidate has been appointed."

BURKE SAID THE new ordinance fails to provide for annual updating of the disclosure statement, or a procedure for the public to obtain disclosure statements filed with the village.

The proposed ordinance is more stringent because gifts of any amount to officials or employees "could be construed as a violation of the ordinance," Burke said. The ethics ordinance prohibits gifts if they exceed $50 in value.

Trustee John Cole said board members already had raised most of the issues discussed in Burke's report.

The ethics committee earlier this year suggested the ordinance be revised, saying the law is "detrimental." Ira Bird, ethics board chairman, said the ordinance is too restrictive.

THE ETHICS ORDINANCE, approved in April 1975, applies to trustees and members of commissions and committees. It prohibits officials from accepting gifts exceeding $50 in value, loans or services of more than $500 from any person or firm doing business with the village.

It also requires officials to sign a sworn statement that they or members of their immediate families have no direct or indirect interest in firms doing business with the village.

The ordinance also requires officials and members of their immediate families to disclose their land holdings in the village.

Violation of the ethics code can result in fines and, in some cases, removal from office. Village officials proposed the ethics ordinance after the 1974 indictment of six village and county officials in a builder shake-down scandal. Four of the six pleaded guilty to the charges.

Township to pay for patrolman in Lake County

by TIM MORAN

A plan initiated in Fremont Township to provide extra funds for sheriff's patrol could be the solution to the manpower shortage in the Lake County Sheriff's Dept., Sheriff E. J. LaMagdeleine said.

The Fremont Township Board of Auditors has agreed to provide $30,000 to the sheriff's office to cover the cost of a highway patrolman to police the township eight hours a day, seven days a week.

"I think it's probably the beginning of a good arrangement for unincorporated Lake County," LaMagdeleine said. "It's good for us too, it could provide us with some badly needed additional personnel."

THE SHERIFF'S department is understaffed, LaMagdeleine said. A referendum to provide funds for additional patrolmen is planned for the November ballot.

Passing a referendum for more taxes may be very difficult, LaMagdeleine said, and if enough townships follow the lead of Fremont, the department could add up to 15 new patrolmen without raising taxes.

Fremont Township is using federal revenue sharing funds for the new patrolman. The $30,000 will cover the cost of the patrolman and squad car. The patrol hours are to be agreed upon by the sheriff's department and the township.

"That vehicle will be confined to Fremont Township except in the case

Warren panel never got vital data: Senate report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Warren Commission never considered the possibility that John F. Kennedy's assassination was arranged by Fidel Castro because the CIA never told the panel about plans to kill the Cuban premier, according to a Senate study released Wednesday.

The 106-page report said the CIA and FBI withheld certain vital data from the Warren Commission, including secret reports about two mysterious travelers who fled to Cuba after Kennedy's murder in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963 — another failure to look into "the Cuban connection."

While the report, prepared by a task force directed by Sens. Richard

S. Schweiker, R-Pa., and Gary Hart, D-Colo., pointed to several new leads, it said it had no evidence to overturn the Warren Commission's conclusion Lee Harvey Oswald was Kennedy's sole assassin, acting alone.

But Schweiker said the CIA and FBI were engaged in "a coverup" that kept the Warren Commission from following every lead and "there is no longer any reason to have faith in its picture of the Kennedy assassination." He said a new investigation is needed "before the American people will ever know the truth."

The report said former CIA Director Allen W. Dulles, one of the seven members of the Warren Commission, never told the six other members (Continued on Page 3)

Pros to test Olympic team tonight

The inside story

by BOB FRISK

Time is not on the side of the U.S. Olympic basketball team.

It is very difficult to achieve total cohesion in any team sport in just four weeks.

Just how much progress has been made? Area basketball fans will be the judges tonight.

A capacity crowd of 3,500 will jam the Prospect High School fieldhouse at 8 p.m. today for the only Midwest appearance by the team. Coach Dean Smith's Olympians will battle the Midwest All-Stars coached by Ray

Meyer of DePaul University.

ALTHOUGH THE game is a sellout, it will be broadcast on WMMM-FM (92.7), starting at 7:30 p.m.

The contest is cosponsored by the Mount Prospect State Bank and Prospect High School Boosters Club. The Olympic team will arrive in the afternoon today and depart Friday morning after staying at the Arlington Park Hilton.

"I'm greatly impressed with the attitude and unselfishness of our team," said Smith as he prepared to bring the Olympians to Mount Prospect.

"The players are giving up six-footers when someone else has a layup attempt. This is one of the best shooting teams ever — college or pro!"

Smith's team split with the professional Denver Nuggets in two appearances and then handled the Spanish Olympic team and Israeli Nationals. They shot an incredible 81 per cent in overwhelming the Israelis, 123-69, but should have more problems tonight against a team of professionals coached by Meyer.

THE MIDWEST All-Stars have had three practice sessions at Prospect

High. A definite lineup was still unsettled Wednesday, depending on the availability of certain players, but Clifford Ray of the Golden State Warriors has joined the club.

Ray, a former member of the Chicago Bulls, will now operate with Bob Love and Mickey Johnson of the Bulls in a front line that should give the Olympians an interesting argument. The 6-9, 222-pound Ray starred on the Warriors' 1975 NBA champions after being traded to Golden State for Nate Thurmond. He is only a fair shooter but a ferocious rebounder and tough defensive player.

Junior Bridgeman of the Milwaukee Bucks also joined the Midwest All-Stars Wednesday. The 6-5, 210-pound Bridgeman was a two-time Missouri Valley Conference MVP at Louisville, who was acquired from the Los Angeles Lakers in the Abdul-Jabbar deal.

The Midwest entry needs all the firepower it can put together because the Olympic team has class at every position, particularly at forward where 6-7 Scott May — college player of the (Continued on Sect. 2, Page 1)

Metropolitan briefs

Daley credits mom for marriage bliss

Forty years to the day after his wedding day, Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley gave his mother credit for helping to make the marriage work. Daley told reporters Wednesday his mother told him, "Don't let the sun go down until you talk to your friends and talk to your wife if you have any differences." The mayor spent most of his anniversary day with his wife, Eleanor, and their children.

Sex behind girl's death

Police said Wednesday "sex and some nut" lay behind the killing of Lori Bolger, 16, whose body was found Tuesday near a sewage treatment plant southwest of Elgin. Officers said the girl died of a fractured skull. It has not been determined whether she was raped, but police said her jeans were pulled down and her sweater pulled up. Miss Bolger, who lived in South Elgin with her mother and two brothers, was last seen by her family when she was dropped off for a drivers education class at Larkin High School in Elgin.

Illinois briefs

Fireworks illegal in state: Johnson

Firecrackers, sparklers and most other forms of fireworks are illegal in Illinois unless the user has a permit. Law Enforcement Director Harvey Johnson Jr. warned Wednesday, "All forms of firecrackers, roman candles, skyrocketers, smoke bombs and sparklers are prohibited," Johnson said. Sale or use of those articles can be punished by a fine and up to six months in jail. Illinois Fire Marshal Robert Walsh said six persons died in Illinois fireworks accidents last year and 45 others suffered serious injuries. Most of the accidents were caused by "gross negligence" and most of the children or teenagers, he said.

IBI elimination bid fails

An effort to eliminate the Illinois Bureau of Investigation failed Wednesday in the House but not before its 169 agents were compared to the Keystone Cops. Rep. Samuel McGrew, D-Geneseo, said three IBI agents "came to Warren County to investigate the sale of marijuana. They secured the dubious plant and went around to see who was interested. Only trouble was," McGrew said, "they failed to tell local police and were arrested for selling it and spent the night in jail."

Arson link to firemen probed

State investigators have been called in to determine whether disgruntled East St. Louis firemen, who walked off the job after being denied a pay increase, set a series of more than 20 fires in abandoned buildings. Mayor William E. Mason, who said the city can not afford to pay the 10 per cent pay raise which has been withheld since Jan. 1, said the Illinois Bureau of Investigation and the state fire marshal would be asked to help investigate the series of fires which began Tuesday night and continued early Wednesday. No injuries were reported.

House supports conjugal visits

A resolution urging the Illinois Dept. of Corrections to experiment with conjugal visits between prisoners and their spouses passed the House Wednesday. The measure (HJR96), drafted by the House Judiciary II Committee, says California and Mississippi have tested the program and found it cuts down the number of repeat offenders and gives prisoners closer ties to society when they leave prison. Rep. Ronnie Palmer, R-Blue Island, said he does not believe prisoners should be "incubated." They should be anchored to society in some way. This could also reduce homosexuality.

Senate approves UI budget

The Illinois Senate Wednesday sent the fiscal 1977 budget bills for the University of Illinois and Southern Illinois University to Gov. Daniel Walker's desk. The Senate voted 52-2 to accept three House amendments to the U of I budget bill ($162M), bringing the total for that system's three campuses to $276.5 million for the coming fiscal year. One amendment would add $60,000 to the bill for an energy resources center at the Chicago Circle campus. A second amendment would cut a total of $9 million in capital development projects. A third, adding $1.2 million in health program support, would enable 109 additional students to enroll in health professions at the U of I medical school.

Arlington to study Wisconsin plan

Youth assistance stymies vandals

by JOE SWICKARD

While Arlington Heights is grappling with a persistent vandalism problem, one Wisconsin town seems to have found a way to roll back the tide of destruction.

Next week, two members of the village's Zero Vandalism Committee will go to Wauwatosa, Wis., to learn how that Milwaukee suburb reduced vandalism by 16 per cent last year through a program of "positive peer group pressure."

Committee members Arthur Gollberg and Joyce Zeller will take part in a one-day seminar sponsored by the Wauwatosa Chamber of Commerce, which sponsored the successful vandalism reduction program.

William J. Tetzlaff, the executive director of the Wauwatosa Chamber of Commerce, said the program is not "anti-vandalism" as much as it is "positive prevention."

THE KEY TO THE program has been involvement of the town's youths in educating each other, Tetzlaff said.

"There were two basic approaches we took to the problem. One is that most vandals think of it as an impersonal crime. If a window gets broken at the school, it doesn't hurt anyone. We try to personalize the crimes with the fact that it does hurt someone when it happens," Tetzlaff said.

The second approach is that acts of vandalism, no matter how small, will not be tolerated in the town, he said.

We won't accept vandalism — period. There's no excuse for it," Tetzlaff said.

Using these two basic premises, a group of students were recruited to spread the word among the other children of the town. Often times, high school students would go back to their junior high schools for the discussions and junior high school students would take the message to the elementary schools.

THE "YOUTH-TO-YOUTH" program involved the showing of an 11-minute film followed by an open discussion of the problem with the oldest student leading the way.

Tetzlaff said teachers were not in the rooms during the programs so the children could be more open in their questions and answers.

In Wauwatosa, the efforts were aimed "almost exclusively" at schools rather than stepped-up enforcement or the passage of new or stronger ordinances, a tactic being used in Arlington Heights.

"We were careful not to sensationalize vandalism. It's not a game between the cops and the kids. If it gets to be a game, the kids are going to win almost every time," Tetzlaff said.

"PEOPLE THINK THAT more policemen and more laws will lessen the problem. We found that approach wasn't being effective. We were looking for a change in attitude — the ability of the youths to say no to things that are wrong," he said.

This "ability to say no" may be carried over later to other problem areas, such as drugs and alcohol, he said.

Tetzlaff said the program, a community project of the Chamber of Commerce, has tried to take a positive approach to the problem rather than being "anti-vandalism," Tetzlaff said.

"It's like starting a fire prevention program. You don't go out and hire double the number of firemen. You get people that will help prevent fires before they start," he said.

TETZLAFF SAID THE declining rate of vandalism has continued through the first four months of 1976. He said there has been an 18 per cent reduction so far this year.

"Each city is different. I'm not saying what has worked here will work in other towns," he said.

But so far, 70 persons from Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota have registered for the Wauwatosa seminar to see if the lessons learned there can be applied in their hometowns.

the ambulance tax referendum. Trustees said they will oppose the referendum because of the fire district board's failure to act on the village's request for disannexation.

Hein said his group is seeking residents to help circulate the petitions.

Fire district officials in March agreed to conduct the July 17 ambulance tax referendum to fund ambulance and paramedic services. The proposed tax will be a maximum 25 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

FIRE DISTRICT officials are seeking the ambulance tax because general revenue funds can be used only for firefighting costs. They said ambulance and paramedic service will have to be cut unless the tax is approved.

Wheeling trustees recently expressed opposition to the referendum because of their desire to withdraw from the fire district in an effort to increase fire tax revenues to the village.

Hein said tax revenues could be increased by at least $55,000 annually because an area of the village not in the fire district could be taxed.

A small section of the village, including 2,000 residents in the northeast section of town, is not included in the fire district. Residents there do not pay any fire taxes.

The fire protection district serves about 50,000 residents in the Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Prospect Heights area. Fire district trustees will meet July 13 with village officials of the three towns to discuss the disconnection of Wheeling.

Township to fix roads only in crises

Wheeling Township will continue to provide only emergency road maintenance to the new city of Prospect Heights until a contract between the two can be reached.

Township Atty. Richard Cowen has told the Wheeling Township auditors that such an agreement is still a long way away.

Township Highway Com. Arthur Olsen has notified the city of his department's intention to provide only emergency highway assistance and not routine maintenance.

Emergency service includes removing fallen trees after a wind or rainstorm, replacing fallen highway signs, repairing potholes or anything else that presents an immediate danger to the public, Olsen said.

The township highway department has been instructed to charge the city retroactively for routine road services rendered after the May 24 municipal elections. The township provided about $2,000 of routine work from May 25 through June 7, Olsen said.

It has provided about $200 of emergency work to the city, Olsen said, including replacing two stop signs and patching some road surface.

Cowen told the auditors the township reserves the right to retroactively charge Prospect Heights for services rendered before an eventual contract is reached.

of extreme emergency. LaMazdefene said, to be effective and provide the city with the enforcement effort, the unit will have to stay in the area. The chances are very remote that the unit would be pulled out of the township for any reason.

AT A RECENT dinner meeting of local law enforcement township supervisors, interest was shown in expanding the program to other townships, according to the sheriff.

A problem in Lake County is that the eastern portion of the county is incorporated and each municipality has its own police protection. The western half of the county largely is unincorporated and depends primarily on the sheriff's department for law enforcement.

The county board members from the eastern half are concerned with their immediate constituents. They probably don't favor increased taxes for the whole county to provide better law enforcement in the western half, LaMazdefene said. This is probably never to that problem.

LaMazdefene said he doubts that all 10 townships would enter into such a program, but said if 10 townships are interested it would provide an additional 15 men to the department to handle 54 hours-per-week of patrol in each township.

A PROBLEM could arise if townships pull out of the agreements without notice. The present agreement would stipulate that the township would have to give six months' notice before pulling out of the arrangement so the patrolman could be reassigned.

Union Township Supervisor George Bell, who suggested the program, said townships have the authority to establish police districts.

The county budget has not provided enough funds for enough patrolmen in western Lake County, especially for coverage of the lake region at night, Bell said. Rather than establish its own security force, it would be much better for the townships to work cooperatively with the established police agencies.

The program is to be discussed by the Lake County law and judicial and finance committees. Fremont Township hopes to get the program started this summer.

Council pledges no interference at Pal-Waukee

The Prospect Heights City Council has taken steps to reassure Pal-Waukee Airport owner George Priester that the city has no intentions of interfering airport operations.

The council passed a resolution earlier this week against interfering with airport procedures. The action was taken to discourage Priester from filing in Circuit Court for disannexation from the new city.

However, Priester said Wednesday the resolution does not have any teeth in it and would not stand up in court.

Even an ordinance wouldn't be any good, he said. Future councils could repeal it and place restrictions on the airport right away.

WHAT THE CITY council did was in good faith but we need to defend ourselves. Our attorneys tell us there is no assurance the city council can give us that will stand up in court without question, Priester said.

Airport attorneys have drawn up a disannexation suit but Priester says he will not file it until he is sure the city attorney can't come up with some guaranteed protection for the airport.

Property owners here are sued from the date of incorporation to file for disannexation from the new city, according to state law.

Priester has said he feels the city will establish curfews for take off and landing of planes and limit the type of aircraft that can use the airport to control noise.

Villages study 10-year border pact

A proposed 10-year boundary agreement between Buffalo Grove and Long Grove outlining which municipality will annex unincorporated land has been referred to the Buffalo Grove Plan Commission for further study.

The village boards of both communities must approve the proposal before it takes effect.

Village Mgr. Daniel Larson and Village Pres. Edward Fabish negotiated the proposed land allotment with Long Grove Village Pres. Robert Coffin and village administrator James Lasseter.

Its purpose is to "ensure the development of the unincorporated areas in a manner consistent with the comprehensive plans of both communities and to define those areas that would be annexed to each of the municipalities at such time as annexation becomes feasible," according to the resolution.

Village officials have agreed to the pact.

Free bus service to railroad station

Passengers will be able to ride free during the first week of the commuter bus service between Buffalo Grove and the downtown Arlington Heights train station. The service starts Monday.

"We hope the free fare policy will allow commuters adequate time to become acquainted with the route and service," said Milton Pikarsky, Regional Transportation Authority chairman.

After the first week, fares will be 40 cents for adults, 20 cents for children 6 through 11 years old and free for children under 6.

The buses will run from Thompson Boulevard in the Strathmore Grove subdivision to the train station. It will stop at any point on the side streets, but only at intersections on Arlington Heights Road.

SOUTHBOUND ROUTES will begin at Thompson and Knollwood at 6, 6:31, 6:58 and 7:24 a.m. Buses are scheduled to arrive at the Chicago and North Western train station at 6:35, 7:06, 7:28 and 7:59 a.m.

Northbound routes will leave the station at 5:25, 5:58, 6:14 and 7:03 p.m. It is estimated the return trip will take about 30 minutes to Thompson Boulevard.

Two buses will make the runs. The northbound buses will wait for any late-arriving trains.

The new service will be operated on a six-month trial basis by the North Suburban Mass Transit District (NORTAN) with full RTA funding. After the trial period, RTA will continue 100 per cent funding if the service attracts about 1.7 passengers per mile.

If the system can not meet its operating costs, Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove will have to make up the difference.

Warren panel never got vital data: Senate report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Warren Commission never considered the possibility that John F. Kennedy's assassination was arranged by Fidel Castro because the CIA never told the panel about plans to kill the Cuban premier, according to a Senate study released Wednesday.

The 106-page report said the CIA and FBI withheld certain vital data from the Warren Commission, including secret reports about two mysterious travelers who fled to Cuba after Kennedy's murder in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963 — another failure to look into "the Cuban connection."

While the report, prepared by a task force directed by Sens. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., and Gary Hart, D-Colo., pointed to several new leads, it said it had no evidence to overturn the Warren Commission's conclusion Lee Harvey Oswald was Kennedy's sole assassin, acting alone.

But Schweiker said the CIA and FBI were engaged in "a coverup" that kept the Warren Commission from following every lead and "there is no longer any reason to have faith in its picture of the Kennedy assassination." He said a new investigation is needed "before the American people will ever know the truth."

The report said former CIA Director Allen W. Dulles, one of the seven members of the Warren Commission, never told the six other members

Pros to test Olympic team tonight

by BOB FRISK
Time is not on the side of the U.S. Olympic basketball team.

It is very difficult to achieve total cohesion in any team sport in just four weeks.

Just how much progress has been made? Area basketball fans will be the judges tonight.

A capacity crowd of 3,500 will jam the Prospect High School fieldhouse at 8 p.m. today for the only Midwest appearance by the team. Coach Dean Smith's Olympians will battle the Midwest All-Stars coached by Ray

Meyer of DePaul University.

ALTHOUGH THE game is a sellout, it will be broadcast on WMM-FM (92.7), starting at 7:30 p.m.

The contest is cosponsored by the Mount Prospect State Bank and Prospect High School Boosters Club. The Olympic team will arrive in the afternoon today and depart Friday morning after staying at the Arlington Park Hilton.

"I'm greatly impressed with the attitude and unselfishness of our team," said Smith as he prepared to bring the Olympians to Mount Prospect.

"The players are giving up six-footers when someone else has a layup attempt. This is one of the best shooting teams ever — college or pro!"

Smith's team split with the professional Denver Nuggets in two appearances and then handled the Spanish Olympic team and Israeli Nationals. They shot an incredible 81 per cent in overwhelming the Israelis, 123-69, but should have more problems tonight against a team of professionals coached by Meyer.

THE MIDWEST All-Stars have had three practice sessions at Prospect

High. A definite lineup was still unsettled Wednesday, depending on the availability of certain players, but Clifford Ray of the Golden State Warriors has joined the club.

Ray, a former member of the Chicago Bulls, will now operate with Bob Love and Mickey Johnson of the Bulls in a front line that should give the Olympians an interesting argument. The 6-9, 222-pound Ray starred on the Warriors' 1975 NBA champions after being traded to Golden State for Nate Thurmond. He is only a fair shooter but a ferocious rebounder and tough defensive player.

Junior Bridgeman of the Milwaukee Bucks also joined the Midwest All-Stars Wednesday. The 6-5, 210-pound Bridgeman was a two-time Missouri Valley Conference MVP at Louisville, who was acquired from the Los Angeles Lakers in the Abdul-Jabbar deal.

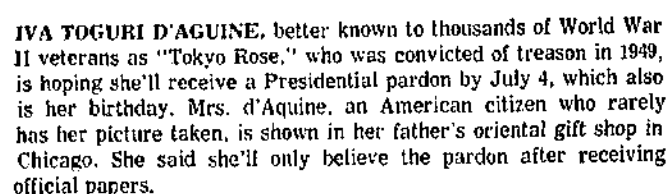

The Midwest entry needs all the firepower it can put together because the Olympic team has class at every position, particularly at forward where 6-7 Scott May — college player of the

Daley credits mom for marriage bliss

Forty years to the day after his wedding day, Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley gave his mother credit for helping to make the marriage work. Daley told reporters Wednesday his mother told him, "Don't let the sun go down until you talk to your friends and talk to your wife if you have any differences." The mayor spent most of his anniversary day with his wife, Eleanor, and their children.

Police said Wednesday "sex and some nut" by behind the killing of Lori Bolger, 16, whose body was found Tuesday near a sewage treatment plant southwest of Elgin. Officers said the girl died of a fractured skull. It has not been determined whether she was raped, but police said her jeans were pulled down and her sweater pulled up. Miss Bolger, who lived in South Elgin with her mother and two brothers, was last seen by her family when she was dropped off for a drivers education class at Larkin High School in Elgin.

Fireworks illegal in state: Johnson

Firecrackers, sparklers and most other forms of fireworks are illegal in Illinois unless the user has a permit, Law Enforcement Director Harvey Johnson Jr. warned Wednesday. "All forms of firecrackers, roman candles, skyrockets, smoke bombs and sparklers are prohibited," Johnson said. Sale or use of those articles can be punished by a fine and up to six months in jail. Illinois Fire Marshal Robert Walsh said six persons died in Illinois fireworks accidents last year and 85 others suffered serious injuries. Most of the accidents were caused by "gross negligence" and most of the children or teen-agers, he said.

An effort to eliminate the Illinois Bureau of Investigation failed Wednesday in the House but not before its 169 agents were compared to the Keystone Cops. Rep. Samuel McGrew, D-Geneseo, said three IBI agents "came to Warren County to investigate the sale of marijuana. They secured the dubious plant and went around to see who was interested. Only trouble was," McGrew said, "they failed to tell local police and were arrested for selling it and spent the night in jail."

State investigators have been called in to determine whether disgruntled East St. Louis firemen, who walked off the job after being denied a pay increase, set a series of more than 20 fires in abandoned buildings. Mayor William E. Mason, who said the city can not afford to pay the 10 per cent pay raise which has been withheld since Jan. 1, said the Illinois Bureau of Investigation and the state fire marshal would be asked to help investigate the series of fires which began Tuesday night and continued early Wednesday. No injuries were reported.

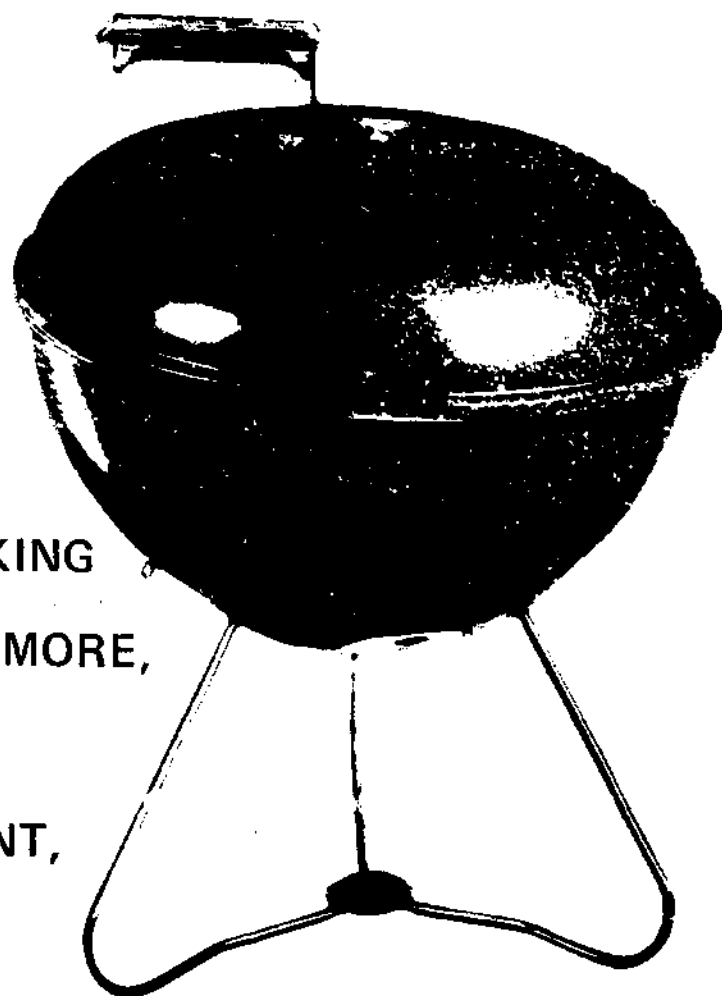

A resolution urging the Illinois Dept. of Corrections to experiment with conjugal visits between prisoners and their spouses passed the House Wednesday. The measure (HJR96), drafted by the House Judiciary II Committee, says California and Mississippi have tested the program and found it cuts down the number of repeat offenders and gives prisoners closer ties to society when they leave prison. Rep. Romie Palmer, R-Blue Island, said he does not believe prisoners should be "neutered. They should be anchored to society in some way. This could also reduce homosexuality."

The Illinois Senate Wednesday sent the fiscal 1977 budget bills for the University of Illinois and Southern Illinois University to Gov. Daniel Walker's desk. The Senate voted 52-2 to accept three House amendments to the U of I budget bill (S1628), bringing the total for that system's three campuses to $276.5 million for the coming fiscal year. One amendment would add $60,000 to the bill for an energy resources center at the Chicago Circle campus. A second amendment would cut a total of $8 million in capital development projects. A third, adding $1.2 million in health program support, would enable 109 additional students to enroll in health professions at the U of I medical school.

Boundary plan won't affect Arcadia Farm

The future of the Arcadia Farm at the northwest corner of Arlington Heights and Checker roads probably will be unaffected by a tentative boundary proposal between Buffalo Grove and Long Grove, according to an attorney for the property owner.

Under the tentative boundary proposal the Arcadia site, owned by Blanche Klonan, could be disannexed from Long Grove and annexed by Buffalo Grove. The changeover could result in a rezoning from one home per two acres to one home per acre.

The 76-acre site is being contracted, however, to Mary Catano, a developer who plans to build 41 homes and a synagogue in conformity with current zoning. Long Grove officials have given the development "philosophical approval," said Village Administrator James Lasseter.

BUFFALO GROVE Village Mgr. Daniel Larson said future zoning of the land by Buffalo Grove would contain "land use compatible to Long Grove."

Larson and Lasseter said the property changeover is being included in the proposal because Buffalo Grove could more easily accommodate new developments with sewer and water systems.

Three years ago, a controversy over zoning resulted in a court fight by Mrs. Klonan who wanted to sell her land to Levitt and Sons Inc. to develop townhouses. Long Grove zoning prohibited such a development and the village refused to rezone. Mrs. Klonan lost a court appeal for a rezoning.

Stevenson offered as inoculation center

The High School Dist. 125 Board agreed to offer Stevenson High School to the Lake County Health Dept. to use in the swine flu inoculation program. The school would be used from Aug. 28 through Sept. 7 and the vaccinations would be coordinated through the health department, Papke said. He said its use by the health department will not interfere with any school functions.

13 model houses in Camelot OK'd

Construction plans for 13 model homes for the Camelot subdivision near Busch Road and Ill. Rte. 83 have been given approval by the Buffalo Grove Village Board.

Construction of the homes will start in about six weeks, said Administrative Assistant William Whited.

The Camelot development will consist of 193 single-family units on about 60 acres just north of the intersection if approved next month by the board. Construction of the other homes may begin in September, Whited said.

following boundary terms:

- To create an east-west boundary line between the villages along Buffalo Creek south of Ill. Rte. 83 and along Arlington Heights Road north of Ill. Rte. 83. Exceptions would include areas already annexed and any other changes the villages can agree upon later.
- To allow either village to annex land immediately west of Arlington Heights Road and north of Lake-Cook Road. Both villages are asking that the Lake Country Forest Preserve District purchase the land for future forest and park development.
- To allow Long Grove to disannex and Buffalo Grove to annex properties along the west side of Arlington Heights Road and the north side of Checker Road. This will be done at the option of homeowners and developers. Zoning classifications will restrict development to one residential unit per acre with limited office and research development at the southeast corner of the intersection.

- To allow owners of land to the northwest of the intersection of Arlington Heights Road and Ill. Rte. 83 to annex to either village. The zoning for the parcel will be for commercial and office research development. Either village will be allowed to review development plans.
- To allow Buffalo Grove to annex a parcel of land northeast of the Arlington Heights Road and Ill. Rte. 83 intersection.
- To allow either village to annex three large parcels north of Aptakisic Road and mostly to the north and east of the Commonwealth Edison power easement. The land lies about one mile north of Buffalo Grove. Both villages will review development plans.

The proposed agreement restricts either village from seeking any annexations in conflict with its provisions, but allows amendments to be made. It probably will come before the plan commission next month.

Harper board OKs faculty pact

A faculty contract for the 1976-77 school year was approved Wednesday by the Harper College Board of Trustees.

The board voted 6-1 to ratify the contract for the 292 full-time faculty members at Harper. The faculty union, on behalf of the teachers, unanimously approved the contract Monday.

The contract agreement was reached June 11 following several weeks of court-ordered negotiations. Contract talks began early this year but stopped in April when the board declared negotiations had ended. The faculty in May won a court-order requiring the board to return to the bargaining table.

The new contract grants a $1,375 raise to all faculty members except those whose increased salary will exceed the maximum range set for their jobs.

IN A BALLOT conducted by mail last week, the faculty voted 67-34 in favor of the $1,375 raise.

The new contract also includes an agreement by the board to recognize the faculty union for negotiations next year. The faculty recently voted to affiliate with the American Federation of Teachers, a national teachers' union.

Trustee Judith Trechter, one of the board's negotiators, cast the only dissenting vote, saying the board should not have recognized the faculty union for negotiating purposes.

Salary ranges for faculty set by the board in December were: $11,200 to $18,250, instructor; $12,900 to $21,000, assistant professor; $14,810 to $21,140, associate professor, and $17,030 to $27,760, professors.

The board Wednesday also approved an 8 per cent over-all pay increase for custodians and maintenance workers. The increase will apply to the final year of a three-year contract with the service employees, said Wilfred Von Mayr, personnel director.

Dist. 125 faces deficit at end of school year

Stevenson High School Dist. 125 will face a $147,200 deficit at the end of the 1976-77 school year, according to projections in the tentative budget approved by the board of education this week.

The $269 million budget reflects a deficit in the education fund of $99,000 and a continuing deficit in the fund the district uses to pay residents' tuition to community colleges.

This year's budget is an 8 per cent increase over last year's $247 million budget. Revenue has increased over last year by 13.1 per cent, from $22 million to $24.9 million. The increase is due mainly to an estimated additional tax revenue of about $125,000.

Two major items missing from the tentative budget are the amount to be spent on teachers and other staff salaries and the total 1975 assessed valuation for the district.

THE BUDGET SETS aside $136 million in the education fund for salaries, but this does not reflect increases being negotiated with staff members.

The education fund, which is the largest fund and pays for salaries and programs, will have $1.9 million in revenue against $2 million in expenditures.

Revenue for the operations fund is projected at $138,500, while costs are anticipated at $135,100. The operations fund covers custodial salaries, maintenance and supplies.

A deficit of $51,600 is expected in the junior college fund, which pays Dist. 125 residents' tuition at community colleges. The district is not a part of any community college district. This is the last year the district can levy a tax to cover tuition reimbursement unless it joins a community college. Projected revenue in this fund is $78,400, while expenditures are expected to be $130,000.

OTHER EXPENSES included in the budget are $19,000 in the municipal retirement fund, compared to $45,100 this year; $29,400 in the special education building fund, compared to expenditures of $19,796 this year; and $144,200 in the transportation fund, which had $129,000 in projected costs in this year's budget.

The district also has a working cash fund that will have $107,564 for the coming school year. The working cash fund can be dissolved for use as revenue.

The budget is only a tentative budget and changes may be made before final approval at the annual budget hearing Aug. 16. The budget will go on public display before July 16, allowing residents at least 30 days to view it before it is adopted.

Garbage pickup rates hiked 25c

Residential garbage pickup rates in Elk Grove Village will increase 25 cent per month starting in July.

The village board Tuesday negotiated a new contract with Garden City Disposal Co., Rosemont, that will mean a $3.75 monthly rate for single-family homes and between $2.50 and $3.75 a month for apartment dwellers.

Garden City had requested a 50-cent-a-month increase for single-family residences only, but the village board insisted the increase include apartments also and thereby got the lower residential increase.

In another potentially controversial move, Village Pres. Charles J. Zettek asked for and got agreement from Joseph Stob of Garden City that for the first year of the new two-year contract there would be no increase in the pickup rate for the Village Grove senior citizen apartments.

But Schweiker said the CIA and FBI were engaged in "a coverup" that kept the Warren Commission from following every lead and "there is no longer any reason to have faith in its picture of the Kennedy assassination."

Smith's team split with the professional Denver Nuggets in two appearances and then handled the Spanish Olympic team and Israeli Nationals. They shot an incredible 81 per cent in overwhelming the Israelis, 123-69, but should have more problems tonight against a team of professionals coached by Meyer.

Indefinite ban OK'd

Trustees up fine, outlaw sprinkling

by TOM VON MALDER

The Elk Grove Village Board has outlawed indefinitely all sprinkling, with the exception of new lawns, and has raised the minimum fine for violations to $10.

The board acted unanimously, with Trustee George T. Spees absent, after about 50 residents attended Tuesday's village board meeting to protest the low water pressure levels in the village.

Before the ban, which takes effect immediately, residents were permitted to sprinkle every other day between 5 and 9 p.m.

JOHN GLASS, 1310 Aldrin Tr., who presented the board with a letter with 600 signatures on the water problem, accused the board of overreacting. He said he would prefer staggering the permitted sprinkling times.

In his letter, Glass suggested the village limit water usage in the industrial park and limit new housing occupancy permits.

"Do you think we would sit up here and allow homes to be built when we know we wouldn't have water for them?" Village Pres. Charles J. Zettek said.

Zettek said the village will continue to have water problems, but experts have told the village its present wells and those planned will be sufficient to supply the village, including the new construction areas.

THE LOW WATER pressure problems have been caused by greater than normal water use and village wells being shut down for repairs. During the critical period the week of June 7, three of the village's nine wells were shut down, but one has been put back in service.

The village had hoped to have the other two wells repaired by summer, but unexpected breakdowns in three other wells earlier this year postponed the repairs.

The penalty provisions of the newly adopted sprinkling ban call for a fine of between $10 and $200 for each offense, with each day constituting a separate offense. The village also is empowered to cut off water service if a water user persists in illegal sprinkling.

ZETTEK SAID the ban would not prevent persons from using a watering can on flower beds or a bucket of water to clean a car. He said it is aimed at hose or sprinkler system use.

The board said the ban may be lifted when shallow well No. 10, near Nerge and Meacham roads, is put into an emergency, temporary linkup with the water system. Such action is expected within three weeks. The well can pump 480 gallons per minute and is located above the high ground west of Ill. Rte. 53. That area has been experiencing the worst water

Vital data kept from Warren panel: Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Warren Commission never considered the possibility that John F. Kennedy's assassination was arranged by Fidel Castro because the CIA never told the panel about plans to kill the Cuban premier, according to a Senate study released Wednesday.

The 106-page report said the CIA and FBI withheld certain vital data from the Warren Commission, including secret reports about two mysterious travelers who fled to Cuba after Kennedy's murder in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963 — another failure to look into "the Cuban connection."

While the report, prepared by a task force directed by Sens. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., and Gary Hart, D-Colo., pointed to several new leads, it said it had no evidence to overturn the Warren Commission's conclusion Lee Harvey Oswald was Kennedy's sole assassin, acting alone.

But Schweiker said the CIA and FBI were engaged in "a coverup" that kept the Warren Commission from following every lead and "there is no longer any reason to have faith in its picture of the Kennedy assassination." He said a new investigation is needed "before the American people will ever know the truth."

The report said former CIA Director Allen W. Dulles, one of the seven members of the Warren Commission, never told the six other members

Jaworski ordered back to police duty with limits

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Raymond K. Berg Wednesday ordered Elk Grove Village Patrolman William Jaworski back on active duty but refused to allow Jaworski to carry a gun.

Elk Grove Village Atty. Edward C. Hofert said the judge's order goes into effect immediately. Jaworski, 33, has been on inactive duty, but with full $1,323 monthly pay, since he allegedly shot a Mount Prospect man in the stomach while investigating a pre-dawn traffic accident April 5, 1975.

The order permits Jaworski to wear his badge and uniform, but not his gun. It also suggests he be given duties "such as clerical duties."

JAWORSKI FILED suit against the village several weeks ago, seeking either his reinstatement or a hearing before the village's fire and police commission. His attorney, Elhott Samuels, refused to comment Wednesday on the judge's order.

According to Hofert, Jaworski was placed on inactive duty pending the outcome of a $1 million civil suit against Jaworski filed by the shooting victim, Timothy Engelson, 19, of 308 Hi-Lusi Ave., Mount Prospect.

Wednesday's order provides that the village need not place Jaworski on full active duty, with a gun, or file charges before the fire and police commission until 30 days after the completion of the civil suit. Hearings have not begun on the civil suit, which is being handled by the village's insurance company.

The order further states that it should not be interpreted as a statement of Jaworski's guilt or innocence in the pending civil suit or in any future matter before the fire and police commission.

Pros to test Olympic team tonight

by BOB FRISK

Time is not on the side of the U.S. Olympic basketball team.

It is very difficult to achieve total cohesion in any team sport in just four weeks.

Just how much progress has been made? Area basketball fans will be the judges tonight.

A capacity crowd of 3,500 will jam the Prospect High School fieldhouse at 8 p.m. today for the only Midwest appearance by the team. Coach Dean Smith's Olympians will battle the Midwest All-Stars coached by Ray

Meyer of DePaul University.

ALTHOUGH THE game is a sellout, it will be broadcast on WWMM-FM (92.7), starting at 7:30 p.m.

The contest is cosponsored by the Mount Prospect State Bank and Prospect High School Boosters Club. The Olympic team will arrive in the afternoon today and depart Friday morning after staying at the Arlington Park Hilton.

"I'm greatly impressed with the attitude and unselfishness of our team," said Smith as he prepared to bring the Olympians to Mount Prospect.

"The players are giving up six-footers when someone else has a layup attempt. This is one of the best shooting teams ever — college or pro!"

Smith's team split with the professional Denver Nuggets in two appearances and then handled the Spanish Olympic team and Israeli Nationals. They shot an incredible 81 per cent in overwhelming the Israelis, 123-69, but should have more problems tonight against a team of professionals coached by Meyer.

THE MIDWEST All-Stars have had three practice sessions at Prospect

High. A definite lineup was still unsettled Wednesday, depending on the availability of certain players, but Clifford Ray of the Golden State Warriors has joined the club.

Ray, a former member of the Chicago Bulls, will now operate with Bob Love and Mickey Johnson of the Bulls in a front line that should give the Olympians an interesting argument. The 6-0, 222-pound Ray starred on the Warriors' 1975 NBA champions after being traded to Golden State for Nate Thurmond. He is only a fair shooter but a ferocious rebounder and tough defensive player.

Junior Bridgeman of the Milwaukee Bucks also joined the Midwest All-Stars Wednesday. The 6-5, 210-pound Bridgeman was a two-time Missouri Valley Conference MVP at Louisville, who was acquired from the Los Angeles Lakers in the Abdul-Jabbar deal.

The Midwest entry needs all the firepower it can put together because the Olympic team has class at every position, particularly at forward where 6-7 Scott May — college player of the

Mrs. d'Aquino, an American citizen who rarely has her picture taken, is shown in her father's oriental gift shop in Chicago. She said she'll only believe the pardon after receiving official papers.

Daley credits mom for marriage bliss

Forty years to the day after his wedding day, Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley gave his mother credit for helping to make the marriage work. Daley told reporters Wednesday his mother told him, "Don't let the sun go down until you talk to your friends and talk to your wife if you have any differences." The mayor spent most of his anniversary day with his wife, Eleanor, and their children.

Sex behind girl's death

Police said Wednesday "sex and some nut" by behind the killing of Lori Bolger, 16, whose body was found Tuesday near a sewage treatment plant southwest of Elgin. Officers said the girl died of a fractured skull. It has not been determined whether she was raped, but police said her jeans were pulled down and her sweater pulled up. Miss Bolger, who lived in South Elgin with her mother and two brothers, was last seen by her family when she was dropped off for a drivers education class at Larkin High School in Elgin.

Fireworks illegal in state: Johnson

Firecrackers, sparklers and most other forms of fireworks are illegal in Illinois unless the user has a permit. Law Enforcement Director Harvey Johnson Jr. warned Wednesday, "All forms of firecrackers, roman candles, skyrockets, smoke bombs and sparklers are prohibited." Johnson said. Sale or use of those articles can be punished by a fine and up to six months in jail. Illinois Fire Marshal Robert Walsh said six persons died in Illinois fireworks accidents last year and 85 others suffered serious injuries. Most of the accidents were caused by "gross negligence" and most of the children or teen-agers, he said.

IBI elimination bid fails

An effort to eliminate the Illinois Bureau of Investigation failed Wednesday in the House but not before its 169 agents were compared to the Keystone Cops. Rep. Samuel McGrew, D-Geneseo, said three IBI agents "came to Warren County to investigate the sale of marijuana. They secured the dubious plant and went around to see who was interested. Only trouble was," McGrew said, "they failed to tell local police and were arrested for selling it and spent the night in jail."

Arson link to firemen probed

State investigators have been called in to determine whether disgruntled East St. Louis firemen, who walked off the job after being denied a pay increase, set a series of more than 20 fires in abandoned buildings. Mayor William E. Mason, who said the city can not afford to pay the 10 per cent pay raise which has been withheld since Jan. 1, said the Illinois Bureau of Investigation and the state fire marshal would be asked to help investigate the series of fires which began Tuesday night and continued early Wednesday. No injuries were reported.

House supports conjugal visits

A resolution urging the Illinois Dept. of Corrections to experiment with conjugal visits between prisoners and their spouses passed the House Wednesday. The measure (HJR96), drafted by the House Judiciary II Committee, says California and Mississippi have tested the program and found it cuts down the number of repeat offenders and gives prisoners closer ties to society when they leave prison. Rep. Ronnie Palmer, R-Blue Island, said he does not believe prisoners should be "neutered. They should be anchored to society in some way. This could also reduce homosexuality."

Senate approves UI budget

The Illinois Senate Wednesday sent the fiscal 1977 budget bills for the University of Illinois and Southern Illinois University to Gov. Daniel Walker's desk. The Senate voted 52-2 to accept three House amendments to the U of I budget bill (S1628), bringing the total for that system's three campuses to $276.5 million for the coming fiscal year. One amendment would add $60,000 to the bill for an energy resources center at the Chicago Circle campus. A second amendment would cut a total of $9 million in capital development projects. A third, adding $1.2 million in health program support, would enable 109 additional students to enroll in health professions at the U of I medical school.

Termites may 'derail' Amtrak

MIAMI (UPI) — Amtrak trains from Chicago and New York may soon be reaching the end of the line at Hollywood, Fla., unless a temporary Miami depot can be arranged to replace the termite-ridden Miami station.

Amtrak officials say the Miami station must be closed within 60 to 90 days.

Miami Building Director Robert Ferencik said the old station has been weakened by termites and is in a general state of deterioration.

AFTER SPEAKING with Amtrak officials in Washington, Rep. William Lehman, D-Fla., said three new station sites in north and west Dade County were being discussed and all of them would be more convenient to the SCL yards in Hialeah.

The SCL provides the engine crews and car and locomotive maintenance for Amtrak rolling stock in Florida.

Those prospective sites could include the town of Opa-locka in north-west Dade, where Amtrak officials would still like to build a station. Dade and Miami officials don't want the depot moved to the suburban area, which is 10 miles northwest of downtown Miami.

They would prefer a site near Miami International Airport.

Village board wrapup

Bids to be sought on fire, street items

The Elk Grove Village Board Tuesday gave the go-ahead to seek bids to purchase a variety of items for the fire and street departments.

Prices will be sought for 47 coats and 68 helmets for firemen, two 2 1/2-ton trucks with spreaders, plows, radios, bins and lights at the public works garage.

Cabbie endorsements waived

The board, at the request of T&D Cab Service, waived the requirement that nonresident taxi-cab drivers have personal recommendation letters from two village residents.

The company said it will have five taxis operating in the village immediately.

Drive renamed Commerce

Village Drive, between Ill. Rte. 83 and Higgins Road, was renamed Commerce Drive to avoid confusion with another street.

Strand Plumbing gets job

The board approved a $33,937 contract with Strand Plumbing, Palatine, for construction of a pumphouse and accessories for Well No. 10 near Meacham and Nerge roads. The bid was the lowest of four received.

Hearing on antenna heights

A public hearing has been set for July 26 before the plan commission for a change in the ordinance regulating antenna heights. A 60-foot limit is proposed to replace the current 35-foot limit.

No new business liaison

Village Pres. Charles J. Zettek said a new liaison with the Elk Grove Assn. of Industry and Commerce will not be named because one is no longer needed.

Trustee Edward W. Kenna Jr. recently resigned as liaison after he was told he could not attend an industrial association meeting at which the group was to take a stand on the proposed Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 unit school district.

8 trailers OK'd as offices

The board approved the use of eight mobile trailers as temporary office space by Zenith Radio Corp., 1851 Arthur Ave. The trailers will be used by 30 employees for up to 16 months.

Two get service awards

Zettek gave service awards to Grant Watson, 15 years on the police pension fund board and current chairman, and Robert Fleming, 12 years on the zoning board of appeals and current chairman.

Harper board OKs faculty pay pact in 6-1 vote

A faculty contract for the 1976-77 school year was approved Wednesday by the Harper College Board of Trustees.

The board voted 6-1 to ratify the contract for the 202 full-time faculty members at Harper. The faculty union, on behalf of the teachers, unanimously approved the contract Monday.

The contract agreement was reached June 11 following several weeks of court-ordered negotiations. Contract talks began early this year but stopped in April when the board declared negotiations had ended. The faculty in May won a court-order requiring the board to return to the bargaining table.

The new contract grants a $1,375 raise to all faculty members except those whose increased salary will exceed the maximum range set for their jobs.

IN A BALLOT conducted by mail last week, the faculty voted 67-34 in favor of the $1,375 raise.

The new contract also includes an agreement by the board to recognize the faculty union for negotiations next year. The faculty recently voted to affiliate with the American Federation of Teachers, a national teachers' union.

Trustee Judith Troehler, one of the board's negotiators, cast the only dissenting vote, saying the board should not have recognized the faculty union for negotiating purposes.

Salary ranges for faculty set by the board in December were: $11,200 to $18,250, instructor; $12,990 to $21,000, assistant professor; $14,810 to $24,140, associate professor, and $17,030 to $27,760, professors.

The board Wednesday also approved an 8 per cent over-all pay increase for custodians and maintenance workers. The increase will apply to the final year of a three-year contract with the service employees, said Wilfred Von Mayr, personnel director.

Zettek replied, "They're closeted. They're easy to identify at Village Grove." I don't think it's prejudiced," he added there would be too high an administrative cost in identifying other senior citizen garbage collection service users.

Stob indicated he did not ask for an increase in the apartment pickup rate because of complaints two years ago when the rates were last increased.

pressure problems. Fire Chief John E. Henric told the board that even with the pressure frequent pressure — 20 pounds — to problems there always has been sufficient fire.

Two other area towns have limited sprinkling in the past week. Rolling Meadows is restricting sprinkling on a voluntary basis to 6 to 8 a.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. Arlington Heights has begun issuing tickets to violators of its ordinance, which permits sprinkling on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays only.

Mount Prospect is considering restricting sprinkling to before 10 a.m. and after 4 p.m. on Saturdays, Sundays, Tuesdays and Thursdays.

He said apartment dwellers already feel they are paying too much and added he expects there will be more complaints.

"We feel what is good for one has to be good for all," said Trustee Ronald L. Chernick, who with the rest of the board felt apartments should be included in the increase.

STOB SAID Garden City made $10,000 profit from the apartments and $6,000 profit from the single-family area last year.

Trustee Edward W. Kenna Jr. said that with pickup three times a week and Garden City-supplied garbage containers, "The apartment dweller gets better service."

Stob said the apartment rates are figured individually, creating the spread from $2.50 to $3.75 with the approved 25-cent increase.

Garden City also was seeking a five-year contract with an escalation clause for the final three years, which the board rejected. Stob said the escalation clause, based in part on cost-of-living increase, would equal about 25 cents a year.

THE VILLAGE board also had rejected the escalation proposal two years ago.

Stob said he was requesting an increase because of rising landfill and truck costs. A third factor he cited was a new union contract that will be negotiated with his employees in October. "We are unsure what they will ask for," he said.

The village board decided to renew with Garden City rather than seeking competitive bids because it liked the service provided.

"He'll take away your house if it ends up on the curb. He's given us just tremendous service. I haven't heard a complaint in 16 years," Zettek said.

Can't explain 14% tax hike in 'Knolls'

A Hoffman Estates village official Wednesday said that a municipal tax increase is not the single cause for a near 14 per cent real estate tax increase in the Winston Knolls subdivision, but he could not explain why the increase was so high.

Village Mgr. George Longmeyer said part of the increase can be accounted for by a merger last year of the Hoffman Estates Fire District and the village, which resulted in the transfer of the fire district's tax rate to the village.

Figures released Tuesday by Cook County Clerk Stanley Kasper indicated that Winston Knolls property owners will face the biggest increase in taxes in the Northwest suburbs.

Winston Knolls property owners will pay $5.99 per $100 assessed valuation, or $899 on a home assessed at $10,000.

THE FIGURE represents a 13.9 per cent increase from the 7.88-cent per $100 rate Winston Knolls homeowners paid last year. The Winston Knolls rate still is lower than that paid by the rest of Hoffman Estates homeowners, who pay $9.15 per $100 assessed valuation, or $915 on a home assessed at $10,000.

Hoffman Estates residents outside Winston Knolls will receive tax increases totaling 3.45 per cent.

Longmeyer said part of the apparent doubling of the municipal real estate tax from 80.4 cents to $1.86 this year "is a cosmetic increase" caused when the Hoffman Estates Fire District was merged into the village.

Assessed value not as expected

Hoffman Estates officials got some bad tax news Wednesday when Cook County Assessor Thomas Tully informed the village its total 1975 assessed valuation will be $4 million less than expected.

The village also learned that its present assessed valuation of $109 million will decrease by $200,000 but the assessor's office had no explanation for the drop.

At a press conference Wednesday, Village Pres. Virginia M. Hayter said she intends to form a special village task force to "immediately begin checking the assessments for Hoffman Estates."

THE ASSESSED valuation figures are important to the village because total tax income for the village is determined by tax rates and assessed valuation.

Mrs. Hayter said Wednesday the village board will commission the special task force to "discover how, why, who or what is responsible for the purported decrease in assessed valuation."

In a letter she will send to village residents, Mrs. Hayter said the task force will consist of herself, Village Mgr. George Longmeyer, Finance Director Keith Wendland, Trustee William Cowin, Building Officer Daniel Murphy and three "blue-ribbon citizens."

She said she hopes to appoint a Democrat, a Schaumburg Township resident and a Palatine Township resident to the task force.

"THE GROUP will make its first report within 30 days and regularly thereafter until the issue has been resolved," Mrs. Hayter said.

A SCHAUMBURG FIREMAN inspects damage to a chemical storage area and spraying equipment used to make fiberglass pool panels at the SPC Swimming Pool Corp., 622

Lunt Ave. Damage was estimated by fire officials at $10,000.

$10,000 fire hits swim pool firm

A fire Wednesday morning caused an estimated $10,000 damage at CPC Swimming Pool Equipment Corp., 622 Lunt Ave., Schaumburg.

None of the 10 persons in the building at the time of the blaze were injured. Damage was limited to the interior of the building, and the blaze did not spread to nearby structures.

The fire started when employees were trying to mop up a liquid chemical used in the production of fiberglass swimming pool walls. The chemical apparently reacted with another substance in the rags and caught fire.

Bob Drake, a stockholder in the company, said the workroom and office space had been damaged. He said the heat from the fire had warped the precision models used in forming the fiberglass and destroyed spraying equipment for the catalyst.

Drake said an exact damage estimate would depend on how much of the equipment in the building could be salvaged.

The building, which is located in the Centex Industrial Park, was being used for production and molding of fiberglass panels. Officers, distribution and storage facilities were located in another building.

Correction

The tax rate for the Hoffman Estates Park District was listed incorrectly in The Herald Wednesday. The correct rate is 33.2 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

The 76.7 cents per $100 rate listed is that of the Hanover Park District. The total rate of $9.15 per $100 for Hoffman Estates residents living in Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 and the Hoffman Estates Park District was listed correctly.

'Vital data' kept from Warren panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Warren Commission never considered the possibility that John F. Kennedy's assassination was arranged by Fidel Castro because the CIA never told the panel about plans to kill the Cuban premier, according to a Senate study released Wednesday.

The 106-page report said the CIA and FBI withheld certain vital data from the Warren Commission, including secret reports about two mysterious travelers who fled to Cuba after Kennedy's murder in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963 — another failure to look into "the Cuban connection."

While the report, prepared by a task force directed by Sens. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., and Gary Hart, D-Colo., pointed to several new leads, it said it had no evidence to overturn the Warren Commission's conclusion Lee Harvey Oswald was Kennedy's sole assassin, acting alone.

But Schweiker said the CIA and FBI were engaged in "a coverup" that kept the Warren Commission from following every lead and "there is no longer any reason to have faith in its picture of the Kennedy assassination." He said a new investigation is needed "before the American people will ever know the truth."

The report said former CIA Director Allen W. Dulles, one of the seven members of the Warren Commission, never told the six other members (Continued on Page 3)

It is very difficult to achieve total cohesion in any team sport in just four weeks.

Just how much progress has been made? Area basketball fans will be the judges tonight.

A capacity crowd of 3,500 will jam the Prospect High School fieldhouse at 8 p.m. today for the only Midwest appearance by the team. Coach Dean Smith's Olympians will battle the Midwest All-Stars coached by Ray

Meyer of DePaul University.

ALTHOUGH THE game is a sellout, it will be broadcast on WWMM-FM (92.7), starting at 7:30 p.m.

The contest is cosponsored by the Mount Prospect State Bank and Prospect High School Boosters Club. The Olympic team will arrive in the afternoon today and depart Friday morning after staying at the Arlington Park Hilton.

"I'm greatly impressed with the attitude and unselfishness of our team," said Smith as he prepared to bring the Olympians to Mount Prospect.

"The players are giving up six-footers when someone else has a layup attempt. This is one of the best shooting teams ever — college or pro!"

Smith's team split with the professional Denver Nuggets in two appearances and then handled the Spanish Olympic team and Israeli Nationals. They shot an incredible 81 per cent in overwhelming the Israelis, 123-69, but should have more problems tonight against a team of professionals coached by Meyer.

THE MIDWEST All-Stars have had three practice sessions at Prospect

High. A definite lineup was still unsettled Wednesday, depending on the availability of certain players, but Clifford Ray of the Golden State Warriors has joined the club.

Ray, a former member of the Chicago Bulls, will now operate with Bob Love and Mickey Johnson of the Bulls in a front line that should give the Olympians an interesting argument. The 6-9, 222-pound Ray starred on the Warriors' 1975 NBA champions after being traded to Golden State for Nate Thurmond. He is only a fair shooter but a ferocious rebounder and tough defensive player.

Junior Bridgeman of the Milwaukee Bucks also joined the Midwest All-Stars Wednesday. The 6-5, 210-pound Bridgeman was a two-time Missouri Valley Conference MVP at Louisville, who was acquired from the Los Angeles Lakers in the Abdul-Jabbar deal.

The Midwest entry needs all the firepower it can put together because the Olympic team has class at every position, particularly at forward where 6-7 Scott May — college player of the (Continued on Sect. 2, Page 1)

IVA TOGURI D'AQUINO, better known to thousands of World War II veterans as "Tokyo Rose," who was convicted of treason in 1949, is hoping she'll receive a Presidential pardon by July 4, which also is her birthday. Mrs. d'Aquino, an American citizen who rarely has her picture taken, is shown in her father's oriental gift shop in Chicago. She said she'll only believe the pardon after receiving official papers.

Daley credits mom for marriage bliss

Forty years to the day after his wedding day, Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley gave his mother credit for helping to make the marriage work. Daley told reporters Wednesday his mother told him, "Don't let the sun go down until you talk to your friends and talk to your wife if you have any differences." The mayor spent most of his anniversary day with his wife, Eleanor, and their children.

Sex behind girl's death

Police said Wednesday "sex and some nut" by behind the killing of Lori Bolger, 16, whose body was found Tuesday near a sewage treatment plant southwest of Elgin. Officers said the girl died of a fractured skull. It has not been determined whether she was raped, but police said her jeans were pulled down and her sweater pulled up. Miss Bolger, who lived in South Elgin with her mother and two brothers, was last seen by her family when she was dropped off for a drivers education class at Larkin High School in Elgin.

Fireworks illegal in state: Johnson

Firecrackers, sparklers and most other forms of fireworks are illegal in Illinois unless the user has a permit, Law Enforcement Director Harvey Johnson Jr. warned Wednesday. "All forms of firecrackers, roman candles, skyrockets, smoke bombs and sparklers are prohibited," Johnson said. Sale or use of those articles can be punished by a fine and up to six months in jail. Illinois Fire Marshal Robert Walsh said six persons died in Illinois fireworks accidents last year and 85 others suffered serious injuries. Most of the accidents were caused by "gross negligence" and most of the children or teen-agers, he said.

IBI elimination bid fails

An effort to eliminate the Illinois Bureau of Investigation failed Wednesday in the House but not before its 169 agents were compared to the Keystone Cops. Rep. Samuel McGrew, D-Geneseo, said three IBI agents "came to Warren County to investigate the sale of marijuana. They secured the dubious plant and went around to see who was interested. Only trouble was," McGrew said, "they failed to tell local police and were arrested for selling it and spent the night in jail."

Arson link to firemen probed

State investigators have been called in to determine whether disgruntled East St. Louis firemen, who walked off the job after being denied a pay increase, set a series of more than 20 fires in abandoned buildings. Mayor William E. Mason, who said the city can not afford to pay the 10 per cent pay raise which has been withheld since Jan. 1, said the Illinois Bureau of Investigation and the state fire marshal would be asked to help investigate the series of fires which began Tuesday night and continued early Wednesday. No injuries were reported.

House supports conjugal visits

A resolution urging the Illinois Dept. of Corrections to experiment with conjugal visits between prisoners and their spouses passed the House Wednesday. The measure (HJR36), drafted by the House Judiciary II Committee, says California and Mississippi have tested the program and found it cuts down the number of repeat offenders and gives prisoners closer ties to society when they leave prison. Rep. Romie Palmer, R-Blue Island, said he does not believe prisoners should be "neutered. They should be anchored to society in some way. This could also reduce homosexuality."

Senate approves UI budget

The Illinois Senate Wednesday sent the fiscal 1977 budget bills for the University of Illinois and Southern Illinois University to Gov. Daniel Walker's desk. The Senate voted 52-2 to accept three House amendments to the U of I budget bill (S1628), bringing the total for that system's three campuses to $276.5 million for the coming fiscal year. One amendment would add $80,000 to the bill for an energy resources center at the Chicago Circle campus. A second amendment would cut a total of $9 million in capital development projects. A third, adding $1.2 million in health program support, would enable 109 additional students to enroll in health professions at the U of I medical school.

The invocation was said by the Class of 1976 valedictorian Diane Fuhs and the benediction was said by salutatorian Mary Beth Leonard.

Village board wrapup

Driver test center on Golf Road OKd

Plans for a Northwest suburban driver examination center to open in July at 1231 E. Golf Rd. have been approved by the Schaumburg Village Board.

The Illinois Secretary of State's Office will operate the facility in space being leased from J. Emil Anderson and Son, owner of the Woodfield Commons commercial-office center.

Road testing will take place on adjacent streets near Woodfield Shopping Center. The testing center will open daily at 8 a.m., but road tests will be limited to between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. to avoid rush-hour traffic.

Jensen appointment OKd

Schaumburg Pres. Raymond Kessel's appointment of Allen C. Jensen, 811 Prince Charles Ln., to fill a vacancy on the village sign variation committee has been ratified by the village board.

Jensen is a former officer of Knightsbridge Homeowners' Assn.

Temporary liquor licenses OKd

Temporary liquor licenses to allow the sale of beer at several community functions have been approved by the village board.

The action will enable St. Marcelline's Catholic Church, 820 S. Springguth Rd., to sell beer at a beer and banjo night Friday, and at a July 30 square dance and an Aug. 15 parish picnic.

Members of the Schaumburg Fraternal Order of Police also have been given a license to sell beer at the Schaumburg Park District's July 4 picnic at Meineke Community Center, 220 E. Weathersfield Way.

No zone ruling on Matanky plan

The future of developer Eugene Matanky's controversial Sarah's Grove Apartment complex rests with Schaumburg village officials. Zoning board members failed Wednesday to reach a recommendation on the 384-unit project proposed on Schaumburg Road, one-quarter mile west of Roselle Road.

Zoning board member Bernard

Powell's motion to deny zoning for the 26.5-acre development was defeated in a 3-to-2 vote with member Shirley Slater, absent for medical reasons, from two of four public hearings on the project, abstaining. Member Wayne Silva was absent.

Matanky's plan calls for the apartments to be built in modules of six per building. Apartment buildings would then be sold as condominium units with the developer guaranteeing a monthly income of $1,800 to the purchaser of each building. Matanky said he would either lease the buildings before completion, or guarantee the owners income equal to the rent, for a period of one year after purchase. Units are planned to rent for about $285 a month.

POWELL SAID he voted against the development because he objects to

"off premises ownership."

"I have no objection to six flats, but gut feelings tell me these properties would be bought up by owners and later become trading posts from year to year," Powell said.

Board member Roy Zemack supported Powell's vote with Martine Coniglio, Hal Cafferata and Chairman Russell Parker casting dissenting votes.

Parker said he will present the zoning board report at the July 13 village board meeting though a recommendation cannot be made without four affirmative votes.

Parker said it's an "accepted practice" for builders to propose apartment developments as buffer zones between houses and shopping centers. The area is just west of Town Square shopping center, Schaumburg and Roselle roads.

MORE THAN 150 residents of the Woods and Timbercrest subdivisions adjacent to the property have objected to the plan asking the developer to substitute houses. The homeowners contend the complex would lower the value of their homes now selling for between $80,000 and $127,000.

Parking woes seen at July 4 festivities

Hoffman Estates will have parking problems during the Fourth of July fireworks display celebration, Civil Defense Director Richard Monaghan said.

Monaghan told the village board Monday that Conant High School stadium, the site of July 4 activities, has only one parking lot, a factor which could lead to traffic problems.

Village Pres. Virginia Hayter said planners "hadn't thought of it (parking space)," but said officials "will work on it" before the festivities begin July 4.

She suggested using a bank parking lot to accommodate cars and the possible use of commuter buses to transport persons to the stadium, 700 E. Cougar Tr. She did not say where the buses would be obtained.

Mrs. Hayter added that residents should be aware that they will be ticketed if cars are parked along Plum Grove Road.

Air tour of airport today

A walking and flying tour of Schaumburg Airport and surrounding areas is on tonight's agenda of the Schaumburg Airport Safety Committee.

The committee will meet at 7 p.m. at Aviation Center Enterprises Inc. in the main hangar, Irving Park Road and Wright Boulevard.

The panel was formed, several months ago by airport manager Kenneth B. Wolmer. The group includes representatives of Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Hanover Park, Streamwood, Roselle and Bloomingdale.

Regan theft trial moved to Monday

The theft trial of James Regan, a former Schaumburg policeman, again has been moved back in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Judge Jerome Burke has ordered the trial moved to Monday.

Regan allegedly was involved in the July 1975 theft of an air conditioner and a lawnmower from the Walden apartment complex in Schaumburg. The Schaumburg Police and Fire Commission May 15 fired Regan after it upheld 21 departmental misconduct charges against him.

Can't explain hike in 'Knolls' tax rate

trial merged with the village last year.

"The $1.80 figure is not an actual increase, but a transfer of rates from the old fire district," he said. "The $1.80 represents combined rates of the municipal tax and the old fire district tax (of 46.5 cents)."

Winston Knolls, along Algonquin and Freeman roads, is part of Palatine Township. Township tax rates increased 37.3 per cent. The remainder of Hoffman Estates is in Schaumburg Township, which had a 6.8 per cent increase.

Hoffman Estates Village Pres. Virginia Hayter said Wednesday she will distribute letters to village residents explaining the tax rates.

On 6-to-1 vote

Harper board OKs faculty pact

A faculty contract for the 1976-77 school year was approved Wednesday by the Harper College Board of Trustees.

The board voted 6-1 to ratify the contract for the 202 full-time faculty members at Harper. The faculty union, on behalf of the teachers, unanimously approved the contract Monday.

The contract agreement was reached June 11 following several weeks of court-ordered negotiations. Contract talks began early this year but stopped in April when the board declared negotiations had ended. The faculty in-

May won a court-order requiring the board to return to the bargaining table.

The new contract grants a $1,375 raise to all faculty members except those whose increased salary will exceed the maximum range set for their jobs.

IN A BALLOT conducted by mail last week, the faculty voted 67-34 in favor of the $1,375 raise.

The new contract also includes an agreement by the board to recognize the faculty union for negotiations next year. The faculty recently voted to affiliate with the American Federation of Teachers, a national teachers' union.

Trustee Judith Troehier, one of the board's negotiators, cast the only dissenting vote, saying the board should not have recognized the faculty union for negotiating purposes.

Salary ranges for faculty set by the board in December were: $11,200 to $18,250, instructor; $12,990 to $21,000, assistant professor; $14,810 to $24,140, associate professor, and $17,030 to $27,760, professors.

The board Wednesday also approved an 8 per cent over-all pay increase for custodians and maintenance workers. The increase will apply to the final year of a three-year contract with the service employees, said Wilfred Von Mayr, personnel director.

Decade old lawn sprinkling ban enforced for 1st time

by PAT GERLACH

Schaumburg's 10-year-old lawn sprinkling restriction will be enforced for the first time this summer, even though the village does not have an immediate water shortage.

Village officials have agreed to strictly enforce the 1966 ordinance that allows persons living at odd-numbered addresses to sprinkle on odd-numbered calendar days. Residents of even-numbered addresses may water their lawns on even-numbered calendar days.

Violation carries a fine of not more than $300 for each offense.

The trustees decision came at the recommendation of Village Mgr. John E. Coste, who said member communities of the Northwest Municipal Conference have been asked to either adopt sprinkling ordinances or enforce existing local watering laws.

THE MUNICIPAL conference includes 16 Northwest suburban towns and several townships whose officials meet monthly to discuss regional problems.

Neighboring Elk Grove Village officials this week imposed a total watering ban that prohibits all lawn sprinkling until further notice.

"Mechanically speaking, Schaumburg has no present water problems, but if a couple of our big wells go out, we could be in real trouble," Coste said.

Last year village officials asked residents to conserve water and observe the sprinkling limits when two deep wells malfunctioned and were inoperable for about three weeks. Fines were not imposed for violations.

COSTE PRESENTED figures showing an increase in village water consumption in the past year, saying 5.3 million gallons were pumped June 1 compared with 3.9 million June 1, 1975.

"Somehow, somehow, people have got to be made aware that water is an endangered species in the Northwest suburbs, at least until we are able to get Lake Michigan water," Coste said.

Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates and other suburban communities are working with the Illinois Dept. of Waterways to obtain allocations of Lake Michigan water, though the decisions have not yet been made.

COSTE SAID he is "confident" Schaumburg residents will accept and comply with the ban, which will be rigidly enforced after "a reasonable period of notice."

He said the ordinance provides for variations for residents able to prove they have new sod requiring more frequent watering than allowed under the ban.

Village board members, however, expressed little interest in a companion program suggested by the municipal conference that calls for a review of village water rate structures aimed at discounts for decreased consumption.

Schaumburg residents now receive discounts for larger quantities of water used.

Parks made money on ice rental

The Rolling Meadows Park District made more money than expected from spring ice rental at the park district ice arena.

Revenue from May 1 through June 11 was $21,619. The district had estimated $20,000 would be collected.

In a report to the park district commissioners Tuesday, Ken Smith, arena manager said, "the arena had a successful spring ice season."

Hockey league ice rental brought in $12,682; special events, $2,180 and pro shop sales, $1,425.

The proceeds from general admission tickets was $1,020; skate rental, $348; skating lessons $479 and patch and free style skating, $452.

Ice rental brought in $2,022 and facility rental another $104.

Passes accounted for $30 in revenue and miscellaneous sales, $26. The district estimates $851 in fees is yet to be collected.

In other board action Tuesday, the commissioners agreed to purchase

For employe group plan

Panel to urge new insurance company

The Rolling Meadows finance committee will recommend the city council cancel its present city employee group insurance program with the John Hancock Insurance Co. and accept Prudential Life Insurance Co. as its new carrier.

The changeover was recommended Wednesday by Arthur J. Gallagher & Co. which has been retained by the city to act as its insurance broker.

Dave Sullivan, representing the firm, said the Prudential bid offered comparable coverage for a smaller annual premium. The Gallagher firm had been asked by the city's finance committee to review the city's group insurance program, which covers approximately 150 employees.

PREMIUMS FOR the past 12 months, under the Hancock policy, were $82,619 annually. The Prudential bid will offer insurance for the next 12-month period beginning in August for an annual premium of $67,310.20.

The Hancock proposal for the city would have called for an annual premium increase to $102,122.64. Sullivan, in recommending the city finance committee accept the Prudential bid for coverage, said the city would save 15 per cent annually.

Ald. William Ahrens, 2nd, a member of the finance committee, voted against accepting the Prudential bid.

Although Ahrens did not explain his vote Wednesday, earlier in the week he had complained to other aldermen that the city should accept competitive bids from any firm that would offer coverage.

SULLIVAN SAID Wednesday his firm had surveyed the market and asked 13 top insurance companies to review the city's group insurance program and bid for the proposal.

He said the brokerage does business for other municipalities and keeps a running list of the most competitive firms.

"We feel we presented a good variety of top notch companies' bids," he said.

"It's too expensive to underwrite or give bid specifications for municipalities. It (municipal insurance) is not long-standing business, and insurance companies lose money," he said.

Free trash bags OKd for Fairfax

Free garbage bags will continue to be provided to residents of Rolling Meadows' Fairfax Village subdivision. Recently that service was stopped, apparently with no authorization by the city council.

The subdivision of 99 single-family homes is at Kirchoff Road west of Hicks Road. Although the homeowners contract for private garbage removal, they receive from the city a free supply of approximately 200 garbage bags. Homeowners in the city receive free city garbage service and free garbage bags.

THE CITY PUBLIC works department refused to give free garbage bags to Fairfax Village residents who attempted recently to pick up a supply.

John and Shirley Hunter, residents of the subdivision Tuesday appeared before the city council to appeal for reinstatement of the free bag supply.

"What has changed in the last three years? We still pay taxes the same as everyone in the city and in addition pay extra to have our garbage picked up by an outside service," Mrs. Hunter said. She added that several residents of the subdivision who have regularly picked up a supply of bags were told several weeks ago that these would no longer be provided to residents of the subdivision because of a new city policy.

When no one on the council could explain what the new policy was or when it was adopted, Mayor Roland J. Meyer said the incident was the result of an oversight or a city committee giving directives to the public works department without council authority.

"I THINK THE Fairfax Village residents are entitled to the free bags and should receive them until this council decides to discontinue the service by council action," he added.

The issue is to be reviewed by a public works subcommittee.

Until it makes a report to the council, bags will be given to Fairfax residents who come to the city public works building at 3200 Central Rd.

In the past, all city residents picked up bundles of free garbage bags at the public works building.

In May the city instituted a new distribution policy which was designed to save the city approximately $11,000 in salary and materials cost.

Vital data kept from Warren panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Warren Commission never considered the possibility that John F. Kennedy's assassination was arranged by Fidel Castro because the CIA never told the panel about plans to kill the Cuban premier, according to a Senate study released Wednesday.

The 106-page report said the CIA and FBI withheld certain vital data from the Warren Commission, including secret reports about two mysterious travelers who fled to Cuba after Kennedy's murder in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963 — another failure to look into "the Cuban connection."

While the report, prepared by a task force directed by Sens. Richard

S. Schweiker, R-Pa., and Gary Hart, D-Colo., pointed to several new leads, it said it had no evidence to overturn the Warren Commission's conclusion Lee Harvey Oswald was Kennedy's sole assassin, acting alone.

But Schweiker said the CIA and FBI were engaged in "a coverup" that kept the Warren Commission from following every lead and "there is no longer any reason to have faith in its picture of the Kennedy assassination." He said a new investigation is needed "before the American people will ever know the truth."

The report said former CIA Director Allen W. Dulles, one of the seven members of the Warren Commission, never told the six other members

Pros to test Olympic team tonight

The inside story

by BOB FRISK

Time is not on the side of the U.S. Olympic basketball team.

It is very difficult to achieve total cohesion in any team sport in just four weeks.

Just how much progress has been made? Area basketball fans will be the judges tonight.

A capacity crowd of 3,500 will jam the Prospect High School fieldhouse at 8 p.m. today for the only Midwest appearance by the team. Coach Dean Smith's Olympians will battle the Midwest All-Stars coached by Ray

Meyer of DePaul University.

ALTHOUGH THE game is a sellout, it will be broadcast on WMM-FM (92.7), starting at 7:30 p.m.

The contest is cosponsored by the Mount Prospect State Bank and Prospect High School Boosters Club. The Olympic team will arrive in the afternoon today and depart Friday morning after staying at the Arlington Park Hilton.

"I'm greatly impressed with the attitude and unselfishness of our team," said Smith as he prepared to bring the Olympians to Mount Prospect.

"The players are giving up six-footers when someone else has a layup attempt. This is one of the best shooting teams ever — college or pro!"

Smith's team split with the professional Denver Nuggets in two appearances and then handled the Spanish Olympic team and Israeli Nationals. They shot an incredible 81 per cent in overwhelming the Israelis, 123-69, but should have more problems tonight against a team of professionals coached by Meyer.

THE MIDWEST All-Stars have had three practice sessions at Prospect

High. A definite lineup was still unsettled Wednesday, depending on the availability of certain players, but Clifford Ray of the Golden State Warriors has joined the club.

Ray, a former member of the Chicago Bulls, will now operate with Bob Love and Mickey Johnson of the Bulls in a front line that should give the Olympians an interesting argument. The 6-9, 222-pound Ray starred on the Warriors' 1975 NBA champions after being traded to Golden State for Nate Thurmond. He is only a fair shooter but a ferocious rebounder and tough defensive player.

Junior Bridgeman of the Milwaukee Bucks also joined the Midwest All-Stars Wednesday. The 6-5, 210-pound Bridgeman was a two-time Missouri Valley Conference MVP at Louisville, who was acquired from the Los Angeles Lakers in the Abdul-Jabbar deal.

The Midwest entry needs all the firepower it can put together because the Olympic team has class at every position, particularly at forward where 6-7 Scott May — college player of the

Daley credits mom for marriage bliss

Forty years to the day after his wedding day, Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley gave his mother credit for helping to make the marriage work. Daley told reporters Wednesday his mother told him, "Don't let the sun go down until you talk to your friends and talk to your wife if you have any differences." The mayor spent most of his anniversary day with his wife, Eleanor, and their children.

Sex behind girl's death

Police said Wednesday sex and some nut jobs behind the killing of Toni Bolger, 17, whose body was found Tuesday near a sewage treatment plant southwest of Elgin. Officers said the girl died of a fractured skull. It has not been determined whether she was raped, but police said her jeans were pulled down and her sweater pulled up. Miss Bolger, who lived in South Elgin with her mother and two brothers, was last seen by her family when she was dropped off for a drivers education class at Larkin High School in Elgin.

Illinois briefs

Fireworks illegal in state: Johnson

Firecrackers, sparklers and most other forms of fireworks are illegal in Illinois unless the user has a permit. Law Enforcement Director Harvey Johnson Jr. warned Wednesday. All forms of firecrackers, roman candles, skyrockets, smoke bombs and sparklers are prohibited. Johnson said sale or use of those articles can be punished by a fine and up to six months in jail. Illinois Fire Marshal Robert Walsh said six persons died in Illinois fireworks accidents last year and 83 others suffered serious injuries. Most of the accidents were caused by gross negligence and most of the children or teenagers, he said.

IBI elimination bid fails

An effort to eliminate the Illinois Bureau of Investigation failed Wednesday in the House but not before its 109 agents were compared to the Keystone Cops. Rep. Samuel McGrew, D-Geneseo, said three IBI agents came to Warren County to investigate the sale of marijuana. They secured the dubious plant and went around to see who was interested. Only trouble was, McGrew said, they failed to tell local police and were arrested for selling it and spent the night in jail.

Arson link to firemen probed

State investigators have been called in to determine whether disgruntled East St. Louis firemen who walked off the job after being denied a pay increase set a series of more than 20 fires in abandoned buildings. Mayor William E. Mason, who said the city can not afford to pay the 10 per cent pay raise which has been withheld since Jan. 1, said the Illinois Bureau of Investigation and the state fire marshal would be asked to help investigate the series of fires which began Tuesday night and continued early Wednesday. No injuries were reported.

House supports conjugal visits

A resolution urging the Illinois Dept. of Corrections to experiment with conjugal visits between prisoners and their spouses passed the House Wednesday. The measure (HJR96), drafted by the House Judiciary II Committee, says California and Mississippi have tested the program and found it cuts down the number of repeat offenders and gives prisoners closer ties to society when they leave prison. Rep. Romie Palmer, R-Blue Island, said he does not believe prisoners should be "neutered." They should be anchored to society in some way. This could also reduce homosexuality.

Senate approves UI budget

The Illinois Senate Wednesday sent the fiscal 1977 budget bills for the University of Illinois and Southern Illinois University to Gov. Daniel Walker's desk. The Senate voted 52-2 to accept three House amendments to the U of I budget bill (S1628), bringing the total for that system's three campuses to $276.5 million for the coming fiscal year. One amendment would add $60,000 to the bill for an energy resources center at the Chicago Circle campus. A second amendment would cut a total of $9 million in capital development projects. A third, adding $12 million in health program support, would enable 109 additional students to enroll in health professions at the U of I medical school.

Termites may 'derail' Amtrak

MIAMI (UPI) — Amtrak trains from Chicago and New York may soon be reaching the end of the line at Hollywood, Fla., unless a temporary Miami depot can be arranged to replace the termite-ridden Miami station.

Amtrak officials say the Miami station must be closed within 60 to 90 days.

Miami Building Director Robert Ferencik said the old station has been weakened by termites and is in a general state of deterioration.

AFTER SPEAKING with Amtrak officials in Washington, Rep. William Lehman, D-Fla., said three new station sites in north and west Dade County were being discussed and all of them would be more convenient to the SCL yards in Hialeah.

The SCL provides the engine crews and car and locomotive maintenance for Amtrak rolling stock in Florida.

Dist. 211 wrapup

$12 textbook fee to remain in effect

A 1976-77 textbook fee of $12 has been approved by the Palatine Township High School Dist. 211 Board of Education.

The $12 fee is the same as last year, when it was dropped from the $14 fee paid by parents the two previous years. The board was informed Tuesday that although the state has passed a bill stating textbooks should be free, textbooks will not be free until the state decides to fund the proposal.

$3,415 orientation funds OK'd

The board appropriated $3,415 for an orientation program concerning a policy on student rights and responsibilities prepared by students and approved by the board in February.

The money will finance five films, five slide-tape presentations, having the policy duplicated and mailed to students' homes, and posters for publicity. The cost of printing the policy in booklet form for distribution to 11,000 students is $2,695.

The policy outlines student rights, such as first amendment rights and grooming rights, as well as the responsibilities those rights entail.

July 8 summer rap session

The Board approved July 8 as the date for its summer rap session with students.

Students from Palatine, Fremd and Conant high schools already have volunteered to attend the rap session, but students still are being sought from Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates high schools. Interested students should contact the district office at 359-3300.

The board held its first 1976 rap session in January. The purpose of the sessions is to acquaint the board with student views on topics ranging from whether students are prepared for college or jobs when they leave high school to the importance of fine arts to whether the district has too much or too little discipline.

Arlington studies Wisconsin plan

Youth assistance stymies vandals

by JOE SWICKARD

While Arlington Heights is grappling with a persistent vandalism problem, one Wisconsin town seems to have found a way to roll back the tide of destruction.

Next week, two members of the village's Zero Vandalism Committee will go to Wauwatosa, Wis., to learn how that Milwaukee suburb reduced vandalism by 16 per cent last year through a program of "positive peer group pressure."

Committee members Arthur Gollberg and Joyce Zeller, will take part in a one-day seminar sponsored by the Wauwatosa Chamber of Commerce, which sponsored the successful vandalism reduction program.

William J. Tetzlaff, the executive director of the Wauwatosa Chamber of Commerce, said the program is not "anti-vandalism" as much as it is "positive prevention."

THE KEY TO THE program has been involvement of the town's youths in educating each other, Tetzlaff said.

"There were two basic approaches we took to the problem. One is that most vandals think of it as an impersonal crime, if a window gets broken at the school; it doesn't hurt anyone. We try to personalize the crimes with the fact that it does hurt someone when it happens," Tetzlaff said.

The second approach is that acts of vandalism, no matter how small, will not be tolerated in the town, he said.

"We won't accept vandalism — period. There's no excuse for it," Tetzlaff said.

Using these two basic premises, a group of students were recruited to spread the word among the other children of the town. Often times, high school students would go back to their junior high schools for the discussions and junior high school students would take the message to the elementary schools.

THE "YOUTH-TO-YOUTH" program involved the showing of an 11-minute film followed by an open discussion of the problem with the older student leading the way.

Tetzlaff said teachers were not in the rooms during the programs so the children could be more open in their questions and answers.

In Wauwatosa, the efforts were aimed "almost exclusively" at schools rather than stepped-up enforcement or the passage of new or stronger ordinances, a tactic being used in Arlington Heights.

"We were careful not to sensationalize vandalism. It's not a game between the coppers and the kids. If it gets to be a game, the kids are going to win almost every time," Tetzlaff said.

"PEOPLE THINK THAT more policemen and more laws will lessen the problem. We found that approach wasn't being effective. We were looking for a change in attitude — the ability of the youths to say no to things that are wrong," he said.

This "ability to say no" may be carried over later to other problem areas, such as drugs and alcohol, he said.

Tetzlaff said the program, a community project of the Chamber of Commerce, has tried to take a positive approach to the problem rather than being "anti-vandalism," Tetzlaff said.

"It's like starting a fire prevention program. You don't go out and hire double the number of firemen. You get people that will help prevent fires before they start," he said.

TETZLAFF SAID THE declining rate of vandalism has continued through the first four months of 1976. He said there has been an 18 per cent reduction so far this year.

"Each city is different. I'm not saying what has worked here will work in other towns," he said.

But so far, 70 persons from Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota have registered for the Wauwatosa seminar to see if the lessons learned there can be applied in their hometowns.

Chicago boy hurt when bike hits car

A 7-year-old Chicago boy suffered minor injuries Tuesday night when his bicycle struck a moving car in Arlington Heights, police reported.

Police said Alan L. Sorce, 1035 Monticello, suffered a cut knee after he rode his bicycle into the left rear side of a car driven by Armita Louise Davis, St. Louis, Mo., at Maude and Ridge avenues. The accident occurred at 7:45 p.m.

No charges were filed against Ms. Davis, and the youth was transported by police to the house of a relative on N. Ridge Avenue.

Garbage service set day after holiday

Rolling Meadows city garbage service will be provided the day after a holiday when a garbage pickup day falls on the holiday.

The city council Tuesday amended a garbage service city ordinance. Previously, if a pickup fell on a holiday, the garbage was not collected until the next regular pickup day.

Harper faculty contract ratified on 6-1 board vote

A faculty contract for the 1976-77 school year was approved Wednesday by the Harper College Board of Trustees.

The board voted 6-1 to ratify the contract for the 202 full-time faculty members at Harper. The faculty union, on behalf of the teachers, unanimously approved the contract Monday.

The contract agreement was reached June 11 following several weeks of contract ordered negotiations. Contract talks began early this year but stopped in April when the board declared negotiations had ended. The faculty in May won a court order requiring the board to return to the bargaining table.

The new contract grants a $1,375 raise to all faculty members except those whose increased salary will exceed the maximum range set for their jobs.

IN A BALLOT conducted by mail last week, the faculty voted 67-34 in favor of the $1,375 raise.

The new contract also includes an agreement by the board to recognize the faculty union for negotiations next year. The faculty recently voted to affiliate with the American Federation of Teachers, a national teachers' union.

Trustee Judith Troehler, one of the board's negotiators, cast the only dissenting vote, saying the board should not have recognized the faculty union for negotiating purposes.

Salary ranges for faculty set by the board in December were: $11,200 to $18,250, instructor; $12,990 to $21,000, assistant professor; $14,810 to $24,140, associate professor, and $17,030 to $27,760, professors.

The board Wednesday also approved an 8 per cent over-all pay increase for custodians and maintenance workers. The increase will apply to the final year of a three-year contract with the service employees, said Wilfred Von Mayr, personnel director.

Work unarmed, Jaworski ordered

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Raymond K. Berg Wednesday ordered Elk Grove Village Patrolman William Jaworski back on active duty but refused to allow Jaworski to carry a gun.

Elk Grove Village Atty. Edward C. Hofert said the judge's order goes into effect immediately. Jaworski, 33, has been on inactive duty, but with full $1,335 monthly pay, since he allegedly shot a Mount Prospect man in the stomach while investigating a pre-dawn traffic accident April 5, 1975.

The order permits Jaworski to wear his badge and uniform, but not his gun. It also suggests he be given duties such as clerical duties.

JAWORSKI FILED suit against the village several weeks ago, seeking either his reinstatement or a hearing before the village's fire and police commission. His attorney, Elliott Samuels, refused to comment Wednesday on the judge's order.

According to Hofert, Jaworski was placed on inactive duty pending the outcome of a $1 million civil suit against Jaworski filed by the shooting victim, Timothy Engelson, 19, of 308 Mt. Prospect.

Wednesday's order provides that the village need not place Jaworski on full active duty, with a gun, or file charges before the fire and police commission until 30 days after the completion of the civil suit. Hearings have not begun on the civil suit, which is being handled by the village's insurance company.

The order further states that it should not be interpreted as a statement of Jaworski's guilt or innocence in the pending civil suit or in any future matter before the fire and police commission.

Walnut Creek plan OK'd by city council

The Rolling Meadows City Council Tuesday gave its final approval to the Walnut Creek subdivision proposed for a three-acre site on West Frontage Road.

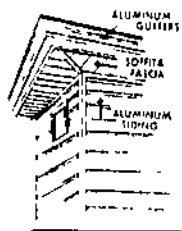

The subdivision of nine single-family homes, to be located between the Creek-side and Fairfax Village subdivisions, will be developed by Mark Davis of Elk Grove Village.

The subdivision plans received a favorable recommendation from the plan commission.

Davis told the council he has attempted to save 18 mature walnut trees on the site.

Flood plan discussion next month

Palatine trustees next month will begin discussion of implementing and financing the village's flood control master plan, which calls for an estimated $7.5 million in flood control measures.

Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones has called a July 19 meeting of the board of local improvements which includes Jones and the village's six trustees.

Vital data kept from Warren panel: Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Warren Commission never considered the possibility that John F. Kennedy's assassination was arranged by Fidel Castro because the CIA never told the panel about plans to kill the Cuban premier, according to a Senate study released Wednesday.

The 106-page report said the CIA and FBI withheld certain vital data from the Warren Commission, including secret reports about two mysterious travelers who fled to Cuba after Kennedy's murder in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963 — another failure to look into "the Cuban connection."

While the report, prepared by a task force directed by Sens. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., and Gary Hart, D-Colo., pointed to several new leads, it said it had no evidence to overturn the Warren Commission's conclusion Lee Harvey Oswald was Kennedy's sole assassin, acting alone.

But Schweiker said the CIA and FBI were engaged in "a coverup" that kept the Warren Commission from following every lead and "there is no longer any reason to have faith in its picture of the Kennedy assassination." He said a new investigation is needed "before the American people will ever know the truth."

The report said former CIA Director Allen W. Dulles, one of the seven members of the Warren Commission, never told the six other members

Jones said the board will review the flood study prepared last fall by Consoer, Townsend and Associates with three points in mind:

- Is the flood study a program that the board of local improvements wishes to implement?
- What method of financing does the board wish to pursue?
- What time frame of implementation does the board desire?

The study was commissioned by the board last year at a cost of $25,000. Recommendations in the report include installation of 12 more storm sewers in the village, installation of a pump at Lake Louise to lower the water level and additional flood retention on the west branch of Salt Creek.

Estimated cost of these flood relief measures is $5.78 million.

THE REPORT also recommends spending an additional $1.8 million for work outside the village's boundaries but within the village's planning area.

Not included in the report is a study of more than 1,000 acres in the central part of the village where combined storm and sanitary sewers must be separated.

The board's meeting next month is the first step in implementing the plan. Public hearings on ways to finance the flood control measures will follow.

Jones said one means of financing the project is through creation of special taxing districts within each of the seven or eight areas outlined in the report. The report divides the village into areas showing the flood probabilities of each and the cost breakdown per area for flood control measures, Jones said.

HE ADDED THAT residents will be assessed only for work done in their area, rather than for work done throughout the entire village.

Creation of a special taxing district requires approval by a vote of the residents in each proposed area.

The alternative to creation of taxing districts, which would levy a special property tax to pay for the work, is a special assessment that would treat the work as a property improvement requiring no prior approval by residents through a referendum.

ONE LUCKY swing will do the trick and send the hidden goodies from this pinata flying about. The pinata party Wednesday at the Palatine Library was held in conjunction with the library's Spanish program. Three pinatas were broken to the delight of dozens of anxious children.

How to buy a home topic of program

The Palatine Park District will sponsor a program at 7:30 p.m. Thursday featuring three local real estate brokers who will talk about how to purchase home.

The meeting will be at the Palatine Public Library, 500 N. Benton St.

The meeting is open to the public, but park district officials suggest calling the library at 358-5881 for reservations.

Pros to test Olympic team tonight

by BOB FRISK

Time is not on the side of the U.S. Olympic basketball team.

It is very difficult to achieve total cohesion in any team sport in just four weeks.

Just how much progress has been made? Area basketball fans will be the judges tonight.

A capacity crowd of 3,500 will jam the Prospect High School fieldhouse at 8 p.m. today for the only Midwest appearance by the team. Coach Dean Smith's Olympians will battle the Midwest All-Stars coached by Ray

Meyer of DePaul University.

ALTHOUGH THE game is a sellout, it will be broadcast on WMM-FM (92.7), starting at 7:30 p.m.

The contest is cosponsored by the Mount Prospect State Bank and Prospect High School Boosters Club. The Olympic team will arrive in the afternoon today and depart Friday morning after staying at the Arlington Park Hilton.

"I'm greatly impressed with the attitude and unselfishness of our team," said Smith as he prepared to bring the Olympians to Mount Prospect.

"The players are giving up six-footers when someone else has a layup attempt. This is one of the best shooting teams ever — college or pro!"

Smith's team split with the professional Denver Nuggets in two appearances and then handled the Spanish Olympic team and Israeli Nationals. They shot an incredible 81 per cent in overwhelming the Israelis, 123-69, but should have more problems tonight against a team of professionals coached by Meyer.

THE MIDWEST All-Stars have had three practice sessions at Prospect

High. A definite lineup was still unsettled Wednesday, depending on the availability of certain players, but Clifford Ray of the Golden State Warriors has joined the club.

Ray, a former member of the Chicago Bulls, will now operate with Bob Love and Mickey Johnson of the Bulls in a front line that should give the Olympians an interesting argument. The 6-9, 222-pound Ray starred on the Warriors' 1975 NBA champions after being traded to Golden State for Nate Thurmond. He is only a fair shooter but a ferocious rebounder and tough defensive player.

Junior Bridgeman of the Milwaukee Bucks also joined the Midwest All-Stars Wednesday. The 6-5, 210-pound Bridgeman was a two-time Missouri Valley Conference MVP at Louisville, who was acquired from the Los Angeles Lakers in the Abdul-Jabbar deal.

The Midwest entry needs all the firepower it can put together because the Olympic team has class at every position, particularly at forward where 6-7 Scott May — college player of the

Daley credits mom for marriage bliss

Forty years to the day after his wedding day, Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley gave his mother credit for helping to make the marriage work. Daley told reporters Wednesday his mother told him, "Don't let the sun go down until you talk to your friends and talk to your wife if you have any differences." The mayor spent most of his anniversary day with his wife, Eleanor, and their children.

Sex behind girl's death

Police said Wednesday "sex and some nut" lay behind the killing of Lori Bolger, 16, whose body was found Tuesday near a sewage treatment plant southwest of Elgin. Officers said the girl died of a fractured skull. It has not been determined whether she was raped, but police said her jeans were pulled down and her sweater pulled up. Miss Bolger, who lived in South Elgin with her mother and two brothers, was last seen by her family when she was dropped off for a driver's education class at Larkin High School in Elgin.

Fireworks illegal in state: Johnson

Firecrackers, sparklers and most other forms of fireworks are illegal in Illinois unless the user has a permit, Law Enforcement Director Harvey Johnson Jr. warned Wednesday. "All forms of firecrackers, roman candles, skyrockets, smoke bombs and sparklers are prohibited," Johnson said. Sale or use of these articles can be punished by a fine and up to six months in jail. Illinois Fire Marshal Robert Walsh said six persons died in Illinois fireworks accidents last year and 85 others suffered serious injuries. Most of the accidents were caused by "gross negligence" and most of the children of teenagers, he said.

IBJ elimination bid fails

An effort to eliminate the Illinois Bureau of Investigation failed Wednesday in the House but not before its 169 agents were compared to the Keystone Cops. Rep. Samuel McGrew, D-Geneseo, said three IBJ agents "came to Warren County to investigate the sale of marijuana. They secured the dubious plant and went around to see who was interested. Only trouble was," McGrew said, "they failed to tell local police and were arrested for selling it and spent the night in jail."

Arson link to firemen probed

State investigators have been called in to determine whether disgruntled East St. Louis firemen, who walked off the job after being denied a pay increase, set a series of more than 20 fires in abandoned buildings. Mayor William E. Mason, who said the city can not afford to pay the 10 per cent pay raise which has been withheld since Jan. 1, said the Illinois Bureau of Investigation and the state fire marshal would be asked to help investigate the series of fires which began Tuesday night and continued early Wednesday. No injuries were reported.

House supports conjugal visits

A resolution urging the Illinois Dept. of Corrections to experiment with conjugal visits between prisoners and their spouses passed the House Wednesday. The measure (HJR96), drafted by the House Judiciary II Committee, says California and Mississippi have tested the program and found it cuts down the number of repeat offenders and gives prisoners closer ties to society when they leave prison. Rep. Romie Palmer, R-Blue Island, said he does not believe prisoners should be "neutered. They should be anchored to society in some way. This could also reduce homosexuality."

Senate approves UI budget

The Illinois Senate Wednesday sent the fiscal 1977 budget bills for the University of Illinois and Southern Illinois University to Gov. Daniel Walker's desk. The Senate voted 52-2 to accept three House amendments to the U of I budget bill (S1628), bringing the total for that system's three campuses to $276.5 million for the coming fiscal year. One amendment would add $60,000 to the bill for an energy resources center at the Chicago Circle campus. A second amendment would cut a total of $9 million in capital development projects. A third adding $1.2 million in health program support, would enable 109 additional students to enroll in health professions at the U of I medical school.

Termites may 'derail' Amtrak

MIAMI (UPI) — Amtrak trains from Chicago and New York may soon be reaching the end of the line at Hollywood, Fla., unless a temporary Miami depot can be arranged to replace the termite-ridden Miami station.

Amtrak officials say the Miami station must be closed within 60 to 90 days.

The depot was built 40 years ago by Seaboard Air Line R.R. Seaboard merged with the Atlantic Coast Line R.R. a dozen years ago to form Seaboard Coast Line R.R., whose tracks Amtrak uses.

AFTER SPEAKING with Amtrak officials in Washington, Rep. William Lehman, D-Fla., said three new station sites in north and west Dade County were being discussed and all of them would be more convenient to the SCL yards in Hialeah.

The SCL provides the engine crews and car and locomotive maintenance for Amtrak rolling stock in Florida.

Dist. 211 wrapup*$12 textbook fee to remain in effect

A 1976-77 textbook fee of $12 has been approved by the Palatine Township High School Dist. 211 Board of Education.

The $12 fee is the same as last year, when it was dropped from the $14 fee paid by parents the two previous years. The board was informed Tuesday that although the state has passed a bill stating textbooks should be free, textbooks will not be free until the state decides to fund the proposal.

$3,415 orientation funds OK'd

The board appropriated $3,415 for an orientation program concerning a policy on student rights and responsibilities prepared by students and approved by the board in February.

The money will finance five films, five slide-tape presentations, having the policy duplicated and mailed to students' homes, and posters for publicity. The cost of printing the policy in booklet form for distribution to 11,000 students is $2,695.

The policy outlines student rights, such as first amendment rights and grooming rights, as well as the responsibilities those rights entail.

July 8 summer rap session

The Board approved July 8 as the date for its summer rap session with students.

Students from Palatine, Fremd and Conant high schools already have volunteered to attend the rap session, but students still are being sought from Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates high schools. Interested students should contact the district office at 359-3300.

The board held its first 1976 rap session in January. The purpose of the sessions is to acquaint the board with student views on topics ranging from whether students are prepared for college or jobs when they leave high school to the importance of fine arts to whether the district has too much or too little discipline.

By Arlington Hts. couple*Agent sued in land fraud deal

An Arlington Heights couple who owned a Florida farm and wanted to buy land in Wisconsin have sued a Palatine real estate salesman for $50,000 in a land-trade deal the couple alleges was fraudulent.

Darrell and Lawana Stewart, 208 S. Burton St., have filed suit in Cook County Circuit Court, Chicago, saying that John Olson, a real estate salesman for Vacation Sites, Inc., Hoffman Estates, tried to give the Stewarts false credit on their Florida farm to encourage them to buy a 10-acre farm in Wisconsin.

The suit says Olson, whose license

recently was revoked by the Illinois Real Estate Examining Committee, offered the Stewarts credit which was "fictitious and far in excess of the real value of the (Florida) property."

Olson's attorney, Sidney Schiller, said he would wait until the suit is processed through the courts to comment

E. T. CUNNINGHAM, another attorney for Olson, said Olson's wife Loretta, a real estate broker, Olson and real estate salesman Clifford Kortas still plan to file for a rehearing in Cook County Circuit Court to reconsider their license revocations.

The three agents' licenses were revoked earlier this month after the examining committee found they had violated seven counts of the Real Estate Brokers and Salesman Licensing Act.

They were charged with deception in connection with land-trade deals in which nearly 100 Chicago-area customers traded their Illinois and out-of-state property for a down payment on property in Wisconsin.

No date for a hearing on Stewart's suit has been set. Settlement of the agents' license revocation appeal could take from four to six months.

Explore head tax relief, Fonte urges

Palatine Trustee Richard W. Fonte has proposed the village consider some type of relief for businessmen who would be affected by the proposed head tax if it is approved by the Cook County Board.

"I don't know what it could involve but I do think it should be explored," Fonte said Tuesday. "I have not talked to others on the village board about it and I don't know how many businesses in the village would be affected, but I do think we should provide some type of relief."

Fonte's remarks came in the wake of two days of hearings before the county board on the proposed head tax, which would assess for-profit businesses with 15 or more employees $3 per month per employee. The money to be raised from the tax would be dispersed partially to the communities.

As an example of relief, the trustee proposed a reduction in the business license fee for those businesses affected by the tax if it is approved.

Fonte said he does not know how many businesses in the village employ 15 or more persons so he cannot determine how the village would be affected.

ROBERT RUDD, village administrative assistant, said Tuesday the village licenses 467 firms but because licenses are issued on the basis of square footage, he does not know how many businesses employ more than 15 persons.

Rudd said he will have to check to see if the village has any surveys or documents that indicate the number of employees in each business.

"We have no original sources on it and no numbers on it," Rudd said. "I've been thinking about it myself in view of the proposal (head tax) and we'll have to do a survey," he said.

Fonte said the Chamber of Commerce may be another source to use to find out how many businesses would be affected by the proposed tax. However, not all businesses are members of the chamber.

"I don't know how we'd go about providing relief, but I think it's something we should talk about," Fonte said.

The Lake Park Estates Homeowners Assn. will hold its annual meeting at 7 p.m. today at the Palatine Township Hall, 37 N. Plum Grove Rd.

Among items to be discussed is a proposed complex of low-and moderate-income housing west of Quentin Road between Dundee Road and Northwest Highway. The 49-acre site, known as the Koop property, was once considered for the Northwest suburban driver testing station.

The area was rejected as a driver testing site because of poor soil.

Developers of the site appeared in January before the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals. They received a year-long extension on their zoning proposals in order to answer more fully questions raised at that public zoning hearing.

The Palatine Township Board of Auditors had forwarded a letter to the zoning board outlining its objections to the proposed project. The letter included objections to the high density of the project and the advisability of building on a marshy area.

Persons interested in singing for the July 4 interdenominational religious service scheduled as part of Palatine's Bicentennial activities should attend a practice session at 8 p.m. today at the Presbyterian Church of Palatine, 800 E. Palatine Rd.

The service will be at 8:30 a.m. July 4 at Community Park, 262 E. Palatine Rd. Officials from various churches in Palatine will take part in the service and Sister Jean Tranel of St. Thomas Church will deliver the main address.

'Magnificent 7' volunteer to aid historical society

Seven persons including two Palatine bank presidents and the president of the Chamber of Commerce have agreed to serve on the Palatine Historical Society's museum development committee.

The residents agreed to serve on the committee at the request of Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones, who serves as chairman of the group. Several other officials contacted have indicated they also are willing to serve on the committee but their written confirmation has not been received.

Those who have agreed to serve on the funding committee include:

- Willis Glasgow, president of the Palatine National Bank, who will serve as co-chairman of the committee.

Willis A. Glasgow

Wendell E. Jones

- Dr. Ronald J. Larko, president of the Palatine Chamber of Commerce
- Winn C. Davidson, president of the Bank of Palatine
- Florence Parkhurst, president of the Historical Society
- Gerald McElroy, president of the Palatine Public Library Board
- Thomas Ahern, chairman of the Palatine Bicentennial Committee
- Walden Dwyer, president of the Palatine Park District Board

FUNDRAISING projects for the group have not been planned but Jones has said efforts will concentrate on businesses and corporations who can contribute large sums of money rather than small, individual contributions.

The committee's goal is to raise $11,000 which will be used in initial renovation of the museum building at 221 E. Palatine Rd. The 104-year-old house was recently purchased for $48,000 with funds from the Palatine Library Board which will act as co-owners of the building along with the Palatine Park District.

The building will house numerous exhibits and an historical library book collection.

The historical society has received more than $8,000 in donations from individual contributors toward the renovation fund.

Rent-A-Kid job service offered by three groups

If you can groom a poodle, you just might have a job as a rented kid.

Rent-A-Kid is a free job referral service sponsored this summer by the Palatine Jaycees, the Jaycee Auxiliary and The Bridge. And they need kids to fill some 30 job inquiries from potential employers.

Most of the job offers are for lawn mowing, babysitting, painting and housekeeping, but there's been that one gem: a poodle groomer still unfilled.

We've gotten good vibes from the employers we have been able to find kids for. Sam Sharp of the Bridge said, "We just need more kids."

About 20 students 11 to 15 years old already have filed their applications with The Bridge. The application requires the signature of the parent's approval. The Bridge also tries to match worker to employer by neighborhood to avoid transportation problems for those students too young to drive.

Last summer more than 150 teen-agers worked at jobs found in a similar job referral service. Sharp said the sponsors would like to continue the referral throughout the school year.

Employers pay minimum wages of 75 cents an hour for babysitting and $1.50 for manual labor.

The program continues through Aug. 27. Teen-agers interested in working should file their applications with The Bridge at 4111 N. Northwest Hwy. Employers also should place their job orders with The Bridge.

U.S. Olympic team here for game tonight

by BOB FRISK

Time is not on the side of the U.S. Olympic basketball team.

It is very difficult to achieve total cohesion in any team sport in just four weeks.

Just how much progress has been made? Area basketball fans will be the judges tonight.

A capacity crowd of 3,500 will jam the Mount Prospect High School fieldhouse at 8 p.m. today for the only Midwest appearance by the team. Coach Dean Smith's Olympians will battle the Midwest All-Stars coached by Ray Meyer of DePaul University.

ALTHOUGH THE game is a sellout, it will be broadcast on WWMM-FM (92.7), starting at 7:30 p.m.

The contest is cosponsored by the Mount Prospect State Bank and Prospect High School Boosters Club. The Olympic team will arrive in the afternoon today and depart Friday morning after staying at the Arlington Park Hilton.

"I'm greatly impressed with the attitude and unselfishness of our team," said Smith as he prepared to bring the Olympians to Mount Prospect. "The players are giving up six-footers when someone else has a layup attempt. This is one of the best shooting teams ever — college or pro!"

Smith's team split with the professional Denver Nuggets in two appearances and then handled the Spanish Olympic team and Israeli Nationals. They shot an incredible 81 per cent in overwhelming the Israelis, 123-69, but should have more problems tonight against a team of professionals coached by Meyer.

THE MIDWEST All-Stars have had three practice sessions at Prospect High. A definite lineup was still unsettled Wednesday, depending on the availability of certain players, but Clifford Ray of the Golden State Warriors has joined the club.

Ray, a former member of the Chicago Bulls, will now operate with Bob Love and Mickey Johnson of the Bulls in a front line that should give the Olympians an interesting argument. The 6-9, 222-pound Ray starred on the Warriors' 1973 NBA champions after being traded to Golden State for Nate Thurmond. He is only a fair shooter but a ferocious rebounder and tough defensive player.

Junior Bridgeman of the Milwaukee

Bucks also joined the Midwest All-Stars Wednesday. The 6-5, 210-pound Bridgeman was a two-time Missouri Valley Conference MVP at Louisville, who was acquired from the Los Angeles Lakers in the Abdul-Jabbar deal.

The Midwest entry needs all the firepower it can put together because the Olympic team has class at every position, particularly at forward where 6-7 Scott May — college player of the

Undercover agents nab 100 vandals in village

by MARSHA S. BOSLEY

Two undercover agents in the Mount Prospect Police Dept. have made 100 vandalism-related arrests since April, when they began a special village-wide patrol.

"Vandalism is on the rise nationally," said Police Chief Ralph J. Doney. "We knew we'd suffer an increase in vandalism this year because of the age category of the kids in Mount Prospect. They (vandals) are anywhere from 11 to 21."

As a result, Doney relieved 33-year-old Leonard Young and 28-year-old Jim Edwards from their regular patrol duties to create what he called a "vandalism detail. I felt it was worthwhile to form the detail strictly to apprehend vandals," Doney said.

YOUNG AND EDWARDS, dressed in street clothes, patrol the community daily in an unmarked car looking primarily for vandalism. "We can get into something a lot closer in civilian attire and an unmarked car," Young said. "Some kids do resent the uniform image. We carry handcuffs and the same equipment in our car as a black-and-white (squad car) does."

The two plain-clothesmen have picked up suspects for violations ranging from marijuana possession to unlawfully operating mini-bikes. The bulk of their arrests have been related to alcohol — from transporting open bottles to possession of liquor by a minor.

"Contraband is all conducive to the activity we're trying to stop now," Young said. "When you're high or intoxicated, you're more apt to commit acts of vandalism." Doney said a vandal is not a vandal until he is stimulated.

More than 500 incidents of vandalism amounting to $46,000 in damage have been reported in Mount Prospect since January. "Any town that tells you they're not in the 100 figure each month is lying," Doney said. "By no means have we stopped vandalism, but if it weren't for these two men on the streets nightly making arrests, our vandalism rate might be 50 per cent higher."

One reason for creating the vandalism patrol was an increase in service calls. The Mount Prospect police received about 2,000 more service calls from residents in 1975 than in 1974. "Our regular patrols couldn't keep abreast of the vandals," Doney admitted. He said officers other than Young and Edwards still are arresting some vandals.

MOST VANDALISM occurs in the northeast section of the village, Doney

by JOE SWICKARD

While Arlington Heights is grappling with a persistent vandalism problem, one Wisconsin town seems to have found a way to roll back the tide of destruction.

Next week, two members of the village's Zero Vandalism Committee will go to Wauwatosa, Wis., to learn how that Milwaukee suburb reduced vandalism by 16 per cent last year through a program of "positive peer group pressure."

Committee members Arthur Gollberg and Joyce Zeller, will take part in a one-day seminar sponsored by the Wauwatosa Chamber of Commerce, which sponsored the successful vandalism reduction program.

William J. Tetzlaff, the executive director of the Wauwatosa Chamber of Commerce, said the program is not "anti-vandalism" as much as it is "positive prevention."

THE KEY TO THE program has been involvement of the town's youths in educating each other, Tetzlaff said.

"There were two basic approaches we took to the problem. One is that most vandals think of it as an impersonal crime, if a window gets broken at the school; it doesn't hurt anyone. We try to personalize the crimes with the fact that it does hurt someone when it happens," Tetzlaff said.

The second approach is that acts of vandalism, no matter how small, will not be tolerated in the town, he said.

"We won't accept vandalism — perod. There's no excuse for it," Tetzlaff said.

Using these two basic premises, a group of students were recruited to spread the word among the other children of the town. Often times, high school students would go back to their junior high schools for the discussions and junior high school students would take the message to the elementary schools.

THE "YOUTH-TO-YOUTH" program involved the showing of an 11-minute film followed by an open discussion of the problem with the older student leading the way.

Tetzlaff said teachers were not in the rooms during the programs so the children could be more open in their questions and answers.

In Wauwatosa, the efforts were aimed "almost exclusively" at schools rather than stepped-up enforcement or the passage of new or stronger ordinances, a tactic being used in Arlington Heights.

"We were careful not to sensationalize vandalism. It's not a game between the cops and the kids. If it gets to be a game, the kids are going to win almost every time," Tetzlaff said.

"PEOPLE THINK THAT more policemen and more laws will lessen the problem. We found that approach wasn't being effective. We were looking for a change in attitude — the ability of the youths to say no to

'Vital data' kept from Warren panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Warren Commission never considered the possibility that John F. Kennedy's assassination was arranged by Fidel Castro because the CIA never told the panel about plans to kill the Cuban premier, according to a Senate study released Wednesday.

The 106-page report said the CIA and FBI withheld certain vital data from the Warren Commission, including secret reports about two mysterious travelers who fled to Cuba after Kennedy's murder in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963 — another failure to look into "the Cuban connection."

While the report, prepared by a task force directed by Sens. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., and Gary Hart, D-Colo., pointed to several new leads, it said it had no evidence to overturn the Warren Commission's conclusion Lee Harvey Oswald was Kennedy's sole assassin, acting alone.

But Schweiker said the CIA and FBI were engaged in "a coverup" that kept the Warren Commission from following every lead and "there is no longer any reason to have faith in its picture of the Kennedy assassination." He said a new investigation is needed "before the American people will ever know the truth."

The report said former CIA Director Allen W. Dulles, one of the seven members of the Warren Commission, never told the six other members

11 landowners file disannex suit

Eleven owners of an 80-acre tract at Schoenbeck and Hintz roads in Prospect Heights have filed for disannexation from the new city.

It is the third disannexation request to be filed against the city in Cook County Circuit Court since the community was incorporated in January.

The 80-acre parcel includes homes, several working farms and the Schmitt Nursery, 2328 Schoenbeck Rd., and is bounded by unincorporated Cook County and the Village of Wheeling.

DONALD SCHMITT, owner of the nursery and spokesman for the residents, said the disannexation suit was filed in court earlier this week.

The residents are seeking the disannexation because they believe they can receive better services from nearby Wheeling and because they fear Prospect Heights officials will impose a municipal property tax. City officials have said such a tax will not be necessary in the near future.

"We have always objected, as a group, to the incorporation of Prospect Heights. We filed our objections in the courts. We said we would disannex from the new city, and this is what we are trying to do," Schmitt said.

Schmitt also said the property owners, who may choose to sell their parcels in the future, would probably receive more favorable zoning from Wheeling than from Prospect Heights.

CIRCUIT COURT JUDGE Harry G. Commerford is expected to hear the disannexation suit at 9:30 a.m. July 19 in his Chicago Civic Center chambers.

The owner of a 31-acre parcel, located on Sanders Road just south of Willow Road on the city's eastern edge, also has filed for disannexation.

The land is the proposed site for a $20 million office building, plans for which already have been approved by Cook County.

The owner, Maryland Life Insurance Co., Baltimore, Md., has not commented on the disannexation request, although it is believed increased taxation is feared.

THE OWNERS OF Aligauer's Fire-side Inn, 2855 Milwaukee Ave.; the Holiday Inn, 2875 Milwaukee Ave., and the Preiser Boarding Kennels, 2975 Milwaukee Ave., also have jointly filed for disannexation from Prospect Heights.

Hearings on both disannexation suits are being scheduled in Circuit Court.

Pal-Waukee airport won't be restricted: city

The Prospect Heights City Council has taken steps to reassure Pal-Waukee Airport owner George Priester that the city has no intentions of restricting airport operations.

The council passed a resolution earlier this week against interfering with airport procedures. The action was taken to discourage Priester from filing in Circuit Court for disannexation from the new city.

However, Priester said Wednesday the resolution "does not have any teeth in it and would not stand up in court."

"Even an ordinance wouldn't be any good," he said. "Future councils could repeal it and slap restrictions on the airport right away."

"WHAT THE CITY council did was in good faith, but we need to defend ourselves. Our attorneys tell us there is no assurance the city council can give us that will stand up in court without question," Priester said.

Airport attorneys have drawn up a disannexation suit but Priester said he will not file it "until I'm sure the city attorney can't come up with some guaranteed protection for the airport."

Property owners have one year from the date of incorporation to file for disannexation from the new city, according to state law.

Priester has said he fears the city will establish curfews for take-off and landing of planes and limit the type of aircraft that can use the airport to control noise.

Priester said he wants the city to guarantee that as long as the airport complies with Federal Aviation Administration and state standards, it will not be harassed by Prospect Heights. Priester said he wants an agreement lasting "at least 25 years."

SOME PRIVATE airports in the country have been forced to close recently because of "political pressures from the cities they were located in" and because of residents complaining about the noise, Priester said.

About half of the 40-acre airport was included in the boundaries of Prospect Heights at the city's eastern end. The remainder of the airport is in unincorporated Cook County.

Priester said he also objects to half of his airport falling under Cook County jurisdiction, while the other half is governed by Prospect Heights.

Diamond ring, cash taken in two thefts

Burglars broke into a bicycle shop and a home in Mount Prospect and stole $10 and a diamond ring, police reported Wednesday.

Police said thieves wrenched open the rear door of Bill's Bikes and Hobbies, 1841 W. Algonquin Rd., between 11:30 p.m. Tuesday and 9:45 a.m. Wednesday.

Bill Wirth, owner of the shop, discovered the break-in Wednesday morning and told police the thieves had taken $10 cash, police said.

Police also reported the home of Herbert C. Martinez III, 1750 Palm Dr., was broken into between 8 a.m. Monday and 4 a.m. Tuesday.

The thieves reportedly forced open the home's front door and took a two-diamond ring valued at $200.

Township to fix roads only in crises

Wheeling Township will continue to provide only emergency road maintenance to the new city of Prospect Heights until a contract between the two can be reached.

Township Atty. Richard Cowen has told the Wheeling Township auditors that such an agreement is "still a long way away."

Township Highway Comr. Arthur

Olsen has notified the city of his department's intention to provide only emergency highway assistance and not "routine maintenance."

Emergency service includes removing fallen trees after a wind or rain-storm, replacing fallen highway signs, repairing potholes or "anything else that presents an immediate danger to the public," Olsen said.

The township highway department has been instructed to charge the city retroactively for routine road services rendered after the May 24 municipal elections. The township provided about $2,000 of routine work from May 25 through June 7, Olsen said.

It has provided about $200 of emergency work to the city, Olsen said, including replacing two stop signs and patching some road surface.

Cowen told the auditors the township reserves the right to retroactively charge Prospect Heights for services rendered before an eventual contract is reached.

Zoners meeting today for first time

The Prospect Heights Zoning Commission will conduct its first meeting at 7:30 p.m. today in the Gary Morava Recreation Center, 110 W. Camp McDonald Rd.

Fred Kelly, commission chairman, is urging residents to attend the meeting to help formulate the new city's zoning policies.

The commission recently was appointed by Prospect Heights Mayor Richard E. Wolf to recommend to the city council zoning boundaries and regulations.

Kelly said the commission's meetings will be work sessions.

things that are wrong," he said.

This "ability to say no" may be carried over later to other problem areas, such as drugs and alcohol, he said.

Tetzlaff said the program, a community project of the Chamber of Commerce, has tried to take a positive approach to the problem rather than being "anti-vandalism," Tetzlaff said.

"It's like starting a fire prevention program. You don't go out and hire double the number of firemen. You get people that will help prevent fires before they start," he said.

TETZLAFF SAID THE declining rate of vandalism has continued through the first four months of 1976. He said there has been an 18 per cent reduction so far this year.

"Each city is different. I'm not saying what has worked here will work in other towns," he said.

But so far, 70 persons from Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota have registered for the Wauwatosa seminar to see if the lessons learned there can be applied in their hometowns.

Blast victim remains in serious condition

A Mount Prospect woman remained in serious condition Wednesday night from burns suffered in an explosion at her home.

Ruth L. Dickinson, 46, of 600 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect, suffered second and third degree burns over 50 per cent of her body Monday morning when vapors of a lacquer base used in refinishing wooden floors exploded. She was taken to the burn unit at Evanston Hospital, where she remained late Wednesday.

Hospital officials said Ms. Dickinson's condition has remained unchanged since her arrival Monday. Firefighters are investigating cause of the blast. Reportedly no one was smoking at the time of the explosion.
